Over 800 Vessels Decorated With Lanterns Take Part in the Illumination of the Harbor-Duke and Duchess Delighted.

St. Johns, Nfld., Oct. 24.-A rainfall started soon after the arrival of the Duke and Duchess of York and Cornwall, and there was no afternoon pro-

The celebration at night was exceedingly enthusiastic. The town fairly blazed with illuminations and fireworks. The Ophir, Crescent, Dia- friends, dem, Niobe, Proserpine and Charybdis were electrically lighted.

SPLENDID SPECTACLE.

Fifteen sealing steamers, moored in a long line, showed festoons of marine lanterns, while 800 fishing vessels were similarly decorated, making a veritable forest of twinkling lights spread over the whole harbor.

From the hills surrounding the city 60 bonfires flamed. A thousand torchbearers paraded the city, and then passed near the wharf where the Ophir was moored, to be inspected by fishing boats paraded the harbor, lighted with lanterns.

THE VISITORS DELIGHTED. The duke and duchess expressed themselves as delighted, and said the assemblage of shipping in the port, with the abundant bunting, formed one of the finest displays they had witnessed during the tour. It is reported that the Diadem grazed a rock thile entering the port. USE WIRELESS TELEGRAPH.

THE WRECK OF THE STEAMER ISLANDER

The crew in the different departments were sufficient to insure the safe navigation of the ship, and Principal Grant, of Kingston, is the safety of those on board. The customed in the trade she was engaged, the navigation being left alternately with the captain and the pilot. The master had no special instructions relating to the navigation of the vessel from the owners in the distribution, management and discipline of the crew, which was entirely left to him. THE WRECK.

"The Islander left Skaguay Aug. 14 about 7:30 p.m., and was totally wrecked about 2:15 a.m., Aug. 15, by contact with some unknown sub stance, presumably ice, sinking in deep water in less than 20 minutes after the collision, and resulting in the loss of the lives of the master, 16

THE CAUSE. "It does not appear from the evidence adduced that the master realized the imminent danger in which the accident placed the ship, hence the lack of prompt and resolute means in arousing the crew and passengers, who were asleep in the cabin, in placing an officer and crew in each boat, and enforcing the proper quota of passengers to each boat. The evidence clearly shows that the capacity of the boats was sufficient to accommodate every person on board, but owing to want of proper management and discipline there was a rush to the boats, at the last moment, which was beyond the control of the few officers and men of the crew engaged in putting the boats into the water, thereby preventing the rescue of several valuable lives. DISREGARDED DANGER. > PILOT CENSURED. "We think that the pilot, Leblanc, is open to censure for his action in keeping the ship full speed, at the rate of nearly 14 knots an hour, after having seen floating ice some time before the accident. We would condemn the custom apparently in vogue in coast waters, of leaving the bridge of any steamer at night, and more especially a passenger steamer, in charge of only one officer. We also find that there is no proof in the evidence that the loss of the Islander was due to the intemperance of the master or others.'

FALL IN OCEAN FREIGHT

Due to Shortage of Western Corn Crop-Many Vessels Idle.

New York, Sept. 24.-Numerous floating grain elevators, looming above the stores of the Atlantic basin, back of Governor's Island, and 124 berthed steamers, many of them tossing idle, unprecedented duliness in ocean freight, says the World. It is due to the shortage of the corn crop out west. Corn exports are 30,000,000 bushels behind the same date of 1900. Experts estimate 100,000 tons of ocean cargo space tied up in New York, about the same amount in Philadelphia, and smaller amounts in Boston, Baltimore, Norfolk and New Orleans.

Coal that was formerly carried to Europe for $3 75 and $4 a tons, is now carried for $2.

General cargoes from the gulf to Denmark that brought $4 50 and $5 a ton, are now being had for $3 12. Ocean freights have fallen 20 per cent at least. Even the big transatiantic steamers have difficulty in securing cargoes.
