

The development of 2.2 million horsepower of electricity in the International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence taxed the engineering skill of the two co-operating nations. Three major structures were erected, the Moses-Saunders Powerdam and the Long Sault Spillway Dam above Cornwall, and the Control Dam upstream at Iroquois. This shows an early phase of the work on the Canadian section of the Powerdam, which was started in 1954

