SOUTH OXFORD ELECTION. The result of the election in South Oxford yesterday was a surprise to most people. Without going into particulars the cause may be found in the fact that worth's only son went to the woods to cut ordwood and while felling a tree it came in Mr. Cooke's friends in the townships Mr Cooke's friends in the townships Mr. Cooke's friends in the townships worked harder than Mr. Noxon's, many of whom were too confident of success. In the Norwich's it was natural to suppose the Norwich's it was natural to suppose that Mr. Cooke would poll a large vote, ly end. but it was hoped that the Liberals of these townships would unite in supporting the party nominee. The result shows that party nominee. The result shows that many of them have sacrificed their party principles in order to secure a representative from their own vicinity. To the Norwich's the Liberals of South Oxford always looked for a large majority for their candidate. In the other municipality of the control of the property of the property of the principles of the prin their candidate. In the other municipalities the political parties are more evenly divided. With the exception of Ingersoll many handsome presents. the Conservative vote went almost solid for Cook. Until we receive the full vote polled we can make no comparison with previous elections. Mr. Cook promises the Mowat Government an independent

Total majority for Cooke, 117. South Oxford.

The victory of Mr. Cook in South Ox ford is more surprising than important. It is probably due to the inaction springing from too great confidence on the part of the friends of Mr. Noxon, whose defeat or the friends of Mr. Noxon, whose defeat is sincerely to be regretted inasmuch as he would have made a most valuable member of the House.

As a party matter the occurrence is of little moment. Mr. Cook is as distinctly pledged to support Mr. Mowat as was Mr. Noxon. In his alection address Mr. Cook In his election address Mr. Cook endorsed the Mowat Government on every important question. He "heartily every important question. He "heartily approved of the reference of the boundary and said that each Province is the best judge how to manage its own local affairs."

As to the School Reader question, he is "not in favour of frequent change," and wints the Government to print and supply the books at cost. Throughout the address there is not a word that shows the slightest sympathy with the views held by slightest sympathy with the views held by the Opposition. His election cannot be described in any sense as a Liberal defeat, for Mr. Cook is definitely committed to support the Administration on all the Dereham, Feb. 26th, 1884. He Twisted Her Tail. It was a cow, with mild brown eyes auburn bangs and a tail with a loose lock on the end, that switched the air and knocked imaginary flies into the hereafter with a snap. She was bein led down West street toward the Cort landt street Ferry by a ferocious-looking Jerseyman, whose complexion, owing to the cold weather and hot whiskey, wa red as a meteoric sunset. Suddenly, with what was apparently unnecessary cruelty, the Jerseyman struck the cow across the flank with a club, swung his arms over his head, danced a maddening double-shuffle in the street, and sat down with strange ra-pidity upon a car-rail. The cow looked over her shoulder reprovingly, and stood in her tracks. The Jerseyman arose from the impression he had made upon the ice, smoothed his coat-tails caressingly, and started toward the cow. He rapped her once, spat on his hands, rapped her twice, put his shoulder against her side-all to move her out of the track of the drays—but to no avail.

A crowd assembled. The Jerseyman got lots of sympathy but no assistance. One man suggested that she had frozen fast; another that she was undecided about the policy of the new Board of

A new con position of brass, the air-gun, and wire drawing machinery were all Nuremburg devices. The filagree silver and gold work—the medals, images, seals, and other artistic jewelry which were made dwelt there—were famous far and wide; and this variety of manufactures was increased by Hirchvogel, an artizan who travelled in Italy, and learned to make majolica. His factory, established at Nuremburg in 1507, was the first in all Germany in which such ware was made. It is not certain that playing cards were invented in Nuremburg, but they were manufactured there as early as 1380, and cannon were cast there i 1356; previous to this they had been made of iron bars soldered together lengthwise, and held in place by hoops. In short, the manufactories of Nuren berg were so numerous as to give rise to a proverb,
