

FROM ALL PARTS OF THE MARITIME PROVINCES

FREDERICTON

Fredricton, N. B., Aug. 24—A heavy rain storm last night was pretty general throughout the province, and is believed to have quenched the forest fires on the Northern Mountains. There had previously been little rain during August, and it is fortunate that there were not more forest fires. Lumbermen who have been in the woods declare that the last month has been the driest period of rain in this province in generations. TRAVELLED 4200 MILES

London, Aug. 24—Reports of the return of the German submarine Deutschland from the United States are corroborated by a telegram received at Amsterdam from Bremen, as forwarded by Reuters' correspondent. According to this information, the Deutschland travelled 4200 miles on her homeward voyage. The vessel, under the command of her captain, was seen on her way to the Atlantic coast of the United States. The Deutschland proved to be able to navigate the stormy seas excellently. Her engines worked faultlessly. No icebergs were observed on her journey. The American government, says the despatch, acted in a correct manner as a neutral, vigorously enforcing respect for its frontier from British and French warships by the curfewment of its own men of war, and the submarine succeeded in leaving undetected. A distance of 100 miles was traversed under water without difficulty. The Deutschland returned home slightly damaged, according to an Exchange Telegram despatch from The Hague, which says this information is contained in a telegram from Bremen. The vessel was damaged, but it was unwilling, it adds, to give details of the return voyage. The arrival of the submarine surprised her owners, as she was not expected to dock within a week. Bremen Left Weeg Ago.

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE. "Somewhere in France." Once only pleasant dreams. These were not to bring—dreams of fair, cloudless skies, of stately hills where ancient turrets rise, Of terraced vineyards, rich with purple and red, and there rose grand cathedrals, which stand the years, Have linked with names age old, but honored still. Thither went pilgrims, with their hearts full of prayer, Moved by great memories to prayers and tears. But now, whenever these few words are uttered, they bring to mind a vision of embattled men, Of crashing cannon, of fair fields dyed red. Of ruined homes, where none may live again. Of kisses and flames in deadly, fiendish dance. O God, protect those now "Somewhere in France."—NINETTE M. LOWATER, in N. Y. Sun.

DARK DREAMS

Though light sleepers and divides, and distance and the deep, The darkness smiles at heartless miles Across the Sea of Sleep; The world that is cannot be ours, That must bring dreams of you, And daylight brings tears as friends Deep in the Dark of Dreams. If that I die upon the earth, And come upon a star, And draw to suns we never saw From shades crepuscular, I fear not death, because it means From darkness and despair To light and union—well I know That you will meet me there. And if we sleep—and only sleep, For any waking now, Not through the endless slences, O, what is death, when I fear not death that does for us, What life has failed to do: Oh, I can never dread the sleep That must bring dreams of you, Reginald Wright Kauffman, in Saturday Evening Post.

MAJORITY OF STATES HAS BIG RECRUITING EFFORT. The Amherst recruiting committee has just now followed the lead of the province of New Brunswick and the city of Toronto in the matter of securing officers for the boys who have applied for overseas service and have been rejected for various reasons. TO PASS ON MUNICIPAL LEGISLATION, HIGHLY ADVANCED AS TAX ON WEALTH. Mayor Church, of Toronto, Says Some of Them are Laughing at Stock. When Thomas Adams, town-planning advisor to the Commissioner of Conservation, Ottawa, advocated in the course of a paper this week on "The Town-Planning Act" that local government boards of experts should be established in the various provinces to pass upon legislation of various kinds enacted here and there, the municipalities inside the provincial boundaries, Mayor Thomas E. Church, of Toronto, president of the Union of Canadian Municipalities, took exception. "I do not believe in the appointment of a commission by the provinces for this purpose," said Mayor Church after stating his agreement with the most of the other propositions advanced by Mr. Adams. "The municipalities themselves should fix their own affairs and be before trying to show us how we should manage ours. Some of them are laughing at stock of the dominion for the way in which they are handling their business. The larger municipalities want autonomy. Canada is the most over-governed country in the world. There is no necessity for provincial governments at all in my opinion. They do not go there in England, Scotland, Wales or Ireland. They don't have them in other parts of the empire. We are over-governed and the cost of government is continually going up. There is no need of provincial government at all. The municipal government of Canada, when placed side by side with provincial governments, will compare very favorably from the standpoint of business efficiency. I am of the opinion that town planning should be taken up by municipalities which have secured autonomy, not through the interference of government commissions. The key of sound municipal government, as of everything else, is to have good heads of departments, pay them well, have free hands, make them responsible and let them appoint their own subordinates. Mayors and councils come and go and they have a more temporary effect." Mayor Church said that they should not be allowed to fall off.

Canada is the most over-governed country in the world. There is no necessity for provincial governments at all in my opinion. They do not go there in England, Scotland, Wales or Ireland. They don't have them in other parts of the empire. We are over-governed and the cost of government is continually going up. There is no need of provincial government at all. The municipal government of Canada, when placed side by side with provincial governments, will compare very favorably from the standpoint of business efficiency. I am of the opinion that town planning should be taken up by municipalities which have secured autonomy, not through the interference of government commissions. The key of sound municipal government, as of everything else, is to have good heads of departments, pay them well, have free hands, make them responsible and let them appoint their own subordinates. Mayors and councils come and go and they have a more temporary effect." Mayor Church said that they should not be allowed to fall off.

When Thomas Adams, town-planning advisor to the Commissioner of Conservation, Ottawa, advocated in the course of a paper this week on "The Town-Planning Act" that local government boards of experts should be established in the various provinces to pass upon legislation of various kinds enacted here and there, the municipalities inside the provincial boundaries, Mayor Thomas E. Church, of Toronto, president of the Union of Canadian Municipalities, took exception. "I do not believe in the appointment of a commission by the provinces for this purpose," said Mayor Church after stating his agreement with the most of the other propositions advanced by Mr. Adams. "The municipalities themselves should fix their own affairs and be before trying to show us how we should manage ours.
