The House of Commons from time far gone past.

At 4 o'clock the members of the House of Commons attended in the senate chamber, where his excellency had taken his seat on the throne. The galleries were full and a great deal of interest was taken in the proceedings.

Advancing to the bar of the senate, the speaker-elect of the commons, who was dressed in his robes of office, doffed his three-cornered hat and announced to his excellency that he had been chosen by the House of Commons as their speaker, and he prayed that his excellency might make him a good speaker.

The newly-elected speaker then read prayers in the presence of crowded galleries, an unusual proceeding.

GOVERNMENT INSPECTION OF BANKS.

Mr. Monk (Jacques Cartier, in view of the recent financial disturbance in Montreal, asked that the government appoint a bank inspector in order to restore public confidence.

Mr. Fielding said he fully realized the importance of the question, and he would give the question due consideration. It has been represented to the government that the appointment of such inspectors would have a somewhat misleading effect upon the public mind, and that inspection at the best would not be thorough. Unless it was full and complete it would be far better that there should be no inspection at all on the part of the government.

Mr. Fielding said an amendment to the banking act would be brought in at the next session, and the appointment of an inspector would be considered meanwhile.

TROOPS IN THE YUKON.

The house then went into supply, and the supplementary estimates for the militia contingent in the Yukon were taken up. Dr. Borden stated, in reply to a question, that it had been decided to withdraw one-half of the troops as soon as arrangements had been made with the United States authorities for the troops to land at Skagway.

Col. Hughes expressed the hope that Skagway was not a United States port. Dr. Borden explained that under existing conditions there was no way of getting the troops out unless by landing at a port which is now held by the United States.

THE SWEATING SYSTEM.

Mr. Bergeron again brought up the question of the manner in which Messrs. Workman & Company of Montreal, had written last year their contract for militia clothing. He read a statement showing that a large number of trousers and overcoats were made by parties outside the Workman factory. Although the Workman Company had got the contract at a higher figure on condition that the work would not be given out.

Dr. Borden explained that the Workman Company had been given a contract to make clothing for the militia, and he had to let the work out to get it done in time. Dr. Borden explained that the government had, at the request of the labor organizations, put an anti-sweating clause in the clothing contracts, and were determined to abide by it, as far as possible.

Mr. Mulock strongly denounced the sweating system. He said it was a square issue between the opposition and the government as to the propriety of the government paying $2,000 more for the work to be done under proper sanitary conditions and proper wages. The government was prepared to accept that issue and go before the country upon the point, that the work should be done by competent workmen at the current rate of wages and under proper sanitary conditions.

Mr. Foster criticized the militia estimates as too high.

Dr. Borden argued that if an expenditure of a million and a quarter gave a militia force which was not effective, and a quarter of a million more would make it effective, it was good policy to give the money and spend the extra quarter of a million, and that was the policy which the government had adopted.

RAILWAYS AND CANALS.

The remainder of the supplementary estimates for the militia were passed, and the items under the head of railways and canals capital account were considered.

Ottawa, Aug. 2.—A son of Dr. R. W. Powell, Montague Powell, met with a serious accident on the Gatineau. The boy and some companions were handling a shotgun, which they did not know was loaded. AUGUST

Windsor's Colored People Celebrated Emancipation Day.

Windsor, Aug. 2.—Yesterday was Emancipation Day, and Windsor's colored population, in its best bits and tucker, was on dress parade, and enjoying itself in the usual way.

They always own the town on Emancipation Day, and are allowed all kinds of liberty. Nothing short of a riot would cause the Detroit City band, with the colored people's celebration. There were not as many colored visitors in Windsor as usual, although a large crowd came over from Detroit.

There was a procession in the morning, headed by the Detroit City band, and in the afternoon a programme of sports and speeches, under the direction of the Windsor Social Club, took place at the mineral springs. Addresses were delivered by ex-Ald. P. A. Barnes, Editor Dickinson, of the Windsor World, and others. A banquet in the opera house wound up the day's proceedings.

Chatham, Ont., Aug. 1.—Emancipation day dawned fair and bright upon the union celebration, which was given today by the colored citizens under the auspices of the Grand United Order of Oddfellows, Knights Templar and Knights of Pythias. The visitors were received at the Grand Trunk station by Chatham officers, and were welcomed to the city. Afterwards they were conducted to the lodge rooms, where the opening of the District Grand Lodge of Oddfellows took place, and a public reception was given by the Chatham officers, on behalf of the Chatham lodges, read the address of welcome. The address was read by Grand Master Taylor, of London, in eloquent language. The district grand lodge was then opened and routine business transacted. The session lasted all morning, and will continue tomorrow.
