HAD NEARLY 130

PEOPLE ON BOARD

The British Warship Condor Believed to Have Sunk.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 24.—The steamer Moana has arrived from Sydney, via Brisbane and Honolulu, and with her arrival the hope for the safety of the missing warship Condor with 130 souls on board was lessened, for the Australian liner brought no news of the Condor. The Moana left Honolulu on the same day as the Alameda, which arrived at San Francisco on Tuesday, and brings no later advices from the island.

The Condor is a screw sloop, of steel and sheathed, and her tonnage is 390. She is 180 feet long, has 33 feet beam, and draws 11 feet 6 inches.

Six four-inch quick-fire guns and four three-pounders constitute her armament. Her speed is thirteen knots. Her full complement of men is 130.

London, Jan. 23.—The admiralty has issued a notice in which it says it regrets that nothing has been heard of the British cruiser Condor since December 2, on which date she sailed from Esquimaux for Honolulu. It adds that the failure to obtain news of the missing vessel tends to confirm the public fears that she has been lost. Notwithstanding this latter statement the notice says that if the Condor's machinery cannot be used her arrival at Honolulu is likely to be further delayed.

Thirty million stamps bearing King Edward's portrait were placed on sale in the postoffices throughout England on New Year's day.

IRISH LEAGUE WAS SCORED

Debate Brought on by John Redmond.

Chief Secretary Wyndham Said the Agitation Was the Work of Bullies.

Lord Dufferin's Condition Is Very Serious—Foreign Ministers Get Into Innermost Hall of Chinese Forbidden City.

London, Jan. 24.—The debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne was resumed in the House of Commons yesterday by John Redmond, the Irish Nationalist leader, who moved an amendment raising the whole question of Irish grievances. He declared that instead of remedying admitted wrongs, the government had fallen back on the old methods of coercion. The Irish people would yet teach Mr. Wyndham (the chief secretary for Ireland) to repent his rash refusal to grant the reasonable demands of Ireland in regard to the compulsory sale and purchase of land. There was no country in the world where crime was less frequent than in Ireland, yet, the coercion act had been resurrected after a decade, and had been ruthlessly applied. Scores of members of the House of Commons, had been unjustifiably imprisoned and trial by jury had been abolished. The whole intellect of Ireland was against the government, and in such circumstances resistance to the government was a duty, and rebellion became merely a question of expediency. The Irish would never be well affected until they were masters of their own country.

John P. Hayden (Irish Nationalist) seconded the amendment.

Replying to Mr. Redmond, Mr. Wyndham declared that no government expected to settle the Irish question, but only hoped to do a little to improve it. He said that the land act of 1881 was too drastic a measure, having produced a little war which had ruled many people. The strongest argument against introducing compulsion into the purchase and sale of the land, Mr. Wyndham said, was that such action would provoke every landlord and every tenant to a fight from court to court on every disputable point.

He reiterated his conviction that the power of the United Irish League was not in the province, but in the hands of a few determined persons, and no man who was not a cur would hesitate to suppress this wretched form of bullying the government. He was determined, he said, while dealing justly with Ireland, to fight for liberty and the protection of the law.

GOT IN AT LAST.

A Pekin dispatch says: The ministers of the foreign powers here have attained the goal, which has been their aim since the report of the Chinese and the powers began. They have been received as representatives of sovereigns equal in rank to the Chinese emperor. The emperor's reception of the ministers was held in the innermost hall of the Forbidden City.
