ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

THE LUCKY WHEEL

"That's the very thing!" said Mr. Bunny. He slipped around the corner and there he was, right at the stand where it said "Take a chance and win a lamp for 10 cents."

"How do you do it?" he said to Nick.

"Well, you pay me 10 cents," said Nick, "and I let you draw a card. Each card has a red number on it. Then I turn this big wheel around and if it stops on your number, you are the lucky one and you get a lamp."

"That's simply fine," said Mister Bunny, running his eye over the right of lamps and wondering which one he would pick out for his wife's birthday present. The lamps looked like baby dolls and the shades were their hats. Some were red and some were blue and some were purple and some were green.

"I think I'll have the yellow one," Mister Bunny decided. "Here, gimme a ticket. Here's my dime."

A lot of people had come around by this time and each one bought a ticket from Nick. "Say," said the rabbit gentleman uneasily, "I wish so many people wouldn't buy tickets. Some one else may get the lucky number instead of me."

"All ready, turn the wheel, Nancy," said Nick.

So Nancy gave the big wheel a whirl and it went around and around and stopped at number six.

"Who has number six?" called out Nick. "Whoever has number six has his ticket gets a lamp."

Mister Bunny looked at his ticket. It said number seven.

"Here, I got number six," called Daddy Cracknuts. "I get the prize. Please give me that yellow lamp on the end."

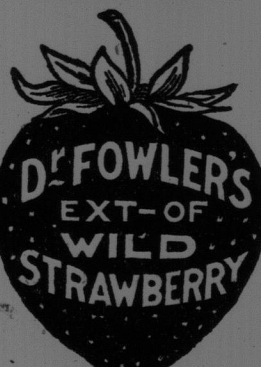

"Oh, well," said Mister Bunny to himself, cheerfully. "I'll win next time. I'll take another chance. And that purple lamp in the middle is almost as pretty as the yellow one, anyway. Here, Nick, I'll buy another ticket," and Mister Bunny hauled out another 10 cents of his picnic money.

"I wonder what's keeping Pa," said Mrs. Bunny pretty soon to her children. "He's been gone nearly half an hour."

"I'll have to tell you tomorrow what Pa's doing. No wonder it took him a long time."

ELKS MADE GREAT SHOWING IN BOSTON

St. John Man Writes of Fifty Thousand Marchers in Parade.

In writing of the parade of the Order of Elks recently held in Boston, a former St. John man says: "It was a wonderful sight—over 50,000 marchers in line, with magnificent floats and all the marchers dressed in some distinctive costume, chiefly representing the cities from which they came. I don't know how many hands there were, but I understand around 75, many of the lodges bringing their own bands with them. Philadelphia Lodges won $1,200 in prizes, which they donated to Boston charities. The crack drill team from Jackson, Mich., which has won the championship for the last five years, gave a remarkable demonstration of marching and counter-marching and various formations. I stood for three hours watching the procession go by and didn't see it all then."

"Unfortunately a heavy rain came on and lasted for half an hour, which tended to spoil the costumes, while the costumes of ladies who were watching the procession were ruined, the papers estimating the loss in thousands of dollars, but the crowd stuck it out despite the rain."

"After the procession passed the streets were littered with hats of all kinds, both those of the men and the stronger sex. The local Elks lodges raised $100,000, with which to entertain the visitors. Valuable loving cups were given for the best dressed or decorated buildings—a first, second and third prize cup—and the same for the best dressed windows. Every firm in Boston competed for one or the other of the prizes. It is estimated that the parade was seen by over 1,000,000 people, and the hotels, boarding houses, rooming houses, etc., were crowded to the limit. You will see by the enclosed, taken from a Boston paper, that prohibition is still enforced, and every one seems to be willing to assist in putting down liquor."

"Wanted in Philadelphia."

"One Boston patrolman has been offered a big job by Philadelphia members of the Elks. This is how it happened. Two of the visitors making a night cruise of the city spotted the officer just making a duty call at the patrol box. They extended their compliments—and more. 'Drink, brother,' said one. 'Sorry, in uniform, on duty, and all that,' said the other. Then he added, 'But don't let that prevent your having one.' 'Shake,' said the visiting 'Bill.' 'Come on down to Philadelphia. You're just the man we want in General Butler's place.' It may be observed that all Elks are 'Bills' and General Butler is the head of the Philadelphia police, loaned to that city by the U. S. government to 'clean up' the town."

Metals, it is said, suffer from fatigue. A razor, which has been in use for one time and becomes dull, can be more easily sharpened if rested for a week.

Cuticura Heals Itching Eczema On Arms and Face

"My trouble began with red blotches and itching and burning on my arms and face, and then eczema broke out with a rash. My face was disfigured and my clothing aggravated the breaking out on my arms. I could not put my hands in water, neither could I do my regular work. At night I lost my rest on account of the irritation."

"The trouble lasted about a month. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Leon Hallock, 104 Atkins St., Bellows Falls, Vt.

Visits will be paid by him to Victoria and Prince Rupert on the British Columbia coast before he returns to the Prairie Provinces to inspect the facilities there. Morning Exercise

After Mr. Mann of Anytown had been doing his morning down for a few weeks he did them with one eye on the clock and his mind fixed on whether or not he had time to finish them.

Then he began to skip them, or be lethargic.

This is not uncommon with persons who take up exercise. But the off-and-on habit will never keep you fit.

Enthusiasm in exercise is as important as the exercise itself.

You should want to do them, like to do them—dispel other thoughts from the mind and have a good time. If the exercises interfere with catching the train or car—GET UP EARLIER.

The results gained from the exercise will be better than the extra few minutes sleep.

Of course, it is not entirely correct that one absolutely has to be emotionally interested. But it is far better that the exercises please than bore the person involved.

Boredom in the exercises is not, however, fatal. It is more inclined to cause the person to quit.

But bored or pleasure—and some means for physical recreation every day.

STUDY MEANS OF TRAFFIC SAFETY

U. S. Commerce Secretary Hoover Calls National Meeting of Experts.

Washington, July 22.—(United Press)—"What can city planning contribute to public safety and accident prevention?"

The answer to this question is one of the problems which the Committee on City Planning and Zoning of the Joint Conference on Street and Highway Safety is seeking. The committee recently met with Secretary of Commerce Hoover, who is heading a widespread movement to study means reducing traffic accidents.

There will be a national meeting early in the fall, which will be attended by more than 100 traffic and safety experts in which the results of their investigations and studies will be considered.

Secretary Hoover believes that city planning has an important part to play in solving the traffic problem of the future.

"Cities are constantly being faced with the necessity of rebuilding themselves," said the secretary. "Some of the principles laid down by this committee after its investigations, may be of assistance to the communities as they attempt to provide an answer to their traffic problems. An advantage of the committee's work will be to bring together the best thoughts of those concerned with city planning and help to furnish a new foundation upon which further progress can be made."

PROHIBITION IN CANADA

A warning to the friends of the liquor trade in this country not to count on the swing of the pendulum against prohibition shown by the recent anti-prohibition vote in British Columbia, Alberta and Manitoba and now Saskatchewan, is given by the Manchester Guardian.

The Guardian says that Saskatchewan's decision, which is typical, makes no return to the saloon bar.

"That evil is gone from North America as surely as the public house will go from England if it sinks to the same depths of sordidness," the Guardian declares; "nor is there any sign that the bulk of Canada will again tolerate private trade in intoxicants."

WANTS TO HELP OTHER WOMEN

Grateful for Health Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toronto, Ont.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for backache and for weak and dreary feelings caused by my condition. Sometimes I felt so bad that I couldn't do my housework. Lee, 25 Harvie Ave. Toronto, Ont.

A WOUND IS AN OPEN DOOR

Absorbine Jr. enables you to shut the door quickly.

The skin is Nature's own protection against germs. When it is bruised, broken, pricked, or cut, protection is drawn. The door is open. As quickly as possible Nature closes it by forming what we call a scab and renders you comparatively safe against infection. But this scab sometimes takes days to form and until it has fully sealed the wound, it is an open door to infection. A few drops of Absorbine Jr. in the water will give you an antiseptic wash and help nature to heal the wound. As well as being a very powerful germicide, Absorbine Jr. will draw out the inflammation and bring instant relief.

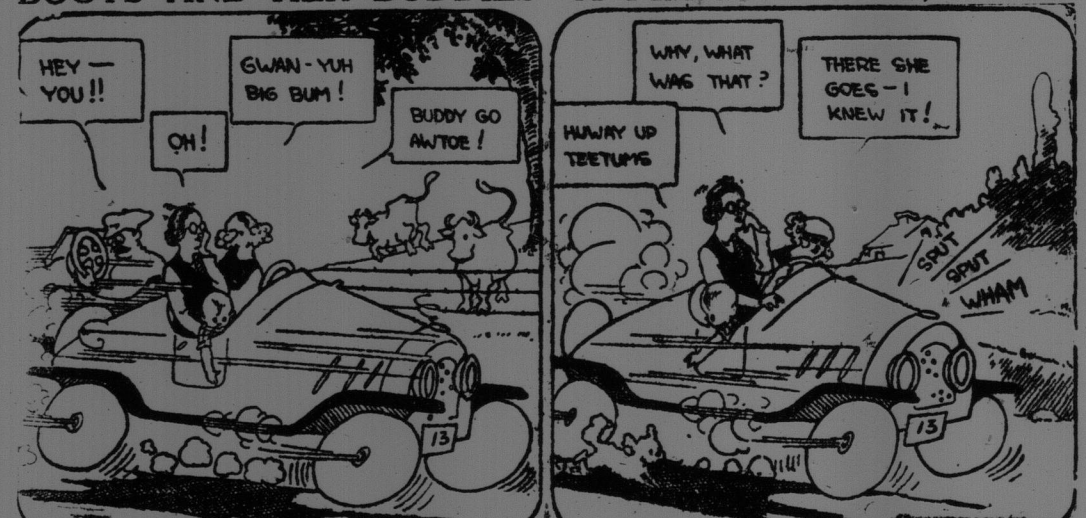

Absorbine Jr. is antiseptic, germicide and liniment in one container—handy to keep always in the house; easy to carry around if you travel.
