Mr. Bostock hoped that the governnent would take hold of the matter and introduce legislation to prevent prospec tuses of an unsavory kind being foisted upon the market and hold the promoters of such conserns responsible to the public for the truth of their statements. British Columbia, he added, was anxious to see capital brought into the country and recognized that if this sort of thing were allowed to continue, and investors lose their money, it would be a great set-back to mining and the province would have to suffer the consequence. He hoped that all information available to the geological survey statistical branch would be brought up to date, and that the statistical staff would increased so that fuller and more re information could be brought forward and given to the public. He said further that he had no hesitation in saying that the mining development of British Columbia was the hope of this country. All looked to the province to attract immigration from abroad.
