A PROBLEM OF FINANCE When the new Board of Education is organized it would do well to hold more than one session with the City Council for the purpose of discussing ways and means of financing a new Collegiate Institute. That one is immediately needed no one will deny, but that the problem of raising the funds for its construction is a difficult one is equally apparent.

EDITORIAL NOTES If there is a game at which the people of the United States can play whole-heartedly and with vim it is politics. Poker and chess, golf and baseball are not in it with the national sport.

Mr. Frank Greenlaw, M.P.P., was made the recipient of a signet ring by his associates in the Trades and Labor Council, as an evidence of their appreciation of his long service. Not only has Mr. Greenlaw given long and constant service to the cause of Labor, but the general public appreciates that he has generally been sane and reasonable. He hasn't much more use for some of the irresponsible radicals in Labor ranks than have other people who are not identified directly with Trades and Labor.

FROM OTHER PENS . . . A FUSTIAN GARIBALDI . . . Toronto Globe.—Ungrateful Florence has been eclipsed by Fiume, which recommends Gabriele D'Annunzio to leave its precincts as soon as possible. The latter-day poet and his patriotic volunteers had rushed to save the ancient town on the north-east of the Adriatic from absorption by Jugo-Slavia, the fate imposed upon it by the entente allies in Paris, and it was supposed that the whole Italian peninsula would blaze in applause of this crusade to complete the recovery of Italia Irredenta. But crusades are not always a success, and D'Annunzio's habits were not those of a crusader. His weaknesses developed during his idleness and could not fail to alienate the feelings of the townspeople. His expedition was not an issue in the recent Italian elections; Premier Nitti showed in London that he was open to a compromise, and his fellow-countrymen in Fiume refused to be saved. There can be only one Garibaldi in a lifetime.

SUGAR BEETS Galt Report.—Such being the situation, the world demands an enormous increase in production and much of the increase must come from sugar beet fields. Growers and manufacturers must co-operate to that end. The twin industries are assured of a future to their liking and in this country we feel that not much prodding will be required to increase Waterloo's share in added production called for. Enlarging our output of sugar beets will bring returns quite as satisfactory to the growers as are obtained from other branches of agricultural life.

TEACHERS' SALARIES Guelph Mercury.—School Boards everywhere want the best talent, but hesitate to reward it, and the children suffer in consequence, because of a niggardly economy. Guelph has always enjoyed an enviable reputation since the early days as a model teaching centre, and it was pointed out last night that there is a grave danger of deterioration if the Collegiate here is to be simply a training ground necessary, and there is no doubt that if there were no other compensations in the profession than the salary there would be few continuing in it. The board should try and meet the situation in such a way as will provide a salary for all classes in keeping with the living conditions of the present age.

HOLLAND AND THE EX-KAISER (Buffalo Courier) . . . IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acid! Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread—the water passes, sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folk call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Iod Salts from your pharmacist and take a table-spoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continuing this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Iod Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folk who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Iod Salts is so beneficial to kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever. Here, you have a pleasant effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

BISMARCK

The report that a nephew of Bismarck's is among the German officers to be tried by the Allies for direct responsibility for war outrages brings vividly to one's mind the interesting fact that, whatever else the victory of the Allies may not have achieved, it certainly spelled the end of Bismarckism.

The Soul of Prussia. Otto Von Bismarck is one of the half dozen outstanding figures in the nineteenth century history of Europe. He was born in 1815, a month after Napoleon had escaped from Elba. He died in 1898, just before the century ended. His life covered the greatest period of social and industrial changes that the world has seen and of the most important political events that happened in Europe since the end of the Roman Empire. And he himself not only played a leading part in these events, but was, as a matter of sober historical fact, solely and individually responsible for the most important of them.

Nineteenth-century history was dominated by Prussia, and Bismarck was the soul of Prussia. He was the descendant of a family of Brandenburg nobles who were settled in the Mark two centuries before the Hohenzollerns were head of. He was the perfect Junker, the class that first dominated the kingdom of Prussia, then, as Prussia slowly swallowed Germany, became the ruling class in Central Europe, and whose influence was destroyed, once and for all, when the German commanders were compelled to ask for an armistice in November, 1918.

ing defeated Austria and Bavaria, Prussia was the acknowledged head of the German States. There are four great dates in the life of Bismarck, 1848, 1864, 1866, and 1870. His political career began in 1848, the year of revolution, and he was one of the bitterest opponents of the institution of a Liberal constitution in Prussia. He also opposed the proposal for the creation of a Liberal German Confederation which was the outcome of the revolutionary movement of 1848, and which would have made the King of Prussia the elected head of a Liberal Germany. Bismarck even then was dreaming of a Prussianized Germany, but even then he preferred that his dream should never be realized unless the headship of Prussia could be assured by the power of the sword and not by the power of the people's will. Deliberately Caused War. In 1864, Prussia and Austria fought Denmark for the possession of Schleswig-Holstein. Bismarck had then become foreign minister. The story of the complicated intrigue of Schleswig-Holstein cannot be told in a few paragraphs. But the facts of importance are that Bismarck cov-

The average Prussian Junker was proud, narrow-minded, prejudiced, ignorant, pious in a strictly Lutheran sense, loyal, honest, and generally comparatively poor. In a perfectly sincere and narrow way he feared God and honored the King. Bismarck was the one Junker of genius that his caste produced. He was a statesman of unrivalled sagacity, with an almost uncanny appreciation of the motives of men and the limitations of nations, and openly and entirely unscrupulous in the methods which he adopted to attain his ends. Yet one will fall altogether to realize Bismarck unless one also realizes that he, like his fellows, also feared God and honored the King. He first came into public life as the representative of a super-pious clique of aristocrats. He believed as thoroughly as Charles I. in the right divine of Kings and particularly in the right divine of the Prussian kings. He preferred the King to be stupid that the right divine might be properly directed!

Power of the Sword. From the beginning to the end of his life Bismarck was a Prussian Protestant. He never became a German patriot until 1867, when, having defeated Austria and Bavaria, Prussia was the acknowledged head of the German States.

The New Electorate The Women of Canada. CHANGING conditions have given the Dominion a new electorate—the women of Canada. Canadian womanhood, to take full advantage of its prerogatives, to take its proper place in the management of Canadian affairs, must keep informed on the questions of the hour—must have the knowledge of events that will be the foundation of definite opinions on public questions. Women Must Read the Daily Newspaper. The extension of the franchise to women was the fulfillment of a policy consistently advocated by The Globe in season and out of season. But this is only the beginning. Womanhood must serve as well as vote. They must advocate reforms that are badly needed. There must be legislation for the aged, as well as for the young, pensions for mothers, educational improvements, unemployment and sickness insurance. These are some of the questions on which the womanhood of Canada will now have to take sides. Therefore, in this respect, The Globe has a special appeal for progressive, right thinking Canadian women. The Globe is not a political organ. It never has submitted to outside dictation. It supports progressive liberalism, because it believes that true liberalism draws its inspiration from the needs of the people. Its daily Women's Department and Thursday's Women's Section have a special interest for womanhood in the home. It was the first Toronto paper to establish a women's department, edited for all Canadian homemakers. The Globe is first and last a Great Family Newspaper. It serves the women in the home, in public life, in business, in the professions and in industry.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP Winnipeg Tribune.—Public ownership of public utilities is a failure, but in the handling of public utilities public ownership has not to its credit or dis- credit the failures of coal operators in producing from the local sufficient to meet the demand of the public. Everything to be shipped to public ownership of coal mines. With such a vast portion of the world's fuel stored in Canadian territory it is a sad reflection upon private industry that it cannot import more coal than we need. And, at that, every year in our Eastern Canada there is a dearth of coal. Let us try public ownership. Let us take over to the Western producer as per promise—and we shall be able to do so help straighten out the trade balance, as well as to relieve annual public anxiety as to fuel supply.
