A Funny Language.

The native dictionary of Samoa is interesting in the light it casts upon the Samoan character. I find "an impossibility, such as an old man getting a young wife." Another word means "to beg deliriously for fishbooka." "Unwelcome" is given, "such as a visiting party that is accompanied by neither a handsome man nor a pretty maid." The definition of "widow" or "widower" is synonymous with detached shell-fish.

There are also definitions that show considerable thought and frony. "Meanness," for instance, can go no further than "to climb out on your own breadfruit tree to steal your neighbor's breadfruit." Faapuatama, like a trumpet blown by wild lads, blown anyhow

"I am a Liberal, and have been one all my life, but I am tired of the corruption in official circles in the Soo. Government is certainly respons ble for the acts of its paid officials, In the Soo these, are paid masters,

Mr. Byrne is in the field as an in ness. It naturally attracted a good deal of attention, and one day a woman in dependent candidate for Saulte Ste. passing stopped to look at it. She recognized the figure, but to make certain went in and asked the sculptor and found that she was correct.

The woman shook her head and said Marie, and when a pronounced Liberal, such as he, comes out in opposition to the Government, it is proof ositive that it is time for a change, While Mr. Ross and his colleagues are sadly, "Ab, Mary Jane was always a claiming all the credit for the improvvain critter, but I never though she ed conditions in New Ontario, his old would go this far." supporters are in a very practical way declaring that the country has not been developed as it should have of being in four states at week later Vancouver, the Cana- to-day had not the progressive old there is one spot in the United States-

Hamilton Herald. Rev. Father Teffy, the able and eloquent principal of St. Michael's colsnobbery and petty persecution Canadian club said last night that education depends upon the state, the church and the home, each having its duty to perform. We heartily agree with this opinion. And it should be added that the educational functions of the state, the church and the home should be kept separate each from the others.

When snow is smoke.

When Professor James Dewar inserted a small jet of flaming hydrogen into a vessel of liquid oxygen, the hydrogen continued to burn, giving off snow instead of smoke. The snow was formed by the instantaneous freezing of the water created by the combination of the burning hydrogen with the oxygen of the burning hydrogen with the oxygen inclosing it. When he cooled liquid air until it became semisolid, he found he could draw the oxygen out of the mass with a magnet, leaving a jelly of pure nitrogen.
