THE PALL OF THE POLDS. away from last season's gowns and yet no t spoil the fall of the folds. But it can be done. Begin by nipping away the horid little Begin by nipping away the horrid little mattress—then shorten the back of the dress by an inch-and-a-half, and where the cushion was get your maid to sew in a double flounce of stiff muslin of the same color as the dress. The flounce need not be more than seven inches long, but the pleats must be large and alose together—in fact, overlapping each other where they are sewn to the band of the dress. BRAVE YOUR DRESSMAKER IN HER LAIR.

Your dressmaker will want you still to have the "improver," but do not be persuaded. Country dressmakers get into a groove, and hate to come out of it. That is why provincial ladies are usually se dowdily garbed. But do not give in. mot give in.

How fond English dressmakers are, too, of stuffing the bodies out with wadding. They will do it, no matter how forcibly their unwilling victum rebels. Even Lilia, who is too plump, is terraced out with lumps of wadding, because her figure is not built according to the dressmaker's idea. I laughed silently, but heartily, the ether day when I went with Lilla, who was having a new gown made, and had to try it on.

"What is this?" said she. "I told you I would not have any stuffing."
"Oh, madam, I had to put some, because you go in so under the arm."
"Well, did you ever see any one who did not go in under the arm?" asked Lilla, impagiently. impatiently.

"No, madam, I don't think I ever did. We always put a little something there."

"You'l kindly take it out of my gown," said Lilla, sharply.

"You won't like it, madam."

"That is my affair. I don't want to have a figure like a William pear, which is evidently your ideal of the female form from the waist naward."

FATTER EACH TIME, YOU SEE. When we were leaving, Lilla's last word "Mind, if you send home my dress were: "Mind, if you send home my dress with that wadding in it I shall have it all taken cut and sent back to you in a large envelope unstamped." Lillia is awfully victous when she is put out, and she's always cross when having a dress tried on, because she is fatter each time. It is irritating, no doubt, but then she never denies herself anything that is good in the pleasures of the table. Her latitude will, I feel sure, soon almost equal her longified. JACKETS AS THINGS OF JOY.

Oh, the sweet, sweet jackets that are to be ween this season, defining the figure with perfect accuracy and yet pretending to be loose.
That is the supreme art of a well-cut jacket.
Do you not think so? Some of them are edged with the beautiful applique embroidery.
What dainty little wraps they make! The fur shows at the neck, of course, and also on the rolled collar. Under the revers the fronts meet edged with silk cord. Some are frogged. one or two yet, but you mere about them later on. One was in dark blue cloth lined with gray squirrel, and edged with blue silk cord. Another was in brown cloth, lined with quilted gold silk.

WILL LOOK CHARMING, I KNOW." I was almost forgetting to answer you passion about a dinner dress. Have the whole of the underdress made of black Chanwhole of the underdress made of black Chantilly, with folds on the bodice crossing the shoulders, and fastened there with a small that of scarlet velvet, and a butterfly upstanding on either. Have the sleeves draped from the shoulder so that the lace falls in quite short folds over the front of the arm, but longer than the elbow at the back, so as to provide a becomingly effective background for your pretty white arms. Let the train and the square Swiss bodice be of bright scarlet velvet or velveteen. There is just the yery shade to be had in the Louis velveteen. Lace the bodice down the front. It must not some quite up to the arms, this bodice, and, if well made, the lace rises out of it very prettily. Or, if you think that style a trifle matronly for you, have the same dress in gream-colored lace and a pretty brocade. If you abide by my first suggestion you must have scarlet shoes and stockings and long black gloves. Do not wear any bracelets or necklet, but put on your best diamond earrings and dress your hair a la catogan, with a knot of searlet velvet tying it at the back. You will look charming, I know.

The Best Pills.—Mr. Wm. Vandervoort' Sydney Crossing, Ont., writes: "We have been using Parmelee's Pills, and find them by far the best Pills we ever used." For Delicate and DeDilletted Constitutions these Pills act like a charm. Taken in small doses, the effect is both a tonic and a stimulant, mildly exciting the secretions of the body, giving tone and vigor. A young clergyman in a Western town preached the other day on "The Relation of Ministers to their Parishes." The local paper the next morning had it: "The Relation of Ministers to their Pharisees."

Much distress and sickness in children is saused by worms. Mother Graves Worm Ex-terminator gives relief by removing the cause. Give it a trial and be convinced.

A French Auditor of Accounts in the seventeenth century was a great practical joker all his life, and even played a trick after he had loss the power of enjoying it, for he left four large candles to be carried at his funeral, which had not been burning fifteen minutes before they went off as fireworks.

a short road to hearth was opened to those suffering from chronic coughs, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, lumbago, tumors, rheumatism, corexiated nipples or inflamed breast, and kidney complaints by the introduction of the inexpensive and effective remedy, Dr. Thomas Eclectric Oil. The richest widow in America, if not in the world, is Mrs. Moses Taylor, whose fortune is estimated at $40,000,000. She lives in New York, Long Branch and several other places, as the mood strikes her.

Oh, How Nice. Jelly of cucumber and roses for making the bands nice and soft Druggists keep it. W A. Dyer & Co., Montreal. Rothschild said one day he always knew when people were talking about his fellow Hebrews, whether the latter were rich or poor. Upon being asked to explain how he came to know that, he replied, "Why, you see, when people are talking about a wealthy man of may creed they call him an Israelite, but if he is poor they call him a Jew."

So rapidly does lung irritation spread and deepen, that often in a few weeks a simple cough culminates in tubercular consumption. Give heed to a cough, there is always danger in delay, get a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and cure yourself. It is a medicine unsurpassed for all throat and lung troubles. It is compounded from several herbs, each one of which stands at the head of the list as exerting a wenderful influence in curing consumption and all lung diseases.
