TOWNS AND HOMES

St. John people should be interested in what Mr. Vivian M. P. brought so forcibly to the attention of the Canadian Club last evening. This city is on the eve of a period of expansion. It will not experience such a boom as marks the rise of western towns, but it will increase its population steadily from year to year.

Mr. Vivian maintains that cities should be enlarged in accordance with a plan prepared before the work of building is begun; so that parks and playgrounds, arrangement of streets for public convenience, and due provision to prevent overcrowding should be assured before a single street is lined with houses. This is the German plan, and England is learning the lesson from that country.

Nothing could be more instructive than the pictures presented by Mr. Vivian, contrasting the avenues of a model suburban town with those of a cheerless tenement district, where the houses are all exactly alike, without trees, garden plots, or even a decent back yard. It is obvious that in the former there is a great deal to appeal to the imagination and develop character in children that is utterly wanting in the dull sameness of the barrack-like tenements. And when the properly planned town or suburb, with its open spaces, its grass and trees and gardens, and varied architecture, is contrasted with the slum district of a great city, how much more hateful does the latter appear.

But it is not merely a question of appearances. The very health and character of a nation is involved. Mr. Vivian pointed out that a comparison of the children of the model industrial town of Port Sunlight with those of the slums of Liverpool showed in the latter to be of much greater height and weight at a given age, and thus more vigorous and giving promise of a more lusty manhood and womanhood. Moreover, the death rate in the slum districts is enormously greater. The like is shown to be true in respect to the crowded city of Birmingham and the model suburb of Bourneville, and so the comparison might be indefinitely extended.

There is still another important aspect of the case. Get people away from slums and into a garden city and there is less intemperance and vice. Mr. Vivian told of working people who removed from close-packed tenements to garden suburbs who were so eager to work their little gardens that they would even use lanterns and work in the evening, when their daily employment did not permit them to get home in time to do it before darkness fell.

As already pointed out, Canada is interested in this matter. Mr. Vivian threw on the screen enough slum pictures from Toronto and Winnipeg to emphasize this fact. The new cities growing up in the west have an opportunity to guard against the slum. The older cities can remedy past mistakes, although this is an expensive process. Home life of the healthful sort is the great object to be attained. It affects the welfare not merely of the individual or family but of the nation itself.

A GOOD ADVERTISEMENT "Canada has an east as well as a west. This is a country rich in natural resources, of surpassing natural beauty, full of historic interest. It is destined to play a great part in Canada's future. It contains seaboard towns which are becoming great shipping centres as Canada's trade with Europe develops."

These statements are made by the Toronto Globe, along with the announcement that it has sent a member of its staff to write a series of letters on Newfoundland, New Brunswick, and Nova Scotia. These letters, it says, will tell about the Canadians of the east, their social customs, their industries, and the industrial possibilities of their country.

Lower province people will be glad to know that the Toronto Globe has decided to pursue this course. There has been a feeling, well-founded it must be confessed, that the upper province people took little interest in the maritime provinces except as a market for goods. If now they can be induced to consider the industrial possibilities hereabouts the benefit will be mutual.

HUDSON BAY ROUTE

Those who heard the remarks of Mr. M. J. Butler concerning the Hudson Bay route, in his recent address before the Canadian Club of this city, were very much interested in his statement that this route would be of value to maritime provinces shippers of coal, iron, fish and other products to the great west.

The London Times correspondent, who accompanied Earl Grey on his trip to Hudson Bay, expresses the same view. He thinks the shipment of Newfoundland and the Maritime provinces, and the fruit-growers of the latter and of the West Indies will utilize the route, and he anticipates that the major part of sugar shipments to the prairie provinces will go by way of Fort Churchill. Hence he looks upon the Hudson Bay railway as a project having an Imperial aspect. Of the practicability of the route he says: "To sum up, the Hudson Bay route is certainly available for ordinary steamship traffic from July 20 to about November 30, and experience may very possibly prove that this period can be prolonged by a week at the beginning and a fortnight at the end. During that period the dangers and difficulties of navigation are, it would seem, no greater than those on the St. Lawrence route, and there is no reason why insurance rates should be prohibitive. Given proper facilities at Churchill, it ought not to be impossible for ships leaving England about July 10 to do three trips into the Bay during the open season. The period is undoubtedly a short one. But an Arctic port like Archangel has for centuries conducted a large volume of trade within at least equally narrow limits of time."

Summarizing some further remarks by this correspondent, an exchange says:—"He thinks that the period of navigation would be sufficiently long to enable the wheat-growers to move much of their produce, the early part of the season being suitable for the export of any grain held over from the previous year, and the latter part for the early shipment of the current year's crop. As regards inward traffic he seems to be very favorably impressed with the route, and although he does not go quite as far as to admit all claimed by its most enthusiastic supporters, he says it is a reasonably easy and, indeed, promising business proposition. He is not impressed with the objection which he says he has heard, that the Bay route will interfere with the control of western markets by eastern manufacturers by giving British houses an advantage."

THE NEW EXPLORERS

The aeronauts who arrived at Chicoutimi after having drifted in a balloon over a great stretch of Quebec wilderness were pioneers in what will later become a definite business, the exploration of new territory by airship parties. On this point the Toronto World says: "The airship is making so much headway that there is now no reason for doubting that next spring will see a lot of them start for the wilds of the Canadian north and explore the country more or less from civilization up to the Arctic circle. And what applies to the unknown portions of North America will apply to Africa, to Asia, and the other unknown portions of the world. Wireless telegraphy will play an important part in this new development. Nor will it be a great while before Captain Peary's claim to have discovered the north pole will be verified by a man in a ship. Airships and wireless telegraphy are the newest and the most startling of man's new servants."

Says the Ottawa Free Press:—"Armand Lavergne, having written in Le Devoir that if Honoré Mercier were alive he would be opposed to the creation of a Canadian navy, A. M. Beauparlant, M.P., counters on the young Nationalist in good shape by quoting Mercier's own words, written in 1893, that the development of Canada would necessitate a territorial army and a navy, which would open up brilliant careers for our educated young men. Armand should try again."

A story from the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, says a Toronto paper, tells of a mother, who, with her two children, is now under treatment in that institution. The husband had been a patient, but the case was an advanced one when the patient entered, and he has since passed away. There is little doubt but that the wife was infected as a result of caring for her husband, and now she is in the Muskoka Hospital. Her little girl, about five years of age, and a boy of ten, are with her, both being afflicted with this dread disease.

A "GLAD HE'S DEAD" HAT. William O'Connor, the Detroit Democratic politician recently returned from Michigan, and he brought home the story of an Indian squaw who was anxious to have a Merry Widow hat.

Potosky furnishes a thousand things in the place are the purchasers. The Indians are taken with what is shown, and this particular squaw had seen the hats. The day her chief was to go to Potosky she gave him instructions to bring her a hat of this name.

When the chief reached the milliner's place of business the idea was still in his mind. He struggled for a while, and finally came out with a request for "She glad he dead" hat.—Buffalo Courier.

LAME BACK MISERY VANISHES AND THE KIDNEYS ACT FINE

Just a Few Doses of Pape's Diuretic Will Put the entire Urinary System in good, Healthy Working Order Again

Usually suffering from headache, bladder trouble or out-of-order kidneys are relieved after several doses of Pape's Diuretic. The time to cure kidney trouble is while it is only trouble—before it settles into Dropsy, Gravel, Diabetes or Bright's Disease. The moment you suspect any kidney or urinary derangement, or feel a constant dull headache, or notice that the urine is thick, cloudy, offensive or full of sediment, irregular passages or attended by a sensation of stinging, you should begin taking Pape's Diuretic at once. There is no other remedy at hand so sure to make you well as the wonderful Pape's Diuretic. It acts so thorough and so promptly that you will feel the difference in a few days. Pape's Diuretic acts directly upon the kidneys, clearing the urinary system; cleanses the bladder, and restores to these organs, neglected glands and completes the cure within a few days. Misery in the back, sides or loins, sick headache, indigestion or puffiness, nervousness, rheumatism and darting pains, heart palpitations, general weakness, bilious stomach, dizziness, sleeplessness, listless, worn-out feeling and other symptoms caused by active, sluggish kidneys, simply vanish. Uncontrollable urination (especially at night), smarting, discolored water and all bladder misery ends. Your physician, chemist, druggist or any mercantile agency will vouch for the responsibility of Pape, Thompson & Pape of Cincinnati, Ohio, who prepare Pape's Diuretic—30 cent treatment—sold by every druggist in the world.

THE COMING OF LOVE

How shall I know? Shall I hear him pass In the wind that sighs through the poplar tree, Murmuring soft to the whispering grass, Shaking the primrose perfumes free? Shall I wake one day to a sky all blue And meet with Spring in a crowded street? Shall I fear and tremble as lovers do And wonder to find the fearing sweet? How shall I know? Last night I lay Counting the hours' dreary sum, Till the dawn turned gold and the gold turned grey, And the breeze told me that Love had come! —Isabel Eccleston Mackay, in The Canadian Magazine.

HOW HE GOT HIS WAY. "Charlie, dear," said the young mother, "I have decided on a name for the baby. I shall call her Imogen." Charlie hesitated to be lost in thought for a moment. He didn't like the name, but if he opposed it his wife was sure to have her way.

"That's nice," he said presently. "My first sweetheart's name was Imogen. She'll like it as a compliment." "Huh! Well, we'll call her 'Mary,' after my mother," came the quick reply.

BUSINESS CAUTION.

Marshall Field III, according to a story now going the rounds, bids fair to become a very cautious business man when he grows up. Approaching an old lady in a Lakeview hotel, he said:—"Can you crack nuts?" "No, dear," the old lady replied. "I lost all my teeth ages ago." "Then," requested Master Field, extending two hands full of pecans, "please hold these while I go and get some more."

$100 REWARD, $100 The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. CORRECTED. Bob was telling about his visit to the country. While there he had acquired some rustic idioms, and his mother was correcting these as he proceeded:—"Well, we goes up."—"Went up."—"Went up on the farm."—"To the farm."—"To the farm, and there we see."—"We saw."—"We saw a little kid."—"Little child. Now, begin again and tell it properly."

"Well, we went up to the farm, and there we saw a goat's little child." (Further narration suspended).
