A Stove That Don't Heat

We have a stove that don't heat. It's on our floor, and it will never heat your rooms while it stays there.

Why not give it a chance to do the work for which it was made? Money invested in a stove buys health and comfort, and is better than money saved.

COURSE FOR MERCHANTS

Short courses for farmers have been held for years with excellent results. In recent times courses have been added in practical housekeeping, designed especially for the benefit of the women folk on the farms. The University of Kansas, has gone a step further and regularly offers a short course for merchants, with classes in stenography, advertising, window and store display, and store management. The course is given early in February, this is the "between seasons" period when merchants are best able to attend.
