Grand Demonstration in Honor of Ris

Safe Roturn from Rome. There are many people who regret that the expression of welcome from the citizens of Montreal to Bishop Fabre, was not demonstrated at the bour on which he arrived in the city, and seem to forget that His Lordship would necessarily have been fatigued by his journey, and, therefore, would not have been in the mood to participate in a public celebration. A day's rest was necessary to prepare him for the task of receiving and replying to addresses.

On Thursday at 2 p. m. the Reception Committee arrived at the Bishop's Palace, and were received by His Lordship, who gave them his benediction. At three o'clock the bells of Notre Dame announced that the procession had started, and increased anxiety was manifested on the part of those who crowded the streets to obtain a position in the front rank of sight-seers. The police arrangements were perfect. Sub-Chief Maher in a more vast and elevated sphere has in no and Sergeants Glynn and Robinson commanded a posse of police at the Bishop's l'alace: another squad under the command of Sergeant Hynes, was stationed at Victoria Square : at the corner of Radegonde and Lagauchetiere streets Acting-Sergeant Egan and a small posse of police kept the line of toute clear; Acting Sergeant Knowles commanded a squad of men, who kept clear the road near the corner of St. James and Mcfill streets; while the fifth and largest division, under the command of Sub-Chief Lancey and Sergeants Beaudry, Miller and Gauthier, maintained a passage directly in front of the Church.

THE INTERIOR OF THE CHURCH, ance was about to take place. The grand to a condition of things which, by renderaltar was decorated with a number of bannerets and flags. Above all were four handome bannerets of green silk; and below these were several groups of flags made of our most sincere wishes for your welfare, cardinal red and blue silk. From an early hour in the afternoon the Church began to muister; to the Sovereign Pontiff whom you It is four times the strength of any fluid fill with a crowd of people eager to witness have just visited, and to yourself, whom we Magnesia and free from any Carbolic Acid. and welcome the return of their beloved Bishop, but towards three o'clock there were very few seats vacant within the sacred edifice. All around the Place d'Armes, and in fact all along the whole route of the procession, an immense throng had assembled, and immediately around the Church door, the police, who were under the personal command of the chief, had great difficulty in keeping a clear space for the processionists. | follows: About fifteen minutes to four the head of the procession arrived in front of the Church. First came the pupils of the Christian B.o. thers School, then come the ecclesiastics from the Montreal College: the students of Victoris College came next headed by Dr. Coderre, then a large number of private citizens and members of different societies, followed by a carriage which contained His Lordship Bishop Fabre, His Worship the Mayor, the Administrator, and Rev. Mr. Balle, Superior of the Seminary, and finally the congregation of Notre Dame de Grace headed by their pastor, the Rev. Father Marechal. Among the citizens in the pro-cession were Messrs. Laplerre, B. Tansey, J. B. Lane, Wm. Wilson, Edward Murphy, Coroner Jones, Ald. Lavigne, Grenier and Jeannotte, Drs. Rottot and Beaubien, Messrs. Glackmeyer and Duvernay. Messrs C S Schiller, H M Perrault, M Mansfield, Dr Lacoste, J L Globensky, Judge Rainville, Dr. Rottot, Rev Cure Labelle, D Duvernay, Rev Fathers Gatineau and Vilbon, W Wilson, HJ Cloran, P Donoghue, John B Murphy, G Drolet, Rev J Salmon, P Burt, C S Cherier Hon P J O Chauveau, J B Rolland, Dr Lachapelle, Judge Jette, Ald Genereux, and many others. When the head of the procession entered the church, the organ pealed out a joyous anthem. In a few moments the vast building was thronged to its full capacity, and there must have been about fifteen thousand people present when the ceremonials commenced. In the very immensity of the assembly there was a solemnity or dignity belitting the occasion. No one could look upon that vast assemblage and doubt the place which Bishop Fabre held in the hearts of his people. Awaiting his Lordship at the Church, smong others, were the following clergymen: Rev Fathers Dowd, Hogan, McDonald, Sentenne, Abbe Verrault, Lemond, Dube, Tasse, Prevost, Lenoir, Sanctois, Vacher, Baile, Regourd, Grangon, Moreau, Picard, Cuoq, Rousgould, Oranjel, Gibaud, Tambareau, Larue, Martineau, Durocher, Larin, Campion, Deschamps, Levesque, Gaudin, Quintivoin, Toupin, Brousseau, Lacan, Leduc, Moreau, Dufresno (Procurer-General), Lesage, Leblanc, Harrel, Lussier, Bruchesi, Salmon, Lonergau. As it was the season of Lent, there was no attempt to decorate the altar beyond the bannerets already mentioned. The Rev. Cure Rousselot, the parish priest, stood at the main entrance of the church, attended by his clergy and acolytes, waiting to welcome the arrival of the Bishop, and as soon as His Lordship stepped within the organist, Mr. Labelle, started the well-known air, " See the Conquering Hero Comes," the choir also joining in the authem. The immense congregation arose, and the Bishop passed up the centre aisle, bowing repeatedly on either side of him. Reaching the chancel he turned around and faced his people, and in the pleased expression of his features might be seen deeply the loving welcome had touched his heart. He motioned the congregation to be seated. The ecclesiastics from the Grand Seminary and the priests from the different parishes were ranged on each side of the altar, while in the centre of the chancel and facing the altar, was placed a chair and Pric-Dieu for the Bishop. In front of the chancel rails stood His Worship, wearing his chain of office, having on his right and left hand respectively, Judge Loranger and Mr. Cherrier. Surrounding these gentlemen were the officers of the different French and Irish societies.

Rev. Mr. Baile, Superior of the Seminary, in the name of his colleagues, welcomed home His Lordship in a pithy address. Mayor Rivand then advanced slightly and read the following address:--

To His Lordship Mgr. E. Charles Fabre, Bishop of Montreal: Monasigneus,-Permit the Catholics of your diocese to offer to your Lordship their telicitations on your safe voyage and happy return to your country after a comparatively long absence. This absence was a long one for us, assurance that it was necessary for the discharge of a duty which the interests of religion, and of your diocese, imposed upon your Lordship.
