

THE LECTURE
BY MR. BOOTH

Large Audience in Main Street Baptist Church Impressed With Pictures of Early Christians and Vivid Description

Herbert Booth closed his mission in the Main street Baptist church last evening, when he delivered his celebrated biographic lecture on the Early Christians to a large and appreciative audience.

The lecture is hardly like anything which has been given in this city before and those who were not there missed a religious entertainment of rarely enjoyable quality. The lecture is not a picture show and in order to enjoy it to the full it is necessary for the auditor to enter into the spirit of it. The purpose of it is to bring the world face to face with the kind of devotion which made the Christian church a possibility.

The auditorium was darkened last evening and the first picture dealt with scenes in the life of Christ from the journey of the apostles to the foot of the infant Saviour down to the holy women at the empty sepulchre after Gethsemane and Calvary. Then are shown the apostles at Pentecost, their baptism, their separation and work and finally Stephen the first Christian martyr defending his cause in the synagogue. The scenes portraying Stephen before the Sanhedrin are particularly fine.

Paul's Life Depicted. Then follow a few scenes in the life of Paul. Paul convicted as he stands looking on the pallid face of Stephen. Paul smitten on the Damascus highway, and his escape in a basket through a window in the wall which is most realistically portrayed in motion while the audience breaks into the song, "God be with you till we meet again."

Then follow scenes illustrative of the glory and decadence of Rome, bringing the narrative to Nero's conspiracy against the Christians, and the burning of Rome. The Christians are driven to the caves and the mountains where they are seen meeting to worship. The soldiers are watched with breathless attention as they steal upon them, then their unresisting submission and sometimes their sensation of escape.

The pictures depicting the Christians in the catacombs are exceptionally fine, while all the time Mr. Booth's words make them live.

There is seen the subterranean chapel with the assembled Christians reading by torchlight an epistle from St. Peter and St. Paul. The underground marriage ceremony so prettily portrayed in life models; the dying comrade girl girt about with the prayer and faith of the disciples, and finally the gloomy burial with departed prepared for burial. Nothing more realistic was ever seen on canvas than the moving picture of the burial in these gloomy caverns, accompanied by the beautiful hymn, "Forever with the Lord."

After scenes depicting of a surprise of an early Christian meeting by Roman soldiers and the manning of the worshippers, the lecturer passes to the sterner side of his subject and shows among other pictures the arrest and burning of Bishop Polycarp.

The Coliseum Orilling. Possibly the most thrilling of all the pictures and descriptions are those which relate to persecution of the Christians in the Coliseum. Some delightful views of the old buildings are shown and the purposes to which it was put are illustrated.

The lecture closes with the story of the Early Christian Martyr Mother, Perpetua. It is a heart-rending record. The story of the young wife and mother who loved her Saviour better than her husband, her father, or even her little babe. When after following her through her prison experiences and the ordeal at the Court of the Pro-Consul we at last see her standing alone in the arena before the assembled thousands, who steadfastly gazing into Heaven she is able to ignore the pains of death, the audience is prepared as little else could prepare it, for the last slide of this wonderful discourse—a slide which in letters of fire flashes back its burning question to every heart, "Will you also follow Christ?"

Mr. Booth will repeat his lecture in the Exmouth street Methodist church this evening when a silver collection will be taken.

Lisbon, Oct. 24.—The secularization of the schools involves the replacement of religious instructions therein by systematic teaching of individual morality. This is strongly favored by the reformers heading the government who claim that the greatest peril to the young republic would be passed if they succeed in educating the children so that they would apply the same honesty to politics as private life. It has been decided to suppress the faculty of theology at the University of Coimbra and abolish the taking of oaths by students and professors.

The Portuguese embassy to the Vatican has been reduced to a legation. Madrid, Oct. 24.—Thanks to their rulers in the past, Spain and Portugal are now the poorest countries in Europe, with little current gold in them. Both are beset by the unsanitary nuisance of dirty paper money of low value. Portugal has bank notes down to 100 reis, worth from 8 to 12 cents, according to the financial credit of the day.

But the people are not so much to be pitied as is generally imagined. Mere necessities of life are so cheap that a little money goes a long way. In Lisbon one may dine admirably for 6 cents with wine, perfect cleanliness and a napkin included. Lisbon's fish market is perhaps the cheapest, as it is one of the best in the world. Fruit also abounds, while grain of all sorts is cheap.

This abundance of general cheapness of mere essentials explains the reason why they have so long

FACULTY CONCERT
AT MOUNT ALLISON

Instructors in Musical and Literary Subjects Entertained Large Audience in Clever Performance Friday Evening

Sackville, Oct. 24.—The Faculty concert of the Mount Allison Ladies' College and Conservatory of Music, a function which has been anticipated with keen interest was held Friday evening and was an unparalleled success. The concert this year was of exceptional interest owing to the presence of several new members on the various staffs. A large and enthusiastic audience greeted the performers and so persistently encored the numbers as to extend the programme over a period of three hours.

Miss Smith was in her usual good voice. She is so well known to a Sackville audience that it would be superfluous to make further mention of her selections. Miss Munzing, recently appointed on the conservatory staff delighted her hearers. She is sweet, petite and daintily charming in her stage appearance, with a voice displaying much sympathy and beauty. Miss Munzing also took part in a quartette in which she and Miss Booth played a piano duet. Miss Ayer played the violin and Prof. Pickard the organ.

In the evening's programme the orchestra took a very prominent place, being used in combination with the various other instruments. Especially pleasing was the piano and organ duet in which Miss Fraser, as pianist, and Prof. Pickard, as organist, took part. Miss Fraser spent last summer studying in Paris, and was never heard to better advantage. Prof. Robert Pickard, lately appointed assistant director of the conservatory, enraptured his audience with his organ selections. This instrument is Mr. Pickard's specialty, and his performance last evening proved him a master in this art. The appearance of Miss Fydel, who was this summer appointed head of the vocal department, had been looked forward to with real interest, and everyone was charmed with her rich, beautiful voice. Her tones are full and clear, and she possesses a magnificent range. Miss Fydel sang several solos and was also heard in a duet with Miss Smith.

It is impossible to do credit to Miss Mitchell's number. In her presentation of "Jeanne d'Arc," the audience lived for a time on the famous French battle field. Miss Mitchell is wonderfully gifted and possesses marvelous magnetic power.

We all know what to expect when it is announced that Prof. Horsfall is to appear on a programme. His performance was characterized by his unusual finish and brilliancy. Altogether Mount Allison has never in her history been in a better position to do more excellent work.

BIG PROGRAM AT OPENING OF BOSTON ARENA

Boston, Oct. 24.—The new Boston arena was dedicated tonight with an interesting programme of sporting events which wrestling predominated.

Dr. Ben Roller, of Seattle, Wash., secured two falls from John Peralli, of Italy; the first in twenty-five minutes, five seconds, and the second in fourteen minutes, fifty-five seconds. Jim Farnham, former middleweight champion, was unable to throw Young Leonard, of Brooklyn, N. Y., in thirty minutes, while Joe Terardi meeting Young Lewis and Bob Somerville, 130 pound champion, meeting Joe Gordon of the navy, secured draws.

The five mile running race was won in twenty-six minutes, forty-two seconds, by Al Rahmes, of Perth Amboy, N. J., with Ted Crooks, of Auburn, N. Y., second and Jimmie Lee, of Boston, third.

The appearance of Miss Fydel, who was this summer appointed head of the vocal department, had been looked forward to with real interest, and everyone was charmed with her rich, beautiful voice. Her tones are full and clear, and she possesses a magnificent range. Miss Fydel sang several solos and was also heard in a duet with Miss Smith.

It is impossible to do credit to Miss Mitchell's number. In her presentation of "Jeanne d'Arc," the audience lived for a time on the famous French battle field. Miss Mitchell is wonderfully gifted and possesses marvelous magnetic power.

E. D. G. FAIR COMES UP TO EXPECTATIONS
Large Crowd at Opening Last Evening Enjoy Speeches and Various Amusements--Ald. Hayes in Lead.

The Every Day Club hall on Union street was crowded to the doors last evening at the opening of an annual event where the ladies can procure all the decorated and the fair appears to be an assured success. In the center of the hall is a round booth in which refreshments are sold. Near the entrance are both where temperance drinks, coffee and refreshments are dispensed, and on the southern side of the building a fancy booth is erected where the ladies can procure all kinds of fancy dry goods. On the platform is an ice cream booth. For the amusement of the many patrons a table, a guessing contest, and a voting competition for the most popular alderman in the city.

A door prize is given away each evening. Last evening ticket No. 43 won the prize, which was five pounds of tea.

About 8 o'clock His Worship Mayor Pink, and Police Magistrate R. J. Ritchie were ushered to the platform and introduced by the chairman Chas. A. Jones. The Mayor congratulated the club and the ladies on their undertaking and the handsome appearance of the hall. He wished them all success, and said that the citizens should greatly appreciate the work that was being done by the club.

Magistrate Ritchie spoke along the same lines as the Mayor.

A. M. Belding gave a short address in which he outlined the work that had been done by the club and the plans for the future.

An orchestra led by Prof. Bowden, rendered some choice selections, and solo were rendered by Matthew Morris.

The following ladies are in charge of the different booths: Lunch counter—Mrs. D. Cummings, Mrs. E. W. Barker, Mrs. Geo. Collins and Mrs. W. G. Stokes.

Ice Cream—Harry Scott, Miss Haynes and Miss Ida Moore.
Refreshments—George Laird and E. Ricketts.

NOTED NEW YORK MILLIONAIRE AND YACHTSMAN SUCCEUMS IN MERCEDES HOTEL--ONE OF FAMOUS QUARTETTE OF BROTHERS

Paris, Oct. 24.—Louis Lorillard died Saturday night at the Mercedes hotel.

Sought Health Abroad. Newport, R. I., Oct. 24.—Louis L. Lorillard, who died in Paris Saturday night, was a yachtsman and a millionaire. Besides the widow he leaves three sons, Georges, Bernard and Louis Jr. Mrs. James B. Kerchoach of this city is an aunt, and Lorillard Spencer a cousin.

Prominent in Society Circles. Louis L. Lorillard was the youngest of a famous yachtsman family who were prominent socially in New York. In his younger days he was considered the most popular young man in New York. He became a yachtsman of considerable note and was discussed among members of the New York and Newport set.

Of the quartet Pierre was the oldest, Jacob the second and George the third. George died in his youth. Mr. Pierre Lorillard acquired great wealth in the tobacco industry and was also a noted horseman, having been a Derby winner.

Louis Lorillard was still a youth when his father died, leaving a big fortune to be divided among the children. When he became of age he was one of the wealthiest young men in New York. His sporting fancies were just as strong as those of his two older brothers, Pierre and George, and he soon took to yachting. He travelled around the world and had many thrilling experiences, which in later years he liked to relate in a conversational way. He was an interesting speaker and could narrate a tale in a most entrancing manner.

The first yacht he owned was a schooner yacht which he named Eva, after his sister. The yacht was of the old skimming dish model. It was exceedingly speedy and often was the van of the yachts of the New York Yacht Club. Mr. Lorillard was at that time perhaps the youngest yacht owner in the club. He was one of the most hospitable of the members.

Eventually Mr. Lorillard found the Eva too small for his purposes and built the Wanderer, a fine schooner which in her day represented the most up to date type of a keel ocean going vessel. In the Wanderer he made many long trips to sea, invariably having a party of friends on board. After Mr. Lorillard had had his share of little sea for the Wanderer which he believed to be in existence today.

Mr. Lorillard several years after his marriage went to live in a beautiful cottage in Newport worth several hundred thousand dollars by a relative, Miss Catherine Lorillard Wolfe, in her will. Mr. Lorillard had been a resident of Newport for years.

Mr. Lorillard was a member of the Union Club, New York Yacht Club, St. Anthony Club and the St. Nicholas Society.

NEW WARSHIP VERY SPEEDY
Indefatigable, Latest Addition to British Navy, Characterized as Ugliest Ship Afloat but Can Go Some.

London, Oct. 23.—The new British battle ship-cruiser Indefatigable, which will proceed from Devonport for her speed trials in the Channel after taking aboard 2,000 tons of coal, and 600 tons of oil, probably will be distinguished as the "ugliest ship afloat."

Engineers at the Devonport dockyard expect that she will show a speed of two or three knots more than the twenty-six knots which the vessel must develop, her turbines being ostensibly designed to develop 44,000 horse power.

One factor marring the symmetry of the Indefatigable is that her funnels, three in number, are all of different design, and are set at unequal distances apart. The forward funnel is twenty feet higher than the other two, the purpose of this being to carry the fumes clear of the fire control station from the fore tripod. Her hull also embodies some striking departures of design. From her stem to about one fifth her length aft, the war ship is built like a wedge. No racing yacht has quite such knife-like lines.

The Indefatigable will be driven through the waves, not over them. Her immense freeboard forward renders this possible. Where a smaller vessel might be engulfed this battle ship-cruiser, her designers contend, will merely throw a smother of spray. The idea of minimizing the vessel's power is that she may not lose speed by plunging in heavy weather, and thus give greater steadiness at the gun platforms. Enormous bilge keels are intended to reduce rolling.

Eight twelve-inch guns are mounted in four turrets, the wing pair being schooled so that all guns can be brought to bear on either broadside, and six ahead or astern.

Vote for the Most Popular Alderman.—R. S. Edgecombe, Miss Collins, Miss M. Humphrey, Miss Boyce and the Misses Kerchoach.

The fair will be open every night of the following week. In the aldermanic vote last night the following were the results at the close of the evening: Hayes, 26; Wigmore, 25; Jones, 15; Potts, 12; McGoldrick, 7; Russell, 6, and Sproul, 1.

RADICAL REFORMS IN THIS PROGRAM
Trades and Labor Council Will Consider Remedies for All Ills Affecting the Workingman--To Enter Politics.

With the reorganization of the Trades and Labor Council, there has been a revival of interest in labor circles in the possibility of promoting progressive programs of work for the condition of the workers in this city and place them on a par with workers in other cities. An interesting and progressive program of work for the winter is being mapped out and the delegates to the council intend to inaugurate a movement that will enable the workers to plan an active part in the working out of the various problems bearing upon the progress of the city in commercial well being.

Among the reforms they intend working for are the abolition of the property qualification for aldermen, and the election of working class representatives to the city council. A determined effort will be made to secure the abolition of the practice of disenfranchising citizens because they do not pay their taxes before a certain date. The labor men say this practice is contrary to the spirit of British institutions since citizens are deprived of the right of representation without being relieved of the obligation to pay taxes.

Other matters that will engage attention are: The appointment of labor representatives on the board of school trustees as in Toronto and other cities. The reform of the civic taxation system taking taxes out of improvements and placing them on land values.

The insertion of a fair wage clause in provincial and civic contracts, and the use of the union label on public printing and other supplies.

An amendment to the elections act requiring elections to be held on a legal holiday.

Legislation requiring railways and all other corporations to pay wages in cash at least once a fortnight. The raising of the limit for the exemption of taxes on incomes.

Legislation giving the city greater authority in the matter of the regulation of its street using franchise.

The actor by the city council to compel the public utilities commission to investigate the capitalization of the street railway and allied companies with a view to effecting a reduction of the rates for gas, electric power and lighting, and securing to the people the right to purchase 8 street car tickets for 25 cents, good between the hours of 6 and 8 in the morning and 5 to 7 in the evening, as in other cities.

FRIGHTFUL TOLL OF TUBERCULOSIS
U. S. Census Bureau Issues Bulletin Giving Statistics on Cause of Death--Consumption Takes 14.8 Per Cent.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—Tuberculosis of the lungs, heart disease and accidental violence in the census bureau's death registration area of the United States which represents more than 55 per cent. of the estimated population, caused more than 37 per cent. of the deaths from all causes in 1909 among certain classes. These classes are gainfully employed or occupied males.

"The same causes led to 39 per cent. of the deaths from all causes from the occupied females." The census bureau in a bulletin today on mortality statistics says that of a total of 210,507 deaths among those gainfully employed males, typhoid claimed 2.2 per cent., tuberculosis of the lungs, 14.8, cancer, 5.5, heart disease 4.8, pneumonia 3, suicide 6, and accidents, 10.5.
