MANN'S HOMER GAVE CUBS FINAL GAME

Giants Bunched Hits and Beat Cards; Pirates Evened up Series

Chicago, June 4.—Mann's home run in the fourth inning gave Chicago the final game of the series with Brooklyn today. 4 to 2. Cheney walked Doyle in the fourth, and he went to third on a sacrifice and a wild pitch, and scored on Williams' single. Mann then hit the ball into the left field bleachers for a home run, which netted two runs and gave the locals the lead. They added another run in the sixth on Mann's double and a single by Wilson. Brooklyn . . . 100 101-000—2 7 0
Chicago . . . 000 301-000—4 8 1
Batteries—Marquard, Cheney, Dell, Miller and Meyers; Vaughn, Wilson and Elliott.

At St. Louis.
New York defeated four hits off Watson with errors by F. Smith and Snyder in the fourth inning and won yesterday's game from St. Louis, 5 to 3. In the fourth, with the score tied, F. Smith let J. Smith's throw get by him at third, and when Snyder recovered the ball he returned it wildly, and Anderson scored. New York . . . 100 310-000—5 10 1
St. Louis . . . 010 200-000—3 8 5
Batteries—Anderson and Rariden; Steele and Watson, Packard and Snyder.

At Pittsburgh.
By winning yesterday's game 5 to 1 Pittsburgh broke even in the series with Philadelphia. Jacobs pitched effective ball, and while Lavender was not hit often, the home team made every hit count. Score: Pittsburgh . . . 002 000-02—5 6 0
Philadelphia . . . 000 000-00—1 5 2
Batteries—Lavender and Burns; Jacobs and Fischer.

At Cincinnati.
Regan's passes were followed by timely hits and Boston won today's game handily, 5 to 2. Barnes kept his hits well scattered, except in the seventh, when four straight singles and a sacrifice netted Cincinnati two runs. Score: Boston . . . 001 201-100—5 8 1
Cincinnati . . . 000 000-000—2 9 1
Batteries—Barnes and Gowdy; Regan, Eller and Wingo.

BUNNY'S RETURN

Bunny Brief, who is working on 30 days' trial as the regular first sacker of the Pittsburgh Pirates, should be highly elated over the fact that crack first basemen are scarce.

This fact alone brought Bunny back to the major leagues. He was purchased recently from the Salt Lake club by Barney Dreyfus, who was up against it for an initial bagger, and if he shows sufficient hitting and fielding ability, he will have a regular job with the Pittsburgh club. Otherwise it will be back to the Coast League for Bunny, and another "brief" stay in the majors.

Several years ago Brief was given a tryout with the Pirates, but at that time he was very much a strapping, not heavy enough for the job, and he failed to stick. In the Coast league last season Brief had the best year of his career. He finished the season with a batting average of .314, and the title of home-run king of his league in tow. He smashed out thirty-three home runs, which is said to be a world's record. The major league records since 1900 show that Gavy Cravath holds the title in the big show with twenty-four, made in 1915.

His chances good
So the chances of Bunny making good are bright, and if he sticks there will be a great load of work lifted from Jimmy Callahan's shoulders, for when he failed to land Fred Merkle he was at his wits' end for a player to plug up the hole Brief is trying to fill. So far Brief is doing as well as could be expected.

ed, for when he joined the Pirates he had not played in any regular games because he had not yet registered with the league, owing to illness in his family. A little time should start him right.

Brief's presence in the Pirate lineup fills up the roster of first basemen in the National league with regulars—providing Bunny sticks. In the American league, Clark Griffith has switched about from one player to another, using Judge and Garity, a catcher, alternately. Boston with Hoblitzel and Gainer, also switches players at first base.

CHASE IS COMING
Hal Chase, getting away to a slow start at the bat this year, will be bound to pick up as the season ad- vances and Hal has lost none of his ability as a fielder. Jake Daubert, always a .300 hitter, is not the player he has been touted to be when every angle is considered. Fred Merkle a good fielder, should hit better than he did last year. Luderus, Jack Miller and Ed. Konetchy, are steady players. In Young Holke McGraw has a player of much promise, and if Brief sticks with the Pirates, both he and Holke have opportunity before them.

In the American league Stuffy McInnis and George Sisler are staging a pretty battle for both batting and fielding honors. That one of the two will be classed as the best first sacker in the American league when the season closes is practically certain. Yet the struggle is an interesting one to watch and to date McInnis' wonderful hitting has been an advantage to him.

THAT SON-IN-LAW OF PA'S

PARIS RAGMEN ASK INCREASED SALARY

Pickers of French Capital
Demand More Than Nine
Cents Per Hour

GROW INDEPENDENT

(By Lenora Raines)

The rag pickers of Paris, held a reunion recently to arrive at some sort of an understanding as to how much the city must pay them. The result of the meeting was a decision by the "chiffonniers" that they will not work for less than nine cents an hour. No doubt they feel that they can make this much begging on the street. The administration of the Ville de Paris wishes to keep these ex-beggars at work, now that France's able-bodied men are all at the front. There is no longer reason for any begging since the authorities began taking care of the poor by allotting them a certain sum, and since soup kitchens were established. Beggars crippled in war are appearing all the time, though it is believed that a law against such maimed men asking alms will soon be passed, since there is no need for it. It is probable that the ex-soldier who is begging now was an idler before the war, and is too indolent to work, for there is an available occupation for every man, even he who is blind or short of a leg or arm, and if these men that stand on a corner waiting for souls to fall, are taught trades, such as useful trades are taught gratis to any of them, they'd not have to lose much time preparing to earn a good living. Types of Parisian Beggars
Parisians had learned that giving pennies to beggars only increased the tribe, so before the war Paris was almost rid of its professional mendicants. Now comes along a new crop which augmented amazingly during the severe cold. A year or two ago it was the neatly dressed woman who accidentally ran across you on the street and began to tell a pathetic story about having lost everything in the war. As you turned a deaf ear and started to leave, she called all sorts of blessings and good luck to you and yours, having found that this "au revoir" often paid. Now that she has disappeared, some one kin to her has been trained to take her place. The Avenue de l'Opera has many of them, and the men congregate near the big shops. During the worst part of the winter they all seemed to take particular delight in standing in the wind to allow passers by to see how poorly they were clad.

Ragpickers used to have to get up early in the ante-bellum days, for all hods had to be off the sidewalks by 8 o'clock. Their busiest moments were between 5 and 7 examining all refuse in cans ready to be emptied into the big wagons. It was a case of "first come first choice" of all he surveyed. This man or woman generally had things to himself, for no one was astray so early, and each picker came to know where the best spoils were and what kind of wares might be found there. Not much is ever left in the hods when the concierge has run through hers. As she empties her trained eye scrutinizes everything, from a piece of half-burned coal to an old shoe. What coal or embers the concierge does not think worth the trouble, the first one that examines the can after her takes away, for all ashes are shifted by the beggars and this explains how they can afford to have a fire when coal is so dear. Anything else they take a liking to in the trash is taken away in the basket which they never forget to bring in the early morning quest.

Can Now Be Laid
The ragpickers may now nap till noon, but often hods stay on the sidewalk twelve hours awaiting attention. If the customary examiner is not "on the job" an earlier beggar, he, and if the other waits too late, he'll get no plums. Some of these persons visit apartments at New Year's and when they gain admission with the housekeeper, inform her that during the year they have each day searched through the cans but found nothing of value thrown away, but that if in the future they should they will take the object to the concierge, to be returned to the rightful owner. As a matter of fact the rag-picker has never won fame for honesty.

People are wondering if war will stamp out the beggar. With the renewed organization of labor, there will be a paying place for every man and woman, and as factories and looms will be crying out for workers, it will be something like an offense for any one to turn down labor for "chiffonniering." Anyway begging and the like has gone out of style in certain European countries, and such a thing as the "esteemed chiffonnier" had not existed for ten years prior to the war. Before that time it was something to hold the post of "first-beggar" in one of the big churches. All day long on Sunday and fete days these citizens lined up at each side of the doors. A very pitiful looking one was chosen as spokesman by the band—a leader in his way—who had a sympathetic voice and a sad eye.

This "Master Beggar" stood ready to open the church door when the worshippers came out, and he would begin his pleadings, to be echoed all along the line. At the end of each day this leader had to divide alms with those who had stationed him there. At a marriage in the Church of

Providing For The Returned Soldiers

The Ontario Government is apparently deeply interested in the welfare of the returned soldier, as was evidenced by a letter received this morning by Mr. George Macdonald, secretary of the local branch of the Soldiers' Aid Commission, from the department of Lands and Forests, Toronto. It was pointed out in the letter that at intervals, groups of returned men are being sent to the training school at Montetith, Northern Ontario, where they are training in the culture of the land, at the same time being paid $1.10 per day and their board. Of this amount $1.20 per month is allowed to the soldier, the balance being, in the case of men with dependents, turned over to the families, and in the case of single men, being held in trust until they take charge of their own clearing. Separation allowance equal to that provided when the men were overseas, is also granted to dependants.

Board is also supplied during the time the men are engaged in clearing their own land, which is turned over to them free of charge on condition that sufficient work is accomplished to warrant ownership. In addition, the government will supply the men with stock and implements to the value of $500 as a loan, the money to be repaid within twenty years at 6 per cent. Particulars, regarding the proposition, description of the soil and the climate and other useful information is contained in a circular that accompanied the letter. Mr. Macdonald expressed his approval of the provision that has been made for the returned men, and thought that it would be a splendid opportunity for any who wished to enter the farming profession.

Gen. Alexieff, Successor to Grand Duke Nicholas, Has Resigned

Petrograd, June 4.—Gen. Michael V. Alexieff, commander-in-chief of the Russian armies, has resigned. Gen. Alexis Brusiloff, commander-in-chief of the armies of the south-western front, has been appointed to succeed him.

Gen. Gurko, commander on the western front, replaces Brusiloff on the south-western front. Gen. Alexieff was appointed commander-in-chief on April 15, soon after the retirement of Grand Duke Nicholas from that post. Gen. Brusiloff recently resigned from his position as commander-in-chief of the armies of the south-western front, but withdrew his resignation after a conference at Petrograd.

SUCCESSFUL SPORTS

Carried Out at School for the Blind

A List of the Winners of the Various Events

The idea of a sports program for inmates of the School for the Blind may sound somewhat strange to the average outsider, but they have recently completed their annual meeting in this respect, and the events were so keenly contested, and the entries so numerous, that it took two Saturday afternoons to finish the program.

Many of the events created great amusement, notably, "Are you there Bill?" the sack race, the three-legged race, jockey race, and the "tournament." In the latter contest, two of the pupils bestrode a pole and whacked each other until one biffed the other off.

The whole affair was under the able direction of Principal James, aided by Mr. Geo. Ryerson, bursar, and other members of the staff.

FIGHTING AMONG THEMSELVES
Louisville, Ky., June 4.—Differences among the club owners of the American Association, which began when the interleague series was called off with the International League and culminated when the double umpiring system recently was abandoned, were brought to a climax by the publication yesterday of a letter from President Hickey, announcing that the headquarters of the association have been removed from Louisville to Chicago. The announcement immediately was followed by a statement from Vice-President O. H. Wathen, of Louisville, that an appeal to prevent the removal would be made to the National Baseball Commission, or, that failing an injunction would be sought in the courts.
