FOR CHARITES IMPRACTICAL, HE SAYS. H. Usher Miller thought the scheme impractical and believed it would be inadvisable to lose the aid of the multitude of volunteer workers. Dr. D. C. Maloolm said he knew that many people got assistance from more than one source. He thought the scheme was worth consideration but would necessitate a large staff. Mrs. F. Stetson said many cases would not go to a central or public source but would apply to the clergyman or women church workers. J. Hunter White felt confident that there was real need of an office for dispensing relief. He believed the generous-minded, who were often those less able, should not be called on to care for the relief work of the city but that the community should have entire responsibility.

The incoming executive of the society was asked to bring in a report on the matter.

Adjutant Chapman, representing the Salvation Army, said learning to love the people was the secret of success in charitable work. He thought the Army had an organization second to none for assisting the poor and told what precautions were taken to prevent overlapping.

The adjutant was assured that the Salvation Army work would always have the sympathy and co-operation of the society.

Father Young said he had one criticism of the scheme which he otherwise strongly favored. He thought the personal touch between the clergy and the poor must not be broken as there were more for 65; recommended, 110; records strongly favored. The Ex-Kaiser.

(Christian Science Monitor.)

Many books criticizing the character and the pollitical actions of the former Kaiser have been published in Berlin since the war, but the most important, because it is by the pen of one of Germany's leading statesmen, and at the same time one of the most severe in its criticism, is the third volume of Bismarck's memoirs. When it was published the ex-Kaiser had court proceedings opened against the publishers from his residence in Doorn, but he could not, as will be remembered, prevent the publication of the book. Now the publishers have decided to bring out a popular edition of the third volume after they have already done so with the first and second volumes. Thus the population in general will be able to purchase this book, which will undoubtedly contribute to widen the gulf already existing between the former Kaiser and the German people, who never talk and very seldom think of him, with the exception of a comparatively small number of convinced monarchists, and even many of these admit certain mistakes and faults of the last crowned head of the Reich.

SPEECHLESS MEETING.

PARIS, Nov. 13—There were scenes of extraordinary enthusiasm at a meeting a few days ago in the Grand Palais, Champs Elysees, where a gathering of 500 persons listened to addresses during which not a syllable was uttered, and the silence was broken only by bursts of clapping.

The gathering consisted of deaf mutes attending a deaf and dumb congress, and during the intervals be-

SMARTNESS, chic, last minute style—have always been outstanding qualities of Holeproof Hosiery. Now Holeproof offers you something new. A hose for fall and winter wear—as smart as those in sheerest silks yet surprisingly warm and comfortable

Pure thread silk is plaited over fine grade cashmere by a special process of knitting. The part the world sees is superlatively rich and gleaming. Yet underneath is hidden warmth and comfort.

You will find this style in the season's newest colors at most leading stores. There are several qualities all unusually moderate in price.

Holeproof makes almost every type of stocking. It offers a wide selection of colors and styles. There are men's and children's styles, as well as women's. Besure to see the new men's hase, Ex Toe, that gives 3 to 4 times more wear than ordinary kinds.

No. 1800 is still another similar style at $1.75. Holeproof is also offered in silk and silk-plaited styles in the new Panis colors, at prices from $1.00 to $2.50

AGOOD appetite usually denotes good health, yet how often you hear people say that the sight of food sickens them or complain of indigestion or gas after eating. These symptoms are often Nature's warnings that the body is in a run down condition.

Medical research has definitely proved that one of the causes of a run down condition of the body is a shortage of certain mineral elements, including iron, potassium, calcium, sodium and phosphorus, and until a sufficient supply of these minerals is restored to the body, good health is impossible. Wincamis contains every one of these elements in addition to other health giving ingredients, and in a form in which they are most rapidly absorbed into the blood and carried to every part of the body to be converted into vital force. be converted into vital force.
