BANK OF NOVA SCOTIA HEAD SEES MARITIMES ON PROSPERITY EVE

G. S. CAMPBELL
IN CITY TODAY,
IS OPTIMISTICBelieves Duncan Report Will
Help to Speed Up
RecoveryWORDS OF PRAISE FOR
ADMIRAL BEATTY HERESays People of Halifax Will Get Behind New Hotel
Project

G. S. CAMPBELL, president of the Bank of Nova Scotia, who passed through the city on today's noon train en route to headquarters of the bank in Halifax, where he has official residence, speaks of the Maritime Provinces as slowly recovering from the depression in trade and finance which has characterized post-war years.

He does see, however, prospects of much better conditions, not only under normal circumstances as the Maritimes know them for a long time past, but particularly if the recommendations of the Duncan Commission are materialized.

Mr. Campbell was returning from an administrative session of Bank of Nova Scotia officials held in Toronto. It is necessary to hold such conferences in Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto from time to time because of the inconvenient location of the headquarters city Halifax. Meetings are sometimes held in Saint John. The absorption of the Metropolitan Bank, the Bank of Ottawa and the Bank of New Brunswick by the Nova Scotia institution has been another factor in distributing the conferences territorially.

The bank president from Halifax is strongly of the opinion that the Duncan report should have been placed before the people at large, as at the present time so many persons of the contents of the much-awaited document have been conjectured in the press and by public speakers that the people's minds are becoming mixed on the provisions. At least the ring of absolute surety of the textual content of the document is missing. This keeps the matter dangling.

Asked if the new hotel project for Halifax was assuming shape, Mr. Campbell ventured the opinion that eventually the citizens of the sister city would probably make a concerted effort to launch the scheme and place in the hands of a reputable hotel corporation a high-class hostelry such as the Admiral Beatty in Saint John, an excellent hotel, Mr. Campbell said and equal to anything in the Dominion for comfort and up-to-dateness.
