The first appearance of the recruit class of the 91st Regiment occurred last evening, and there were about thirty strapping young men in line when Q. M. Sergt. Smith and Q. M. Sergt. Wittun arrived to take charge. The squad was divided and put through solid drill work for the course of an hour. A number of the course of an hour. A number of

ing to book this act, and theatre patrons who have followed the career of these elever girls will be pleased to know that they will occupy a prominent position on next week's bill. Among a number of other important attractions booked for next week are Maurice Freeman, at the head of his elever company, in a pleasing comedy sketch, and Sam Williams, the monologue pianist. Its nip and tuck between at least half a dozen numbers on this week's bill for the headline position, judging by the applause provoking success of the acts. One of the best of these is Florene Tempest. Lawrence Crane keeps the audience mystified with his wonderful elisions, and floey and Lea keep them screaming with laughter. They are the educates of the highest class, and Sig. Cilla. The other sopranos and contratos include Mile, Georgina Strauss, Mile Zerad, Mile, Bossi. The baritones and bassos are Mme. Zara, Arcangeli, Gravini, Oteri, Franscona, Drogoni, Guiliani and others of note. HARMONIC SOCIETY ANNUAL. Once again the Ancient Order of Hibernians held forth at the Grand Opera House, on the 17th of March, and the place was packed from top to bottom. The programme was very enjoyable, and, judging from the applause, every one was highly pleased. Mr. John Hackett, under whose direction the entertainment was given, is to be congratulated on the successful manner in which the production was put on. To handle over 200 people was no easy task, and there was not a single hitch during the whole per-

AT THE SAVOY.

That exquisite love story, written in J. M. Barrie's happiest style, is proving its attractive qualities at the Savoy this week. The players have managed to get into the characters described in the novel, and the scenic artist has been most happy in securing just the right effect to give atmosphere to the piece. No detail has been overlooked, and the furnishings of Nannie Webster's cottage transports the spectator to the home of that gude Scotch lady in Thrums. Miss Margaret Hagen is all that could be desired as Lady Babbie, and gives a fascinating personality to the role of Lady Babbie. From the moment she made he: first appearance, waltzing in the monlight, to the final scene, when she enters the door of the manse, she commands attention. She has a wealth of auburn hair, and is a most winsome heroine. She has been wonderfully well received and will doubtless preve. She has been wonderfully well great favorite with the theatregoers of Hamilton. The management of the Savoy take
