The Late W. Miller.

As many letters have been received from London and Scotland, also from Officers of the Newfoundland Regi-ment sending their deepest sympathy to the relatives of the late Mr. Miller to the relatives of the late Mr. Miller a few remarks about his career may not be out of place. Drum Major Miller, as he was known in St. John's, was born in South Africa thirty-four years ago and was the youngest son of the late Patrick Miller, of the British Army. His father was killed on active service years ago as were also ish Army. His father was killed on active service years ago as were also his grand parents who died heroes of Britain. His mother has also done her part, having been a nurse during the Zulu War. Mr. Miller received his education in England and from there went to Ireland where he received most of his military training. He then enlisted and was sent to India where he spent nine years of his life. where he spent nine years of his life. He fought through the South African war and also served for some years in the British Army. Resigning from the army he came from Scotland to Newfoundland about eight years ago and entered the employ of the Reid Company, and afterwards took a posi-tion with the Furness Withy Company which he held until the time of his en-listment. He was a member of the Newfoundland Highlanders for the reximate number of men each past eight years and was well liked will carry and where each by all in the Brigade. He leaves to Caserta Was in Canada Acting as German Spy.

Ottawa, Jan. 21.—That Caserta, the emissary of Von Papen of the German Embassy at Washington, was in Can-ada, acting as a spy is a fact known to the Dominion police. He was here prior to the war and for a few weeks after the outbreak. At that time Caserta was not known to be in the employ of the Germans, but subsequently he was traced in different parts of the country. Before he could be apprehended, however he escaped, and has not return-

The police are not aware of any depredations he committed, apart from acting as a spy and endeavoring to secure information of possible advantage to the enemy.
