SEPTEMBER.—We give here a good receipt to clean a rusty plough. Take a quart of water, and pour slowly into it half a pint of sulphuric acid. The mixture will become quite warm from chemical action, and this is the reason why the acid should be poured slowly into the water, rather than the water into the acid. Wash with it, and let it remain on the iron till it evaporates. Then wash it again. The object is to give the acid time to dissolve the rust. Then wash with water and you will see where the rust spots are. Apply some more acid and rub over those spots with a brick. The acid and the scouring will remove most of the rust. Then wash the mould board thoroughly with water to remove all the acid, and rub it dry. Brush it over with petroleum or other oil, and let it be till spring. A little extra care, at the time of using, would render this prescription unnecessary.
