LET US REASON TOGETHER.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

WHY ARE WE SICK?

It has been the lot of the human race to be weighed down by disease and suffering. HOLLOWAY'S PILLS are especially adapted to the relief of the WEAK, the NERVOUS, the DELICATE, and the INFIRM, of all climes, ages, sexes and constitutions. Professor Holloway personally superintends the manufacture of his medicines, and offers them to a free and enlightened people, as the best remedy the world ever saw for the removal of disease.

THESE PILLS PURIFY THE BLOOD.

These famous Pills are expressly combined to operate on the stomach, the liver, the kidneys, the lungs, the skin, and the bowels, correcting any derangement in their functions, purifying the blood, the very fountain of life, and thus curing disease in all its forms.

DYSPEPSIA AND LIVER COMPLAINTS.

Nearly half the human race have taken these Pills. It has been proved in all parts of the world, that nothing has been found equal to them in cases of disorders of the liver, dyspepsia, and stomach complaints generally. They soon give a healthy tone to those organs, however much deranged, and when all other means have failed.

GENERAL DEBILITY.—ILL HEALTH.

Many of the most despotic Governments have opened their Custom Houses to the introduction of these Pills, that they may become the medicine of the masses. Learned Colleges admit, that this medicine is the best remedy ever known for persons of delicate health, or where the system has been impaired, as its invigorating properties never fail to afford relief.

FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

No Female, young or old, should be without this celebrated medicine. It corrects and regulates the monthly course at all periods, acting in many cases like a charm. It is also the best and safest medicine that can be given to children of all ages, and for any complaint; consequently no family should be without it.

A PUZZLE FOR PASTIME.

My fame you've heard, my name you've seen,
To all the world a tale I've been;
I'm yet alive, though very weak,
And often, thundering loud I speak;
The letters of my name you'll find,
By pondering well within your mind
What follows here, so read it well,
And see if you my name can spell;
My first and second added be,
To them my fourth, and you shall see,
That when pronounced, you'll have no more
Than can be seen from shore to shore;
My second, fourth, and fifth you add,
To that my sixth, and you will find
Where Bethlehem's star of old was seen,
Which to wise men a guide had been;
My third and fourth and sixth I call
Something with which to play at ball,
Or what in daytime you might see
Stuck to the branch of some old tree;
My eighth and seventh place them well,
Add then my sixth, and you will spell
What housekeepers could not well spare,
For then, how could they cook their fare?
My fifth and sixth, and seventh take,
My ninth and tenth, and they will make
What answers well when chairs are few,
And now, I've told my name to you.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A CONVERT FROM MOHAMMEDANISM AT MALTA.—Our attention has been called to the case of Edward Williams and his family, now at Malta. They are, in some sense, a first fruit of missionary labour among the Turks. He has been compelled to leave his native country from a well-grounded fear of capital punishment for apostasy from Islamism. He is a man of tried piety, and, should the way be opened for his return home, his knowledge of Turkish and Armenian would make him, and probably his sons, most useful in spreading the gospel. Two of the last named are in the Malta Protestant College. Williams's only means of support is $5 a month as doorkeeper of the Presbyterian church.

DEATH OF ROBERT MONTGOMERY.—The Rev. Robert Montgomery, an English poet of inferior merit but wide celebrity, better known as "Satan Montgomery," from a religious poem of his on "Satan," died recently at Brighton, in England, as the papers by the Asia inform us. His original name was Gomersy, and he was the son of a minor actor of that name attached to the Surrey Theatre, London. He added the prefix "Mont" to his name in imitation to the famous Sheffield poet, James Montgomery. Having some ability, he was educated at Oxford University, at the expense of a London merchant, and, after graduating there was ordained as a minister in the English church. In this capacity, he became quite popular as preacher at Percy chapel, London. Some of his poems ran through a number of editions, but they are all bombastic and unsuited to a cultivated taste.

REWARDS FOR THE PEACEFUL.—A deceased Quaker has left $500 to each of the Quaker deputation to the late Emperor of Russia, and $7500 each to Mr. Cobden and Mr. Bright.

DRUNKEN SOLDIERS.—The statements in the papers of the great drunkenness now prevailing among the soldiers in the Crimea, have unfortunately, caused a great decline in the subscriptions to the fund for Soldiers' Wives.

A DEVICE.—Public-house morality receives a curious illustration in the case of the female impostor, Alice Grey. It is stated that on the failing of the first charge being known, at least two publicans were prepared to make her handsome offers, if she would become a waiter at their houses, in the hope that the fame of her misdeeds would attract customers to their houses.

LENGTH OF THE MISSISSIPPI.—The Boston (Massachusetts) Transcript gives the total length of the Mississippi and all its tributaries as fifty-one thousand miles, which is more than twice the equatorial circumference of the earth!

William Howard Russell, the renowned Crimean correspondent of the London Times, is now in London. Never was a man so bidden to gatherings of the wealthy. In the midst of these brilliant festivities, the proposition of a dinner to be given to him by his brethren of the press will not be the least welcome. Mr. Russell is the son of a merchant at Dublin, born in 1816. After having received a superior education, he studied law and practised as an attorney in Dublin and London, where he made his essays as an author, and became soon a reporter of the Times. The Morning Post succeeded in attaching him to its staff for a time to the Times, and was always employed in matters requiring an impressive and peculiar style of writing. At the outbreak of the present war he went as special correspondent for the Times to the Crimea, where he has since remained without interruption, excepting for a short period when he was at Serapia.

It appears still, that Miss Murray, one of the maids of honor to the Queen of England, has been constrained to give up her place, because she does not favor the views of the Abolitionists in her book of travel in America. In a recent letter to a friend, she says—that, knowing the sentiments she entertains respecting slavery to be in opposition to those of the Court, and knowing also that persons high in authority, connected with the Court, had objected to the publication of these sentiments, while holding her official position, she felt it her duty to resign, although by so doing she deprives herself of her influence and position at Court, her official residence, and income which can ill be spared. Still, she does it cheerfully, rather than forego the publication of her work. The Queen, however, still remains her firm friend.

ADULTERATION OF FOOD.—A Cockney wag of uncultivated aspirations was heard to say, that baker's bread reminded him of the Middle Ages: because he always associated the idea of it with HALLAM.
