

in the leg-o'-mutton sleeves, extremely close-fitting on the forearm and bouffant above.

Scotch mixtures, English suitings, faced cloth, mohair and serge will be made up in this style and trimmed with braid or silk.

We have pattern No. 8609 in thirteen sizes for ladies from twenty-eight to forty-six inches, bust measure. In the combination represented for a lady of medium size, the costume requires six yards and three-fourths of mixed and three-fourths of a yard of plain goods forty inches wide. Of one material, it of lace edging that are deepest on the shoulders and taper toward the ends of the revers. Under-arm and side-back gores and a curving center seam enter into the adjustment and extra widths at the middle three seams below the waist are underfolded in a double box-plait at the center seam and in two backward-turning plaits at each side-back seam, the plaits spreading prettily while a slight ripple is produced at each side seam. The one-seam leg-o'-mutton sleeves, which are gathered at the top, are arranged on coat-shaped linings and flare prettily above the elbow; they are finished with upward-flaring round cuffs and deep frills of lace edging, the cuffs being trimmed at the top with a row of passementerie. The standing collar is encircled by a wrinkled ribbon that is bowed stylishly at the back.

No. 8585.—By referring to figure No. 193 T in this number of THE DELINEATOR, this costume may be again seen.

The handsome costume possesses the practical features demanded in a gown of this kind and its merits are quite obvious. It is here pictured made of mohair and silk, with lace edging for the frills. The basque has jacket-fronts opening over a full vest that is gathered at the neck and drawn in on shirr tapes at the lower edge. The vest is sewed flatly at its back edges to smooth lining-fronts and droops slightly at the center; the lining fronts are each composed of two sections that are joined together from the shoulder edges nearly to the bust and laced together below. The lining and full vest close at the center and the jacket fronts are folded back in broad revers that are bordered with passementerie and almost covered by frills flares broadly at the bottom, where it measures about five yards round in the medium sizes. It is shaped to ripple gracefully below the hips and is gathered at the back and completed at the top by a belt to which buttons are sewed to pass through loops on the inside of the basque. Tapes are inserted in the belt across the front and side gores and drawn through openings made in the under side of the belt at each side of the center of the front to regulate the size about the waist.

The costume may be made up in silk, cheviot, serge and
