Upset McGill Engineers steal "Daily"

MONTREAL (CUP) - Four thousand copies of the McGill Daily were stolen from the stands March 10, apparently by McGill engineering students.

Papers were removed from distribution boxes in about seven buildings on campus that morning.

The engineers were upset over the coverage of student society presidential candidates, and they attacked a comment article supporting candidate Fred Methor.

According to editor-in-chief Brahm Pascal Resnik, the paper was within its rights when it published the opinion.

"We had a spread to introduce the candidates," said Resnik. "I think that was perfectly fair. We made every effort to make it as fair as we could."

"Publishing commentary is part of our duty. People should be getting used to that."

Resnik said some of the missing copies were found in snow banks and salt boxes on the campus, and were returned to the stands by McGill Daily staffers.

The paper has informed campus security of the seizure and is considering taking action against the students who were caught and photographed removing the papers.

Tony Bettino, president of the Engineering Undergraduate Society, claims his group was not officially involved in the seizure. He did, however, attack the McGill Daily's decision to support Methor.

"I perceive a student newspaper as a group that reports on what goes on. Instead, they've gone out of their way to use this means of publicity to influence people's decisions," said Bettino.

"Last year, an engineer (Williams) ran for vice-president internal and we wanted to give him some publicity," said Bettino. But he claimed this had been declared illegal by that year's Chief Returning Officer.

"We thought the rules would be the same this year, but obviously not," Bettino concluded.

Students Society Chief Returning Officer Paul Duff was unsure if the paper's action was legal.

Resnik said the paper's new incorporation takes it out of Student Society jurisdiction. This is the first year the paper has operated as a separate legal entity.

"This year the Daily Publications Society is the publisher of the Daily and it has no policy on the elections," he said.

Resnik said the McGill Daily has done a better job on election reporting this year than in previous years.

"In the past, there have been subtle, unstated biases," he said.

MUMMENSCHANZ

"The highest compliment one can pay Mummenschanz, aside from the ovations of applause they receive wherever they perform is the wave of laughter that greets so much of what they do. Most of that laughter flows from children, but much comes from those of us who turn into children while watching the marvels of the Mummenschanzers."

Bernard Weiner, San Francisco Chronicle

You've seen them on the Muppet Show, Sesame Street, Mike Douglas, the Merv Griffin Show and the Tonight Show - and possibly on Broadway, where they're celebrating their 3rd year of performing.
