Nfld. Needs a Business College.

The Springdale Street School reopens on Monday as advertised in our columns to-day and it is hoped that an announcement will be made next week in reference to the Commercial School, which has rendered such valuable service during the past few years that it has now outgrown the Springdale Street School Building.
 What is needed is an up-to-date Business College for Newfoundland, if somebody can be found who will make it worth while to advance its cause for city and country in the interest of the many deserving business students here, who prefer remaining in their own country and who should be encouraged in this direction by the establishment of a Business College to help in the great work of reconstruction and progress in industry, trade, commerce and finance for Newfoundland. Such a school surely deserves the support of the educational authorities and of the Manufacturers' Association, the Board of Trade and our progressive business men throughout the whole country. At New York University last year 5,233 students out of 13,873, or nearly one half, were students in commerce, though the University has fourteen other colleges, such as the Law School, Medical College, College of Arts and Pure Science College of Engineering, School of Pedagogy; the greatest demand seeming to be for a thorough business training because of its financial value to the student and the country.
 The same applies in Boston, Halifax, Toronto and every other progressive city, so that Newfoundland cannot safely lose even one commercial school or be less progressive than other cities in establishing a Business College that will eventually lead up to the greater need of a University School of Commerce. All this is possible for Newfoundland, providing the start is made in time now at this opportune moment.

Police After
 "Moonshine."

Head Constable Byrne, Sergt. Simmons and a constable went over the Topsail Road early this morning, evidently looking for moonshine. Several carts coming from Paradise, were stopped and were searched but whether anything of a liquid nature was discovered is unknown at present. It is reported that one man from the settlement, when asked after the search if any moonshine had been obtained, said that the police had not got his but they had got some.

Nova Scotia's Celebration.

Annapolis Royal, N.S., Aug. 31.— (Associated Press).—Thirteen years before the Mayflower with bratted sails cast anchor off Fymouth Rock, the Sieur de Monts' sterned the Annapolis Basin from the stern deck of another ship, the Acadia, and landed to form the first settlement of white men north of the Gulf of Mexico.
 To-day Nova Scotians celebrated the three hundredth anniversary of the granting of the charter of (New Scotland) Nova Scotia, by King James I. to Sir William Alexander, in 1621, and paid tribute to the sturdy Scottish pioneers who laid the foundations of settlement and government in this Province three centuries ago as well as intrepid French adventurers whose landing and settlement in 1604, makes this town second only to St. Augustine, Florida, in point of age, in North America.
 A tablet was unveiled by the Government of Nova Scotia commemorating the grant to Sir William Alexander and the Scottish foundation of Nova Scotia, and another honoring the 200th anniversary of the establishment and sitting of the first court administering English Common Law in what is now the Dominion of Canada. A third tablet is in honor of Thomas Chandler Haliburton, the eminent Nova Scotia statesman, jurist and humorist who, as creator of "Sam Slick," the Yankee clockmaker, won fame as the father of American humor. Judge Haliburton was admitted to the bar of Nova Scotia a century ago, and his famous book "The Clockmaker, or Sayings and Doings of Sam Slick of Slickville" appeared in 1827.
 The Annapolis Valley afforded a singularly appropriate setting for the impressive ceremonies. The quaint, old-world town perched on the bluffs called by de Monts, Port Royal, le port royal for the beauty of its environment, but later named Annapolis Royal by General Nicholson in honor of Queen Anne, overlooks the enclosed basin, there imagination readily conjures a picture of a three masted, highpoop vessel with square mainsail; of Chaplain and de Monts and their followers in their weatherbeaten doulets.
 The old French powderhouse, lined with stone brought from France especially to keep the powder dry still stands inside the fort built by the Sieur de la Roche in 1605 among the first erected on American soil. When first the fleur-de-lis and then the British lion flying from the peak, the fort was the scene of thirteen sanguinary battles during the French and Indian Wars. An army and navy brigade commanded by General Nicholson was despatched from Boston in 1710 and for the last time the flag of Louis de France was hoisted down. The huge iron key wharfed in the lock for the last time and now reposes in the collection of the Massachusetts Historical Society.
 The cannons were taken to England and supplanted by blunt-nosed old barkers that still poke their ugly snouts from the moss grown ramparts and bastions.
 The officers barracks built by the Duke of Kent, Queen Victoria's father, have been converted into a museum where the idle tourist may gaze on relics that would—if they could but talk—tell many a fine tale of adventure and romance of the early days when America's history was told on few pages.

168 Miles an Hour in the Air.

Mr. J. H. James won the Aerial Derby over a course of 200 miles at a speed of 168 miles an hour—taking 1 hour 14 minutes to do the 200 miles.
 "A speed such as that brings to us the possibility of a new race of men who may live in Devon or in Wales and run up to the city of London for business in the morning as quickly as they now get from their suburban homes to the Westminster Courts." Georges Kirech, the French aviator, broke the world's height record above Le Bourget a few days ago by reaching an altitude of 33,000 feet.
 "At that height I seemed to be flying in a rose-coloured atmosphere and had the sensation of rapidly approaching the sun."

"Porter-House" Steaks.

Many people have attempted to trace the origin of the term "porter-house" steak to a man named Porter, who is supposed to have kept a restaurant in New York.
 The real reason for the term was because, in the early part of the last century, there existed in New York a number of public-houses where ale and porter were the favourite beverages ordered. These taverns or saloons came to be known as porter-houses.
 The proprietor of one of these establishments, on being asked for a particularly tender and appetizing steak, made the experiment of cutting the top of a joint which had been sent for his personal use. The customer was so pleased that he called a day or two later and demanded another of those steaks.
 The fame of the tavern and its steak soon spread, and it was not long before eaters throughout the city were asking for porter-house steaks, and butchers, learning the secret of the cut, adopted the term themselves.

Mrs. Leo A. Shea will be "At Home" Monday, Sept. 5th, from 3 to 5 p.m., at her mother's residence, 41 New Gower Street.

Heroes of the Past.

Detroit, Mich. (Associated Press).
 —Forgotten for more than two centuries, the graves of Detroit's earliest settlers which lie beneath what are now two of the city's busiest thoroughfares, have been uncovered in excavations near the corner of Jefferson Avenue and Griswold Street.
 Among the bones revealed are believed to be those of Major Glad-wyn's sturdy English warriors who fell in holding Detroit against Pontiac's conspiracy in 1763. Some were "unknowns," pathfinders in the development of the middle west, whose struggles and hopes ended when they were stricken in Detroit. Unmarked, most of them, their bodies were not moved from the ancient burying grounds, when in Michigan's territorial days the march of the living crowded out the city of the dead, and the graveyard became a part of downtown Detroit. Cityscrapers now loom above it and driving the cemetery into four quarters, Jefferson Avenue and Griswold Street carry a great burden of traffic.
 Near the site stood the first St.
 Anne's Church, built by M. Cadillac in 1710, just outside Fort Ponchartrain, the first settlement's stockade.
 The French were forced to destroy their house of worship when the fort was besieged by the Sac and Fox Indians in 1712, because its position outside the stockade offered the savage tribesman a point of vantage in their attack. Rebuilt inside the stockade, the church stood undisturbed until 1805 when the entire town was burned. For 116 years, the little settlement of Roman Catholics reverently laid its dead in this burying plot.
 In 1813, a new cemetery was provided when the territorial governor and judges gave permission for Jefferson Avenue and Griswold to pierce the cemetery. Many removals were made to the new cemetery, also in what is now downtown Detroit.
 Nearby in the heart of the city are two other cemeteries, long forgotten and overgrown with streets and business places, which from 1800 to 1850 were the resting place of the city's dead. Although there have been no recent excavations, it is believed the bones of many other pioneers lie there beneath hospitals, streets, and business blocks.

Omaha Tribe Hold
 Annual Pow-Wow.

Macy, Neb. (Associated Press).—
 When the sun set one Sunday evening recently over more than 200 teepees and 1,200 Omaha Indians it marked the conclusion of the annual "pow-wow" and ceremonies of the Omaha tribe that yearly have brought hundreds of Indians and families to this little spot to renew, with less vigor to be sure, the customs and dances of their forefathers. The tract of forty acres upon which this annual ceremony has been conducted, once the stamping-ground and seat of government of the Omaha nation, has been platted into town lots and one block reserved for the erection of a $40,000 school building.
 The last of the reunion, participated in by Omahas and Indians of visiting tribes from Kansas and Oklahoma, was the most elaborate ever held in the way of re-enacting the habits of old, but it was not devoid of its sorrow—Charles A. Parker, one of the most prominent members of his tribe, succumbing to death after participating in the tribal dance.
 The musical ceremony, attended by the entire representation, was held after the chief's body had laid in his tent for four days, the period of state to the Omahas. The final ceremony began Aug. 14 and closed a week later. The Indians brought their entire families, horses, dogs, pigs, and chickens, the latter two for butchering for the tribal feasts. The venison which in former days was the choice of the tribal meats, no longer runs wild for the Omahas' arrows. Today with their household, the Indians brought their collection of am-ornaments, beaded, feathered or adorned with porcupine quills, handed in his tribe for many generations.
 The midnight dance of the was revived, apparently leaving mysterious and dramatic flavor of old. The peace pipe was smoked one night with all the attendant money, the Indians in full native costume. Tuesday evening at sunset Indians played a "hand game," with presentation of gifts. Four and a trunkful of Indian blankets, shawls, bead work, silks and ornaments and wearing apparel were given away.
 "It Will Be a Boy."
 A Japanese writer asserts that expectant mothers can ensure the sex of their unborn child by a simple of the mind and the repetition of few words.
 He declares that the prospective mother should, if she desires a child, close her eyes and repeat child is going to be a boy," until falls asleep.
 This practice must be kept up for least fifteen days before the week in one year, the writer 908 out of 1,942 women had their as for sons gratified by this means.
 The black lace dresses are times embroidered in loops dots in shaded-colorings.
