good purpose. We submit that this mystery is cleared up in More's celebrated Utopia. He describes a method in vogue there to give a protective husband full assurance that his bride is feeted by any offensive disease or marred dightly blemishes. The instinct of woman leads her to desire the admiration of man, that is as acred and as pure an instinct as any other—it was given by the Creator for a wise and beneficent purpose. This instinct inspires the style of dress which our writer calls "savage." But a sustom is not necessarily wrong or in any way offensive because it is found amongst savages, less the human race, if it revolted against all savage habits, would soon be extinct. Elizabeth Stuart Phelps adorns her person by methods known and practised by savages. She must know that many of the most gifted and most virtuous, of women wear dresses that seem to her immodest. Is it not in their case true that innocence of evil in themselves and in others explains this seeming conflict between their purity and their exposure. Hong is during the same time it is notorious that there are women who take advantage of the fashion of low-necked dresses to turn the freedom of exposure thus given into licentiousness.

Nevertheless, we contend that the portraiture of past days, the pictures we have of costumes, the Nevertheless, we contend that the portraiture of past days, the pictures we have of costumes, the literature revealing the style of manners and speech prevailing amongst ladies of good birth and breeding, even the old dresses kept as family relics, all demonstrate that the contention of Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, that the women of to day are more immodest in dress and bearing than those of preceding generations, has no basis outside her imagination.

A Bad Smash-up in the Yard.

At 7.20 last night, as the G.T.R. shunting engine was running three empty cars on to a siding in the yard just west of Simcoe street, the locomoded switch, blocking traffic for a considerable day are more immodest in dress and bearing than those of preceding generations, has no basis outside her imagination.

The permissive clause in the Assessment Act providing for a business tax in lieu of a tax upon personal property was a step in the right direction, but as customary, when the handling of the shekels was not with the Government, the optional fake was introduced. Personal taxation ought to have been wiped out, for it induces fraud and falsehood. No such undecisive legislation is on the statute books of Ontario, where any emolument or patronage is likely to accrue to the Government. The next legislature should make the business tax absolute by doing away with the contieve classification of the statute books of Ontario, where any emolument or patronage is likely to accrue to the Government. Cock of the Walk.

Editor World: Either from a physical or psychical point of view no doubt your defence of Sir John Macdonaid against The Globe's charge of being under petticoat government is correct. The man who is so must either be uxorious, or one of those flabby.minded posteroites, but always a proper section of the section of th The man who is so must either be uxorious, or one of those flabby-minded nondescripts who have allowed themselves to be hennecked ever since marriage. Sir John's age may be supposed to preclude the first alternative, and mentally he was never; and is not now, of the sort to be pecked by man or woman. He has a very ugly way of pecking back and asserting his superiority when his good nature is imposed upon. People who take a liberty with Sir John never do it twice. I do not mean that his amiability and accessibility are all spurious or affected; but he is cock of the walk always, whether on his own dunghill or off it, and brooks no dictation.

REV. CHARLES A. COOK, Baptist minister, formerly of this city (Toronto), lut now pastor of the First Baptist Church, Bloomfield, N.J., says: "Dr. A. Wiford Hail: Dear Sir. You will remember that about a month ago I called at your office and purchased your Health-Pamphlet. I have carefully read it and regard the revetation it makes as wonderful. The discovery of this common-sense remedy for the liss of life must, as I believe, create a revolution in therapeutical practice. As I have been on the go much of the time since I obtained the pamphiet I have had little opportunity for regular practice of the treatment, but three times have convinced me of its highly Lenenical effects upon my system. In this city (Toronto, Canada) I have many friends, having formerly been pastor here, and to Some of these I have been speaking and recommending your treatment as a wonderful discovery. Toronto, but now of Victoria, British Columbia, under date of August bit inst., says:

DEAR Mr. Sharrson: Yours of the 90th July was duly received. I can only say with respect to Dr. A. Wilford Hal's Hygienic Treatment that I regard it as a wonderful discovery, and if perseveringly used it cannot fait to be of great service. I would advise any one to get the pamphiet, begin the use of the treatment and throw medicine to the dogs. A very clever physician said to me the other day, "Let medicine alone and get rid of the waste materials and the organs will perform their functions." This is precisely what this treatment does.
