The Town We Left. BY R. SPARLING, SEAFORTH.

Suggested on the occasion of the leaving the town of Goderich by the author and others who had been actending the Model School.

The town we left, the town we left,
To all our hearts so dear,
To us a town of woes hereit. To-me a town of woos hereit.

Through many a passing year.

The thoughts of Huron's lovely town,
The spot that gave us giee,
Holds up our heads aloft to crown
With laurels yet to see.

The town we left, the town we left, Has kirks and schools enough,
With humble pastors, great in worth,
And dominies tried and tough,
There many a good advice we got;
And many a prayer beside
Was offered up, to help us on
Through life's uneven tide.

The town we left, the town we left, is one of saline fame,
And in the annals of the past
She bears an honorrd name;
Her merchants struggled in the cause,
With courage stout and bold,
Of trade by free and honest laws,
Gainst numbers twice o'er told.

The town we left, the town we left, The beauty of her towers.

Comes scaling o'er the Modelites thought
In lonely midnight hours,
The windings of the beautiful river.
The square and lovely streets,
The lake whose breezes made the hear shiver, Are sights the Modelite greets.

Three cheers, then, for the town we left,
Three cheers with right good will.
Till town and river ring again.
We'll cheer old Goderich still.
And though we ne'er may see her more,
With willing heart and eye.
We'll ne'er forget the town we left,
Until the day we die.
