BRENNAN EXPLAINS ACT.

Philadelphia, July 2.—Addie Brennan, the Phillies' southpaw, who floor McGraw of the Giants yesterday with a punch on the jaw, in an interview today shoulders the entire responsibility of the affair and exonerates every other Philadelphia player from the fracas. Sec Foster of the New York club last night issued a statement, saying that when McGraw fell he was kicked and cuffed by other Philadelphia players while lying on the ground.

This Brennan and the rest of the Phillies vehemently deny. Brennan says he was the only player to punch McGraw and that no teammate assisted him, nor did any kick McGraw, Addie said.

"As soon as I heard the vile oath McGraw directed at me, and then seeing him approach, I met him half way, landing my left to his nose and following with a right-hand swing which floored him. Nothing else transpired, for Otto Knebe grabbed me, then I was hustled into the dressing room, while Mike Doolan assisted McGraw in getting to his feet."

"No player with any spirit would have taken what McGraw said to me, and he deserved all he got."

McGraw refused to discuss the matter today.

SPORTOGRAPHY

Regatta Week at Henley Affords Rare Spectacle.

Regatta week at Henley, the quaint old town on the Thames fifty miles from London, affords a rare spectacle for the thousands of visitors to England who annually make the Henley pilgrimage during the first week of July. For those not rowing enthusiasts Henley still affords a wide variety of entertainment. For a large proportion of the visitors, indeed, the regatta itself is but an incident. Country people for a score of miles around make regatta week the occasion of their annual summer holiday, and they make good business for the hundreds of fairs, showmen and booth merchants who gather from all over England. Henley after dark during regatta week affords a spectacle not to be seen elsewhere. The river is thronged with houseboats, punts, and other craft, all brilliantly decorated with Japanese lanterns, while the bridge is strung with electric bulbs of all colors, and the shores on both sides are ablaze with color. The myriad lights, reflected in the water, give to the Thames the appearance of a gigantic kaleidoscope. Fireworks directed on a lavish scale add to the spectacular beauty of the scene. The streets of Henley put on their gala attire, and the visitor is confronted by numerous "welcome" signs. All of this lavish display the "guests" of Henley pay for, with a wide margin of profit added. As an example, the necessary and inevitable tea, which commands a price of "thrupence" the pot at other seasons of the year, is quoted at a shilling during regatta week. Thirty Englishmen bring their tents along, and brew their own beer. The meadow near Henley is the favorite resort of the rural folk, and games and contests of skill, strength and chance, booths in which everything indigestible and worthless are on sale, and shows of many varieties serve to separate them from their savings.

The most amusing sight of all, however, is to see a visiting American try to punt. All the Yankee visitors try to do it, and all miserably fail, catching their poles in the mud and usually by diving headlong into the water. "Bally good dive, old top," is the polite of the comments made by the appreciative spectators.

The national game of baseball is now a world wide sport and is today looked upon as the cleanest kind of sport. It has been known for years that speculators and gamblers have tried to buy an interest in the great American league, but have been unable to do so, as the men who are at the head of the league wanted to keep the sport clean as possible and to do away with any gambling or betting. A short time ago there were over 150 men refused admission to the Polo Grounds in New York to witness one of the games as they were known to have had money wagered on the game. Just a week or so ago in Boston, 100 people were refused admission to the Boston grounds, and within the past few days 40 were arrested in Chicago and taken out of their homes for the same offence. On this account it has been the endeavor of the organizers of the Maine and New Brunswick League to make this league on the same principles as they are now doing in the large American cities, and to prohibit all betting on the grounds on these games, as it is certainly objectionable to the spectators and a very bad example to set the small boys who attend these games. For the last two years the owners of the Marathon Club have noticed that considerable betting was done on their grounds, and although they tried to prohibit this, and for a while it was stopped, but at yesterday's game it was noticed that there were still small wagers being made on the grounds. The management have decided that while they wish to treat all the patrons of the game in as friendly a manner as possible and do all they can for their convenience, etc., yet they have decided that no bets or wagers shall be made on these grounds and the persons doing so will be spotted and ejected, and refused admission to any further games. This is merely a warning given in a friendly spirit and the management trust the rules of these grounds will be strictly observed and all gambling refrained from. Baseball today has such a hold on the public that in every backyard and playground, you will find morning, afternoon and evening where teams of young men are playing, therefore the interests of the public that this game be kept clean and made a healthy sport, so that the children and everybody can enjoy the same. The management also wish to add that on Tuesday of next week the grounds will be thrown open to all school children and the bleachers will be reserved for them. This includes all the children of the orphan institutions, Catholic and Protestant, in St. John, and if at all possible, it will be made with the street railway free transportation will be given to the children who wish to attend Tuesday's game.

LYNN RELEASES JEFF PFEFFER.

Lynn, July 2.—Big Jeff Pfeffer, the former National Leaguer, who has been carried along by the Lynn New England League club since the season opened, as a member of its pitching staff, was released by Manager Flaherty today. The showing which Scanlon, a youngster, has made, caused Flaherty to drop Pfeffer.

PIRATES SELL BOOE TO SAINTS.

St. Paul, Minn., July 2.—Announcement was made today that the St. Paul American Association team had secured from the Pittsburgh National League team outfielder Booe. He will report here at once, where he will be used as utility fielder.

Hamilton, Bermuda, July 2.—The University of Pennsylvania cricket team lost their first match against the Bermuda cricket eleven by something more than one wicket. The match began yesterday when Pennsylvania scored 183 for the first innings. The visitors were able to tally only 38 today.

The Harrison players scored 141 in the first innings and 96 in the second innings today for nine wickets. The Pennsylvanians will play the Hamilton cricket club eleven tomorrow.

Kiel, Germany July 2.—An additional race for Sonderklasse yachts was sailed here at the regatta today, in which Sonakind was first. Second and third were Res V. third. The first two boats are light weather yachts, which found racing conditions suitable for the first time today. The challengers for the regatta off Marble Head in September have not yet been selected.

ST. CROIX SHUT OUT BY GREEKS.

When a fan reads that the Marathons made ten runs and shut the St. Croix team out yesterday afternoon, he would be led to believe that the game was not an interesting one. Such is not the case, however, as the game which was witnessed by about seven hundred people on the North End grounds proved to be one of the most interesting games that has been played this season. It was full of the best class of fielding on both teams and play after play was so well accomplished that the players were greeted with rounds of applause. It was a good hot afternoon for baseball and during the entire game there was only one misplay and that happened in the third inning when Pease dropped an easy fly in left field, but it was not costly as there were two men down and the next to bat flied out and retired the side.

Joe Tarbell was never in better shape to pitch, and he certainly had the sign on the visitors. A single in the first, a double in the second and a hitting in the third were all the hits that St. Croix managed to make off of Hawah's delivery, while his support was of the very best variety, some of the hardest chances being accepted by the Greeks, and many a play was of the sensational kind that brought forth rounds of applause.

During the nine innings only four St. Croix players reached as far as the first base safely and two of these got as far as the second base. The Greeks had a great batting streak, as they made no less than 15 hits during their eight innings at bat. Lee, the St. Croix star twirler, was the first man to pitch for the visitors, and he did not appear to be working just right, for in the first two innings he was hit for five safe hits, gave four bases on balls, and three, assisted by a sacrifice fly and a pass ball, he had the St. Croix team on base. Lee was then benched and Parker taken from centre field and put in the box. This did not stop the Marathons from hitting and in the remainder of the game they made ten hits off of Parker. The following is the box score and summary of the game:
