It is beautifully arched, moulded and ornamented. The dome looks truly grand, and gives the dome looks truly grand, and gives the church a fine appearance. The work was superintended by Thomas Ray-mond, architect of Quebec, and reflects much credit on him. The plastasing is one of the best jobs of the kind ever perone of the best jobs of the kind ever performed in this Province, and was executed by Messra Brehaut & McLean, of Montague and Cardigan, who did the job to the satisfaction of all concerned.
