IN WALL STREET.

New York, Nov. 14.—Buying orders in large volume lifted prices considerably at the opening of today's stock market. Demand evidently resulted from more authoritative assurances of an easy transition of business from war to peace conditions. Rail, shipping, oil, copper and equipment were particularly strong in the advance, which extended from one to two and a half points in the first half hour. United States Steel was the only leader to make little upward progress, holding within fractional limits. French municipal bonds were strong at the record.

PERFECT WOMANHOOD

Perfect womanhood depends on perfect health. Beauty and a good disposition both vanish before pain and suffering. A great menace to a woman's happiness in life is the suffering that comes from some functional derangement which soon develops headaches, backache, nervousness and "the blues." For such suffering, women find help in that famous old root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for three generations has been restoring health to women of America.

POLITICAL FUTURE OF WHOLE WORLD IN ALLIES' HANDS

London, Nov. 13.—(British Wireless Service)—Lord Robert Cecil, assistant secretary of foreign affairs, in an address yesterday on the subject of a league of nations, declared that the Allies had in their hands the political future of the entire world. On their decisions, he added, might depend the peace and happiness of many generations. "The most glorious victory," he continued, "would be scarcely distinguishable from defeat unless by it there were laid the foundations of a lasting peace."

"The suggested league of nations, said Lord Robert, could not be restricted to a certain group of nations, but must be open to every nation which could be trusted by its fellows. It would be incomplete, and proportionately ineffective, unless every civilized nation joined it."

Rev. Gideon Swim, of this city, has accepted a call to the United Baptist church in Publico, N. S., Yarmouth county. Rev. Mr. Swim preached his first sermon there thirty-four years ago and it is a coincidence that he should receive a call from there after such a long period of time. He has been connected with churches throughout the province for the last thirty-two years, but during the last seven years did not have a church owing to ill health. As he is feeling well at the present time he is going to accept the call and will leave for his new field of labor tomorrow morning and will take charge of the services on Sunday.

HOW ITALY SAVED ART TREASURES

Timely Action by Government Was Successful
TAKEN SOUTH
Italians Amused by Prussian Boast of Captured Treasure Nothing That was Worth Taking Away.

With the triumph of Italy and the re-occupation of the territory which had been held by the Austrians, the Austrians, there will return to the northern towns and villages besides the stream of refugees a collection of priceless art treasures. In this collection of Italian, Chinese and Japanese art objects, the Austrians were born, and all left here fine examples of their work; at Udine and Belluno were important schools of Renaissance art. There was great pride, even among the peasants, in these traditions of the past, and there was scarcely a mountain town which did not have in its church or ancient palace a sacredly guarded work of an old master. When the Austrian invasion began it was feared that these treasures would be either destroyed or carried away, says the New York Sun. The Germans attempted to give the impression that they had secured much loot in this region when the government recently announced that it had on exhibition in Berlin "a valuable collection of Italian paintings and sculptures, the Austrians were already in the advance into northern Italy last fall."

A German boast, however, amused the Italians. They knew better than the Prussians themselves, the value of what the Teutons had carried away. The Italians of each town and village had such a keen appreciation of their treasures and such an affectionate regard for them that they saved, often at the peril of their lives, everything of real artistic worth. The Austrians, in the face of the panic and terror inspired by the invasion, was one of the little known romantic incidents of the Caporetto disaster. As soon as it became evident that the Italian line was wavering, the threatened region was surveyed by a representative of the minister of public instruction, and the Austrians were already in the advance into northern Italy last fall."

The two-cent-a-day rental rate will prevail as usual, and the book list, which is ahead of the moment, includes the following absorbing stories: "The Blood Beast" (Robt. Ames Bennett); "Josselyn's Wife" (Kathleen Norris); "Foes" (Mary Johnston); "The Years for Rachel" (Bertha Ruck); "The Hills of Refuge" (Will N. Harbin); "The Cow Puncher" (Robt. J. C. Stead). As the demand for books promises to be exceptionally lively, those desiring the widest range of selection should pay an early visit today to the McDonald Lending Library, 7 Market square.

Expensive Watermelons.

A year ago the farmer who should have come to town with a load of watermelons with the lightest in the lot marked $1 and an ascending scale all the way up according to size to $3.50, would have been regarded as something of a wild man. But it has come to pass that people who must have a watermelon are "paying the price." A melon that could have been bought for 25 cents in times past now costs $1, and there is no use to try and beat down the farmer.

This particular section of the country is caught "short" on watermelons, and the tariff is the highest on record. The farmers in the great melon-growing section around Camp Greene did not go into the melon venture this season, while the growers on the famed bottom lands of the Catawba planted a smaller crop than usual. Then came a season of hot, dry weather, and the smaller crop was cut still smaller. Charlotte people as a rule cannot survive the summer without a taste of the Catawba melon tonic, so they are going the pace on watermelon. On the market yesterday melons that were formerly sold around $1.25 had scratched on their shiny green backs in mark and figures large enough to be read across the street $1.50, and it appears to be a fact that these $3.50 melons went about as fast as in former days when the few dollars the population had were worth double what the dollar has same populace now has its worth.

Both the aristocrat and the plebeian have always had equal claim on the watermelon, and even when conditions have been so markedly changed under the influence of war the same rule holds good. The same scenes prevail around the watermelon wagon—of the white man carrying his purchase away in an automobile and the darky the happier of the two, toting his off under his arm—Charlotte (N. C.) Observer.

Milk Necessary for the Nation's Welfare.

In these times, of national stress and high cost of living, when mothers are confronted with the children's welfare and the keeping down of costs of their family's food, the University of Wisconsin, in Bulletin 291, recently issued, says: "It is of great importance that at this time the known facts be generally understood in order that the people, and particularly young children and growing boys and girls, may not suffer from improper selection of foods." The bulletin, which deals with the necessity of milk for the nation's welfare, brings to light the following facts:

The increased price of milk leads people into making the mistake of buying less milk. Milk is the one food which nothing else can replace. Only those people who are guided by long experience or religious rites will maintain the quantity formerly purchased.

Milk is a necessary in the diet of growing children. In the absence of milk, eggs are the only comparable substitute. The public must learn to appreciate, even with advancing prices, the importance of the dairy industry to the nation's welfare.

Milk is a perfect food. It contains all the factors of nutrition in adequate proportions and is an indispensable supplement to other food materials during growth.

Milk supplies adequate mineral material for rapid growth. Grains when used alone produce nutritive failure, but are changed to valuable products when supplemented with milk.

Milk furnishes the very best of proteins. Proteins are not all alike in promoting growth. Those of the grains are poor in quality, but when supplemented with milk or whey become very efficient.

WITHIN SIGHT OF OBJECTIVE FOR VICTORY LOAN

Europe for the purpose of securing orders for Canadian industries for the reconstruction of Europe. Canada has earned a large share of that business. She has earned it by the valor and the loyalty of her people. She will get it if she finances it.

"Some of us might thinkingly suggest that the victory loan is no longer needed to back up the men at the front. That would be a short-sighted suggestion. In a real sense the loan is needed to back them up more than ever. Because now we are going to bring them home. And what are we going to bring them home to. Are we going to bring them home to shift for themselves? Or are we going to bring them to a prosperous country, humming with enterprise and industry, a country with work and opportunity for everybody?"

"They have been fighting to protect us. Now we have an opportunity to reward them, not merely by bringing them home but by bringing them home to a land of prosperity and opportunity."

"Canada has found it € in this war. She has discovered not merely the gallantry of her soldiers, but the brains and capacity and efficiency in her whole people. Every branch in arms, in industry, in finance she has had to measure her wits against the world, and in no case has Canada reason to be other than gratified."

"Between now and Saturday night Canada has another opportunity to demonstrate to the world her efficiency and resourcefulness. A great over-subscription to the loan will be an inspiration to our own people and a notice to the world that Canada is a force to be reckoned with in the days ahead."

"My message, therefore, to everybody is to keep on buying victory bonds until the loan is closed."

EXTENSION OF TICKETS

Teachers, student teachers and students at collegiate institutions are notified that arrangements have been made by Honorable Premier Foster, representing the Board of Education, with the Canadian Pacific and Canadian Government Railways, to grant extension on return portions of round trip thirty day tickets held by bona fide teachers and scholars who have been detained beyond the time limit on account of the prevailing influenza epidemic.

It will be necessary for teachers and students when returning to re-open schools to present the return portion of ticket to the Station Agent with credentials that they are bona fide teachers or students, when a free ticket will be issued to each, good only for prompt passage.
