When I tell you I've got something good you can "bank" on my word that there is something doing. The "trick" to-day is something that I can't say much about, as the horse is trained by a particular friend of mine. Every horse obtained from this source has made good, and usually at a long price. The "stable folk" have kept this one "under cover" for weeks. This is the day it's to be turned loose. I want every one of my clients to have a good bet down. If you are not already one of my clients, here is your opportunity to enter your name on my books and see what real inside information is like. Brantford Pros Arrive From Pittsburg.
BRANTFORD, Dec. 19.—(Special.)—
Tommy Smith, Povey and Macdonald joined the Brantford pros. here to-day from Pittsburg. The players say the story that they were waited upon by the Pittsburg police and told to return some hockey paraphernalla is absolutely false. Salary grievances were the cause of their jump. Manager Brown has secured Throop, the left wing of the Lyceums to take Ward's place, who has joined the Montreal Shamrocks.

The sale of

gram of boxing, singing and refreshments. There are six exceptinally good bouts on the program. Mr. Jack Platt will perform on the piano. The address, 53 Strange-street. Don't forget their box social on Christmas Eve. All the boxing bouts are under the control of Billy Baker, who has opened a boxing school at the Reliance rooms. Early Talk of Spring. NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—The first of the big league baseball teams to announce spring training plans is the New York American team. It will go to Macon, Ga., March I, for the first practice games. Manager George Stallings gave out the itinerary of the club to-day. It contemplates games at Augusta, Atlanta, Athens and other southern cities.

Battling Nelson and Bill Papke New Champions, But Latter Fails to Hold His Place.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Before the year 1906 fades away the heavyweight champlonship of the world may or may not change hands, for Tommy Burns, the present holder of the title—with Jeffries in retirement—will meet Jack Johnson, the colored pugilist, on Dec. 26 in a great stadium at Sydney, New South Wales, but in the other classes no changes seem probable before the new year rolls around. But 1908 will not be forgotten in a hurry by followers of pugilism.

Within the last few months two world's champlonships have changed ownership. Battling Nelson, game and willing, is now the lightweight champlon, and he deserves the title. The Dane has met all-comers, and has yet to be accused of showing the white feather. He won his title as the best man in the world at 133 pounds, ringside by whipping twice in succession the wonderful veteran, Joe Gans.

Gans' downfall was the first pugilistic surprise of the year. When the news was flashed thruout the country and across the ocean that Gans, the incomparable, had been made to bite the dust, sporting men could not belileve it, and instantly formed the opinion that something must have been wrong with the scientific Baltimore negro.

"Gans thought he had a cinch and did not train," they said, and they kept it up so persistently that Nelson, in order to prove again that he was the master, consected to take the colored boxer on in a second mill, Gans suffered his second decisive defeat at the hands of the new lightweight champion, and incidentally proved that he is in a class by himself, for even Gans has repeatedly admitted since that Nelson is the greatest lightweight under the sun.

Just what Nelson may accomplish in the ring as champion remains to be seen. He says he will not fight again until some time next February, but then he will be asked to defend his title in a mill with either Packy McParland or Freddie Welch, both clever men, who appear to outclass the other boxers in the lightweight dhiston. Welch and McFarland met some time ago at Los Angeles in a fast 25-round bout, a champion, as he has easily disposed of all-comers in his class. He is a clever youngster, fast, scientific and game, but as there are few really good bantams nowadays, his task has not been very difficult.

nowadays, his task has not been very difficult.

Jack Blackburn of Philadelphia, a rugged colored boxer, declares that he is the welterweight champion, but the title in this class is somewhat in doubt. Mike (Twin) Sullivan still insists that the title is his, while there are other claimants. The boxing game has thrived in various parts of the country this year, even in New York City, where clubs, for the first time since the Horton law was repealed in 1900, have found a way to entertain members with six-round bouts, but California and Nevada are still the only states in the union where championship fights can be decided.
