SERMON FROM SHAKESPEARE.

Henry VI. Part II. Act V. Sc. 2.

A great general of the American Civil War forcibly remarked, "War is hell." He knew from experience the evils of war, the sufferings endured, the sorrow left in its wake, the permanent injury done the parties or nations engaged. His expression was not strikingly original. Shakespeare three hundred years ago formulated the same sentiment in almost the same words. It is true that it is not Shakespeare but one of his creations who speaks of war as the son of hell, but so often passages sternly condemning war appear in his dramas that it can be taken for granted that Shakespeare himself is here speaking.

There is no present day subject that more demands the thoughtful consideration of the patriot than that of "contumacious, beastly, mad-brained war." As the nineteenth century closed it was hoped that the time was drawing nigh when men would convert their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks. Peace conferences met, emperors and presidents talked universal peace, but while the echo of the peace orations was still in the air the two most highly civilized nations found themselves engaged in war—the United States with Spain, and Great Britain with the Boers. Scarcely had the sound of the "devilish cannon" of these powers died away when Russia and Japan were at each other's throats. To all of these nations war proved a hell. It desolated homes, it filled the workhouses, it drove thousands into exile, it vastly increased the burdens of the toilers. The suffering caused, the losses endured should have turned men's thoughts to peace. Instead of this the dogs of war are abroad. Never before had militarism such a grip on the race. Europe is an armed camp; Japan is ready to do battle with any power that challenges her; and even China is waking from her sleep of twenty centuries and more and her cities are noisy with preparations for war. The shipyards of the civilized powers are turning out monster battleships. The inventive genius of the race are devoting their time to new explosives and more effective guns. In Europe and America and Japan danger experiments are striving to conquer the air mainly in the interests of war. Where will it end? Must the nations meet in one bloody battle before worldwide peace can be declared?

War is the child of selfishness and greed. It is brought about largely by men who will never be satisfied for butlers. Calmly they sit on their thrones or in their offices and stir up strife that is likely to lay the summer's grass of their country "with showers of blood." If the politicians were placed at the head of the armies in conflict, or on board the battleships, in a deadly struggle, there would be less talk of war, less building of Dreadnoughts. Were they brought into the presence of battle they would "Pull armor on their ears and on their eyes" that they might not see the monster that they had conjured up.

Shed will have blood. One war is the breeder of another. Russia failed in her purpose against Japan. The Russians agreed to what was to them, a humiliating peace. They will feel the discipline until they have wiped it out or suffered more in another war. They are but biding their time. If France had the strength she would gladly precipitate a war with Germany on account of past defeats.

Scholars and statesmen have met together with the hope of establishing peace among the so-called Christian powers. Their efforts have been in vain. War, that son of hell, is still abroad. In spite of mother's tears and prayers, in spite of the intellectual outpourings of the pulpit, platform and the press, the powers are ready, apparently eager, to let slip the dogs of war. Is there no way to bring them to their senses? Their people are groaning under a burden of taxation, their sons are fleeing to foreign lands to begin life under more favorable conditions. They care not. Their battle strength must be maintained, though their people starve. Their excuse is that in order to maintain peace they must be ready for war. Would it not be fitting that these powers, so anxious to maintain peace that they pour out treasure-like water and draw men from productive industries to battle-ships and barracks, should get together and devise ways and means of maintaining peace without burdening their subjects to the breaking point and multiplying engines of war? If they could only fully realize the awful effects of war, realize them as Shakespeare realized them, they would bring about speedy conditions of peace.

There is a fallacy that war is necessary for giving a nation character. Man has Nature to battle with. His character can be grandly moulded in bridging great rivers, constructing useful canals, stringing railways across the continents and through mountain passes. The energy put forth, the millions expended in such undertakings enrich the nation. The millions of money and the thousands of lives sacrificed in war are but an offering poured forth to that insatiable idol of the nations, which Shakespeare has appropriately termed the "son of hell."

"And trimmed the leaves of the rubber plant down to one-half their normal size?" "Yes, sir."

"Then take the pet dog to the fan-club's and have his tail cut off. We must economize room some way. Thank goodness it was not twins."

widening circles and in after years the good seed will have been scattered in every nook and corner of the world's great harvest field.

The seed of truth falls on four classes of hearers.

The first are like the trodden path so hard that nothing but the spout of adversity can break them up and put them in condition to receive the Lord. The seed sown is quickly snatched away by the devil who is ever on the look-out to keep the seed from sinking into the hearts of men.

The second receive the word with joy. It takes hold of their emotions but not of the depth of the will. Tomorrow says, "Truth often makes deep souls and before it makes them glad, a deep work is better than a swift one." Let them get a working at the mouth of a critic and where are they? They wither up at the sneer of a fool.

The third class is like the soil that produces thistles, rich, promising, but preoccupied. The seed grows rank and luxuriant but is choked. They are really interested in the Word of God. It took hold of them for a time but "the cares of the world and the deceitfulness of riches" choke the Word. "I want the prayers of this meeting for my son," an aged saint.

"Why, what is the matter with him?" asked the pastor.

"He is growing rich," was the reply. "Torrey says that one of the most promising and energetic young Christians of the cities in Chicago is nothing now but a withered millionaire with one foot in the grave which he himself will soon enter. It is the Word of God in your soul and mine being choked out by business or household cares? Let us take heed."

Then there is the fourth class. They are whole-hearted fellows who hear the Word of God and take it in. It becomes a part of their very life and they can say "Thy Word have I hid in my heart that I may not sin against Thee." Those are the thirty, the sixty, the hundred per cent. hearers who have in them more than the world knows—the value of the seed to disiect with the lance of modern criticism and thus render it valueless to produce life.

The heart ground here in New Brunswick which the Great Sovereign has to work upon is as varied as the soil we tread. Stony ground there is, lots of it but then our finest soil, so scientists tell us were once all stone. Until by the action of waves and glaciers ground down the rocks which lifted their naked heads above the waters into soil which readily yields to the plow and from the self-sown reaps the richest harvests and shall He not work such changes in hearts of stone?

You Can Afford to use 40c. Tea Just as Well as 30c. Tea if You Use 40c. Red Rose

A pound of 40c. Red Rose goes further than any 30c. or 35c. tea and it is distinctly superior in quality.

30c. and 35c. Red Rose Teas are good teas, so good that very many people say they want nothing better. But, if they would once try a package of the 40c. Red Rose they would use nothing else in future.

Just think, five cups of 40c. Red Rose Tea will only cost 1c. One lb. makes over 200 cups. Not a question of affording.

$1,000 for a Coat of Paint

It seems hard to believe, yet that is the sum of money that a coat of Martin-Senour Paint 100% Pure added to the selling price of a certain house.

For several seasons, a shabby weather-beaten house had been offered for sale. There were no buyers until a shrewd real estate broker purchased the property and, with a single coat of paint, magically changed it from a shabby house to that of a home of dignity—a home of comfort and elegance; furthermore, he sold it within a very short time clearing $1,000.

Nothing so preserves and maintains the value of your property like whose mission is to paint your buildings uniformly, economically, safely and surely.

The coat of Paint made the sale. Don't let your property depreciate in value for the need of paint.

Pioneers Pure Paint

70% WHITE LEAD 30% ZINC WHITE

When you buy Paint, get the real thing

It is extravagant and foolish to buy and pay for paint, and instead of paint, get a mixture containing cheap adulterants. Pure paint—the real thing—spreads easier, covers more surface (and covers it better) and wears longer than adulterated paint. Pure paint is far more economical to use. Pure paint gives the handsomest finish.

Pure paint insures you against paint "troubles," the cracking, the peeling, scaling, etc. that comes from the use of impurities. "English" Lead Paint is pure paint—made from 70% pure white lead (Brandram's B.B. Genuine) 30% pure zinc white, pure linseed oil, pure turpentine and dryer. It will give you the greatest satisfaction and save you money on your paint bill.

Made by Brandram-Henderson Limited, in 45 shades in addition to black and white. Come in for a color card.
