

SUFFERED AGONY WITH NEURALGIA

Nothing Helped Her Until She Tried "Fruit-a-lives"

CAMPBELLVILLE, Ont., May 5th, 1913.
"I cannot speak too highly of 'Fruit-a-lives'. For over thirty years, I have suffered from Chronic Neuralgia and Constipation, experiencing untold agony. The Neuralgia settled in my lungs and I took bottle after bottle of medicine without relief. The doctor told me I would not get better but 'Fruit-a-lives' proved that the doctor was wrong, by giving me quick relief and finally and completely curing me.
I would not have my present health if it was not for 'Fruit-a-lives' and I am glad of the opportunity of giving you this letter about such a splendid remedy as 'Fruit-a-lives' for the guidance of other women who may be similarly afflicted."
Mrs. NATHAN DUNN.
'Fruit-a-lives' is the only medicine made from fruit juices and is particularly suited to women because of its mild action and pleasant taste. 'Fruit-a-lives' is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or may be obtained from Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa.

Boys on the Street.

An investigator who reviewed the brief careers of the four gunmen who were electrocuted recently for the murder of Ruesenthal, the New York gambler, found one experience common to the four. All had been educated on the streets. From the street they graduated to the pool rooms when they were old enough, and none of them was far advanced in his teens before he had displayed some of the evil tendencies that go with a street education. Of late years organized society has come to recognize that it owes a duty to children by providing them with beautiful playgrounds, but there are playgrounds, and since the four gunmen were children a dozen years ago they had the opportunity of using these playgrounds. The mere buying of play rounds will not keep the boys off the street any more than the opening of tea rooms will keep them off their own streets. They are frequented by hundreds of boys who invade them first for business purposes, and it is only a short time before they learn all that vile and coarse life. Probably it is necessary for these boys to be on the streets, as they are in many cases the chief support of a widowed mother. To deprive them of the right of frequenting the streets at night might be to impose a hardship in many a home. Yet by permitting them to run the streets at all hours, to congregate with older boys whose own influence upon them may be a depraving one, is to take a risk.

Classroom Howlers.

The editor of the University Correspondent, recently offered a prize of one guinea for a collection of the choicest 'howlers' or blunders of the schoolboy. A selection from those sent is given:

A Sailor's Yarn.

Some men in a public house were listening stories to pass away the time. They had all had a yarn at it except an old sailor, who had remained silent all the time, until pressed by the others to spin a yarn. He began:

"I was once in a dreadful storm. All the provisions were washed overboard. I was very ill, and ate nothing for four days; at the end of that time I began to feel hungry, and the steward gave me beef, chicken, port wine and eggs."
"But you said all the provisions were washed overboard. Where did the beef come from?"
"From the bullocks' (bulwarks), said the old sailor."
"And where did you get the chicken from?"
"From the hatch."
"And the port wine?"
"From the port hole."
"And the eggs?"
"Eggs?" said the sailor. "I didn't say eggs did I?"
"Oh, yes you did, said the men. We've caught you now."
The old sailor thought he was caught, and had to consider. At last he said: "Oh, yes, I did have eggs. The captain ordered the ship to lay to, and he gave me one."

After he had kissed her and pressed her rosy cheek against his, and patted her round chin, she drew back and asked—"George, do you shave your self?" "Yes," he replied. "I thought so," she said. "Your face is the roughest I ever—" Then she stopped; but it was too late, and he went away with a cold, heavy lump in his breast.

"I don't seem to be able to say the right thing to women," said a young man confided to us the other day, "and that's why I don't shine in their society. I'll tell you an instance of it. Not long ago I met a woman I hadn't seen for years, and I could see that she was trying to keep young. So I thought I'd say a graceful thing to her.
"You carry your age remarkably well," says I.
"Well, the moment I said it I could see that I was in the wrong. She was looking chilly and getting red so I said:
"Don't mind my little jokes—I never mean what I say. As a matter of fact, you don't carry your age a bit well."
"And then she killed me with a haughty look, and called away with out saying good bye. Say, how should I have put it?"

REMARKABLE CASE OF Mrs. HAM

Declares Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her Life and Sanity.

Shamrock, Mo.—"I feel it my duty to tell the public the condition of my health before using your medicine. I had falling, inflammation and congestion, I was so weak, pains to both sides, backaches and bearing down pains, was short of memory, nervous, impatient, passed sleepless nights, and had neither strength nor energy. There was always a fear and dread in my mind, I had cold, nervous, weak spells, hot flashes over my body. I had a pain in my right side that was so sore that I could hardly bear the weight of my clothes. I tried medicines and doctors, but they did me little good, and I never expected to get out again. I got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier, and I certainly would have been in grave or in no system if your medicine had not saved me. Now I can work all day, sleep all at night, eat anything I want, have no hot flashes or weak, nervous spells. All pains, aches, furs and drags are gone. My home, children and husband are no longer neglected, so I am almost entirely free of the bad symptoms I had before taking your remedies. I had no measure and happiness in my home."
Mrs. JOHN H. H. E. D. 4 Box 22, Shamrock, Missouri.

Stern George Washington.

Etiquette at the White House has never been so severe as in the days of Washington. The first American president had a code of observance drawn up, with which all persons coming into contact with him were expected to make themselves acquainted. He excited well nigh as much deference as royalty. At receptions he greeted all comers with a stately bow but never deigned to shake hands, and nobody was allowed to address him until he took the initiative. The gentlemen who in attendance were expected to see these rules observed. Washington never visited a private house, and at his own dinner parties the protocol stipulated that the president does not remain at the table drinking after the cloth is removed.—London Chronicle.

It is Whispered:

That an old story is being revived of a prayer meeting held for the benefit of a poor fellow's relief who had broken his leg. While Deacon Brown was praying, a tall fellow with an ox-goad knocked at the door, saying: "Father couldn't come but sent his prayers in the cart." They consisted of potatoes, beef, pork, corn and eggs. That some folks find it hard to live within their income; but they would find it mighty hard to live without it. That's so, my boy, there are one hundred millions of people in this country, and you are only one of them—just one! Think of that once in a while, when you get to wondering what would happen to the world if you should die.—Es.

Continuous Efforts.

Genius is only the power of making continuous efforts. The line between failure and success is so fine that we scarcely know when we pass it; so fine that we are often on the line and do not know it. How many a man has thrown up his hands at a time when a little more effort, a little more patience would have achieved success. As the tide goes clear out so it comes clear in. In business, sometimes prospects may seem darkest when really they are on the turn. A little more persistence, a little more effort, and what seemed hopeless failure may turn a glorious success. There is no failure except in no longer trying. There is no defeat except from within. No really insurmountable barrier say our inherent weakness of purpose.

Western Conceits.

In a coincidence with the general custom in Canada, the name, Albe, hitherto been abbreviated, the letters "Alta" being used. But now, it has come from the prairie province. According to the view of these westerners, no abbreviation should be used for the name of so great a province as Alberta. The post office department has accordingly given orders that in all postal documents the name must be written in full.
This exhibition of western conceits is about the most foolish yet and we fear in these hurried times many will still abbreviate the name even at the risk of wounding the pride of the Albertians.

A clergyman, taking occasional duty for a friend in one of the inner land churches of a remote part of England, was greatly scandalized on observing the old verger, who had been collecting the offertory, abstract a half crown before presenting the plate at the altar rails. After service he called the old man into the vestry and told him with emotion that his crime had been discovered. The verger looked puzzled. Then a sudden light dawned on him.
"Why, sir, you don't mean that old half crown of mine? Why O, you 'fied off' with the last 15 year!"

A clergyman in P. E. Island some years ago, when preaching on the sweetness of home and duties of husbands, said that old married men should kiss their wives as they did when they were a year or two married. Meeting the preacher the next day the old man said, "It's no good, parson." "What isn't?" asked the preacher. "Well," said the old man, "when I went home after the sermon last night and kissed my wife she said, 'What's gone wrong with you, you old fool!'"

A little boy of 5 was invited to a children's party. The next day he was giving an account of the fun, and said that each of the little visitors had contributed either a song, a recitation, or music for the pleasure of the other's ear.
"Oh, poor little Jack!" said his mother. "How unfortunate you could do nothing!"
"Yes, I could, mother," replied the young hopeful. "I stood up and said my prayers!"

"In China, my dear friends," said the absent minded missionary, "human life is regarded as of slight value. Indeed, if a rich Chinaman is condemned to death he can easily hire another to die for him; and I believe many poor fellows get their living by thus acting as substitutes!"

"Who was that scaly looking individual I saw you give half a dollar to?"
"An old Herry friend of mine; number of Ten Thousand Ways of Making Money."

The best some men have to do the long way for you around before getting busy.
