and Toronto.

Montreal, Jan. 8.—(Special.)—For some weeks past a man named Jockey, alias Shernan, has been going through some of the coys both in Montreal and Toronto. He arst came to the Balmoral Hotel, and, stating that he was the general manager of the ing that he was the general manager of the Pabst Brewing Company of Milwaukee, thus effected a few loans. However, Mr. A. H. Brown, the manager of that concern in Montreal, soon hunted him down, and he admitted having no connection with the company, but had been samply playing a loke on the boys. This done his next neld was Toronto, and the other day Mr. Brown had a call from a Toronto gentleman, who stated that he gave a certain sum of money of one George M. Sherman, whose card fore the following: "Representing Pabst Brewing Company, Milwaukee, Traveling Auditor," and he stated that the Montreal nanager would honor the order. This was httpe too much of a good thing and Mr. frown has taken steps to expose the prost-onstituted beer magnate.

Council of the International Typographical asylpm. Union closed a three days' session in this city to-day. The most important development of the meeting was the action of the council recommending the levy of a 5c per capita assessment to meet the recent assessment made on the amion by the Federation of Labor. This brought to light the fact that the funds of the union are at an alarmingly low ebb. In round figures there is now in the treasury $9900, and of this amount $6795 is tied up in Government bonds. The 5c per capita assessment on all the members amounts to over $1500, and if this sum had been paid from the general fund considerable financial embarrassment would have been encountered.

TOOTHLESS WOMAN'S SUICIDE.

Miss Richter of Quincy Killed Herself Because She Had No Teeth. Quincy, Ill., Jan. 8.—Miss Katle Richter, aged 23, committed suicide at the home of Louis Ebert last night. She used a revolver, the ball entering her right temple.

The cause assigned by herself was that she suffered from melancholia due to her inability to have a set of false teeth fitted to her mouth. Three years ago her teeth were extracted, and by the early use of false teeth her gums were ruined, and dentists were unable to help her. She was a handsome woman.

CROMER'S SPEECH AT OMDURMAN

About an English Protectorate Ove Egypt Has Attracted Attention In Political Circles.

n, If other nations try to force the situation by resenting the "Queen and Khedive," passage, it will be said that the Soudan will merely be governed as a conquered province, with the Sirdar as the despotic ruler.

in any case, however, this probably is not he last that will be beard of the Egyptic Consul-General's bold declaration.

Soudan a Joint Possession.

New York, Jan. 8.—The Tribune's London. New York, Jan. 8.—The Tribune's London correspondent, referring to Lord Cromer's speech at Omdurman last week, says:

"Lord Cromer's speech at Omdurman is the Imperial topic this opening week of the new year. It confirms the impression made to by Lord Salisbury's speeches on the Fashods affair that the Soudan is held by virtue of fresh conquests, as well as the former occupation by the Khedive, and that for the new form of government both England and Egypt will be jointly responsible, while the natives will look to the Sirdar alone. The Soudan will be a joint possession, and not an outlying empire of the Khedive, with a shadowy fiction of the Sultan's nominal suzerainty. Certainly, a British protectorate has been established over the Soudan, if not over Egypt, and one virtually includes the other.

A Subtile Statesman.

"Lord Salisbury is a singularly subtle statesman. He played with the audience at the recent Guild Hall banquet, when it was eager to have him amnounce a British protectorate over Egypt as a sequel to the Fashoda affair. He now sends Lord Cromer 1600 miles up 'the Nile to play with France and Turkey in defining a situation which cannot be distinguished from a protectorate over the entire Nile Valley. For refinement of phrasing and method, this

The Diplomatic Tour Timely. The Diplomatic Tour Timely.

"A diplomatic tour de force like this is timely; for, even with the fresh victory of Col. Lewis at Rosaries, the military operations in the Soudan are clouded by serious charges of wanton cruelty to the Pervish wounded at Omdurman. If these charges were made by an amateur war correspondent alone, denials from profess onal associates would end the controversy; but Mr. Bennett's startling story is confirmed by private letters of British soldiers, stating that wounded Dervishes were killed with lances, swords and revolvers. An official enquiry alone will decide whether these barbarities were isolated cases, and whother any officers of the British army were responsible for the killing of the wounded."

Rome, Jan. 8.—A few young swell mem-ters of the mob have been reaping a rich harvest from American and English woharvest from American and English women visitors to Rome by means of a new variation of a confidence trick. The trickster selects a likely victim in an omnibus, introduces himself by means of some smail act of politeness and chats in perfect English, displaying an intimate acquaintance with the Pope's household. When the victim shows a deep interest the mobsman says he is a member of the Pope's noble body guard, and could manage to let her see His Hollness if she wishes.

The delighted lady is generally anxious for this privilege, and the pseudo count casually remarks that 10 or 25 lare will be necessary for a tip to the chapel janitor, The victim produces this, gives her address and goes her way rejoicing, but never again sees the fascinating nobleman. There have been crowdes of such victims of late.
