Sour Grapes.

The Daily News editor is most peculiar. The other day he lauded Sir Edward Morris as the legitimate successor of the late Sir William Whiteway, although he never had a word of admiration for the latter while he was Premier, but was one of the bitterest opponents of the Whiteway administration and its leader, whom he now affects to admire. In 1897 he worked might and main to oust Sir William from the Premiership. For some months past, it has become customary, as though of set purpose, for Morris men to profess admiration for Sir Robert Bond, although they vilified him five years ago. The change hung upon the hope that Sir Robert would not be found leading a united opposition to them this fall. Not only were the Morris men prepared to crown Sir Robert with a halo, if only he would get out of their way, but their thoughts ran in the direction of material tokens of respect and admiration. Morris men were beginning to look upon Sir Robert as just the man to represent the Colony as High Commissioner in London, and even suggested, some time ago, Sir Robert as the right man to represent His Majesty the King at Government House. Unfortunately for Morris party hopes, Sir Robert cares for none of these things. He regards the suggestion of a High Commissionership as but evidence of a desire to play ducks and drakes with the money of the Colony, and considers it would be a degradation of his dignity and self-respect, to put himself in the slightest degree under any obligation to Sir Edward Morris. Sir Robert has no use whatever for the man who was fervent in his profession of loyalty, in 1906, and who professed he would never forget how Sir Robert had stood by him after the Telegraph Award, and then deserted him in 1907. Sir Robert Bond is not hankering for any laudation from the Morris party and looks upon their insidious approaches as insults and will in no way consent to be an object of their interested attention. Unfortunately for the hopes of the Morris party, Sir Robert Bond has not gratified them by leaving the field of contest to benefit Sir Edward Morris. They have been hoping against hope that Sir Robert Bond would not be in the field, and their heart is sick with hope deferred, for they find day by day passes and their hope is unfulfilled. Their patience is now becoming exhausted and they are casting the "halo" they were getting ready, to the four winds and resorting to abuse of the man they were preparing to praise. They are now abusing him and declaring he is being ruled out of the leadership. This is a plain falsehood. Or that Sir Robert Bond has promised subservience to Mr. Coaker. This is another straight lie. And the Daily News concludes that Sir Robert Bond is no good any way as leader. This is but a case of sour grapes. The fox in the table fixed its eyes on the grapes, and the Morris men fixed their hopes of winning out this fall on Sir Robert's retirement. When the fox found the juicy grapes beyond its reach, the disappointed vulpine said, the grapes were sour, and now the Morris men are abandoning hope of winning by Sir Robert's retirement, the Morris editor declares Sir Robert is no good any way as leader. According to Mr. Robinson, he is not to be compared with Sir Edward Morris as a successful leader, apparently forgetting that Sir Robert gained the two most complete victories in the annals of politics in Newfoundland, Sir Robert Bond has not retired, as the Morris men hoped he would do, and therefore the Daily News abuses him and declares him impossible as a successful leader. The Liberal Party, however, pin their faith in Sir Robert as the leader who will carry the Opposition to victory next fall. The people of the country have faith in him. He is the leader the people want. They are sick of Morris and they are calling for BOND.

St. Bon's Re-Union.

To-day being the Feast of St. Bonaventure, a reunion was held to mark the ceremony. An immense gathering of ex-students attended, including His Grace Archbishop Howley and a number of clergy from the city and outports. At 7.30 Mass was celebrated in the Cathedral by Rev. Joseph Donnelly, P.P., of Bay de Verde, who was a student at the College about the same time as his Grace. The servers were Hon. M. P. Cashin and Mr. W. S. Dunphy. After Mass the Benediction was imparted by the Archbishop. At 8.30 breakfast was served in the Aula Maxima of the College, at which congratulatory telegrams, received from His Lordship Bishop Power, of St. George's, and Rev. Bro. Culhane, of Halifax, were read by the Hon. Sir E. P. Morris, President of the Association. The orator of the day was Mr. M. W. Furlong, K.C., who gave an eloquent and practical address on education. This was followed by an illuminated address, which we append and which was presented to His Grace the Archbishop on the celebration of the 50th anniversary of his departure from St. Bonaventure's for Rome.

ADDRESS

From St. Bonaventure's Association.
To His Grace the Most Reverend M. F. Howley, B.D., Archbishop of Newfoundland, as Senior Alumnus of St. Bonaventure's College.

May it please your Grace—On this the anniversary of the fiftieth year since your departure from the Hall of old St. Bonaventure's College, as a student, we, on behalf of your contemporaries, many of whom have been long gathered to their fathers, and on behalf of those who since have graduated from our venerable Alma Mater, take advantage of this our annual celebration, to tender you our most sincere felicitations, praying that you may long be spared to preside over the Diocese that has made so much progress under your fostering care.

During the half century since you concluded your studies here and took up higher ones at the fount of learning in the Eternal City, we acknowledge with feelings of deepest gratitude your untiring efforts for the promotion of the welfare of the school; and it must be a source of great gratification to you, as well as cause for fervent rejoicing in us, to note our Alma Mater's expansion year after year, till she has attained the grand position she now occupies in the forefront of the educational institutions in our native land.

Gathered together as we are to-day in fraternal re-union to celebrate our annual festival, and to warm into the slumbering memories of the departed days; and to take a retrospective glance at the school and the scholars, we realize that you are one of our ex-students who, by your association with the College has been most continuous and most productive of beneficial results.

Your interest to-day is as keen as it was at the foundation; your intimate association with the days of the "fifties" as well as with those of long years that intervene, has indissolubly linked you with the history and traditions of the school.

On behalf of the students of your period, and on behalf of the St. Bonaventure's Association, including the students of to-day, we beg sincerely to tender you the expression of our profoundest esteem and veneration; to wish you length of days; and to pray that you will be spared for many years to direct the destinies of the Diocese and the welfare of our Beloved Alma Mater.

Presented at the Aula Maxima on the Feast of St. Bonaventure, Nineteen Hundred and Thirteen.

Signed on behalf of the students of your period and on behalf of the St. Bonaventure's Association:—

E. P. Morris, President; M. W. Furlong, 1st V.P.; F. J. M. 2nd V.P.; James McGrath, Secretary; W. J. Carroll, Treasurer; Edward English, F. J. Boyle.

The Herald Swimmer.

The Hon. P. T. McGrath certainly makes himself ridiculous when he speaks of the races and swimming. Many men go to the races to enjoy themselves and always do. We have never gone overboard in our clothes, and if we did we can swim. Can the Honourable say the same? Anyhow even dressed in our apparel in taking a swim we need not feel much uneasiness in the presence of our contemporaries. But just think of the Hon. P. T. similarly circumstanced. Why those who know him are well aware that such a spectacle would afford as much amusement as a "bunch of monkeys." However, if the poor "little fellow" ever gets in the water it would afford us as much pleasure to get him out as it did a few years ago to get him over the stairway when these little accidents occurred. Why Byron, the hero of Hellepont, will be only a cipher to the Hon. P. T. if he starts to swim.

Mr. Piercey, buyer for James Baird, Ltd., returned from Europe yesterday. Mr. Piercey has visited the principal centres of Europe and America, and has brought out an excellent selection of goods.
