

BATHURST 'ALL TEAM

TRIMS CAMPBELLTON

(From the Gloucester Northern Light)
The large crowd that assembled at the B. A. A. grounds on the afternoon of last Wednesday, Dominion Day, to see the base ball match between the Bathurst and Campbellton teams, was a picked up team from Campbellton, were treated to the finest exhibition of star playing that has ever been seen here.

Bathurst battery, Art. Lavigne and Alf. Degrace, were working the game so well that up to the eighth inning only four men got so far as first base, and the Clippers fine field work prevented even these getting round the three bases. It was a continued story almost all through of one-two-three-out, although in the eighth and ninth innings the Campbellton boys got onto the Bathurst star twirler's curves a little bit, and succeeded in putting three men over the home plate.

The Campbellton battery, Ross Malcolm and Charlie Roy, were not green at the game either, and their splendid work was only discontinued by the exceptional good playing of the home nine.

The match started a few minutes after half-past two, and was all over before four o'clock, occupying exactly one hour and twenty-five minutes. From this all base ball fans will understand how smoothly the game runs.

Duval scored Bathurst's first run on a short bunt by Crofoot after having stolen his way to third in the third inning. Melanson died on second when Degrace struck out leaving the score at one to nothing in favor of Bathurst. Campbellton was unable to find the ball in the fourth inning and when Bathurst again came to the bat Leonard Veniot struck a nice one to right field and succeeded in getting over the home plate on light hit by McInerney that hit him on first. Campbellton again went out without getting any of their men further than second and in the sixth Bathurst fanned out. Campbellton's seventh turn at the bat was not any more successful than their six previous attempts, but Bathurst got a good start when Crofoot, with two men on bases, hit a dandy away over left field and made a spectacular home caught him on first. Campbellton again run. Campbellton then pulled themselves one out after the other. Fairley then hit a slow one to short stop and got to first before the ball, stole his way to third and home on a nice one by Thomas, making the first score for Campbellton. That was all they could in the eighth and the Bathurst boys clinched their lead with three more when Duval hit a slow one with the bases full and a series of overthrows got him out but left the three in in short order. The rest of the innings were well played, all going out as they came up. Campbellton got only two runs home in the ninth and last inning when an overthrow to first got lost among the crowd at the fence, finishing the match with a score in favor of Bathurst of 8 to 3.

Both teams played exceptionally good ball all through the game, only two errors being marked against each. The redoubtable "Pokes" sent only one man to base on balls, and Malcolm weakened only long enough to give three men the walk.

There was two very exciting plays. Once when Crofoot came to bat with two men on bases and two out and struck a beauty that gave him a clear home run, and the other when Leonard Veniot threw a grounder in from centre and Degrace grounded a score. It was an interesting moment too, when Degrace caught a foul, and stalled another man on second. Altogether, the game was a most interesting one, and has filled the town with enthusiasm.

A collection taken on the grounds secured the sum of $18.14 towards the expenses of the occasion, and it is doubtful if those who contributed ever got better value of their money.

The lineup was as follows:—

Campbellton	Bathurst
D. McLean, 1b	R. McInerney
R. Malcolm, p	A. Lavigne
C. Roy, c	A. Degrace
J. Malcolm, cf	L. Veniot
R. McLean, 3b	G. Duval
G. Thomas, 2b	W. Matthews
J. Savidant, ss	P. J. Veniot
C. Fairley, lf	H. C. Crofoot
D. Sullivan, rf	E. Melanson

Mr. Lionel Flewelling umpired the game in a most satisfactory manner, and his decisions met with the approval of the spectators as well as of the players. Mr. Wilfred LeBlanc kept the score and is to be commended for the thoroughness with which he kept account of the details of the game. The refreshment booth conducted by Mr. Ernest White for the club was not very well patronised on account of the keen interest taken by all in the game and the cool temperature of the day, but Mr. White's kindness in attending to this part of the club's interests is very much appreciated by the members.

"Saw an odd race yesterday."
"Indeed?"
"Yes, it was between two dogs—a fox terrier and a dachshund."
"Well?"
"Two saucers of milk were placed in front of them and the object was to see which could lick up his first."
"Which won the race?"
"The dachshund won in the last lap."

ECHOES FROM THE SCHOOL CLOSING

The Valedictory and Last Will And Testament of The Graduating Class

At the request of a number of our subscribers, we publish the "Valedictory" read by Bert Burgess, and the "Last Will and Testament" of the graduates from this year. These effusions will make interesting reading, and we will publish the Class Phrophecy and Class History in our next issue.

"THE VALEDICTORY"

Mr. Chairman, Board of Trustees, Mr. Carr, Classmates, Ladies and Gentlemen—

Valedictory addresses are usually marked by the use of beautiful language and splendid imagery, and the language is used as a cloak to cover trite sentences and hackneyed phrases. The achievements of the past on the part of patient teachers, and also on the part of the students as well.

This address will not seek to use glowing language or beautiful imagery, but will strive to set before you in a few simple words thoughts that have been uppermost in our minds during the last period of our graduating year, and perhaps venture to suggest one or two things that are to come.

The past year has been a good one in the history of our school, and an important one in the private history of every member of our class. Among the improvements in the school may be mentioned the putting in of a well equipped laboratory and substantial additions to the library, which improvements have added greatly to the efficiency of the school and ought to call forth the deepest appreciation of all, and specially of the graduating class.

We have just begun to learn how to study. We have looked into the mysteries of Geometry, although none of us feel that we shall ever be as profound as Euclid. We have studied laboriously our Latin, but not one of us ever expects to vie with Cicero or Virgil. We have wrestled with the problems of Algebra, but feel too young to attempt the publication of a text-book upon the subject. We have studied Geography sufficiently to raise us above the level of the student from New Jersey, who after ten years of Grammar School, and a year or two at High, conceived of Rome as embracing "all Italy the Holy Land of Jerusalem," and of feudalism as "a family making war on another in their castles," the Ganges were located in South America, the Elbro in Austria, the Seine in England, the Danube in Canada and Athens and Sparta on the Tigris.

One thing of great importance that we have learned is to be able to see how little we indeed know. This has brought with it an obligation which we shall never be able to throw off, and that is to press on to know still more. The glimpse of wisdom that may be sought in the future has brought a dissatisfaction from which we dare not try to easily escape.

To you our patient and earnest teachers we owe more than we can ever repay. We cannot turn into money value what you have done for us. First, you have broadened our vision by showing us the importance of history, and of the thought and ideals of other peoples remote from us; you have shown us the necessity of working hard for remote ends without seeking for immediate pay; you have shown us that we are closely related to those around us, parts of any organization, and therefore should cultivate public spirit and be good citizens; you have striven to lay within us the foundation of good character, and for this we are more than thankful. We hope that in the coming years you will not have any regret for the difficulties you have had to overcome in striving to make your wayward students see the value of cultivated minds and well-balanced characters. As we are about to leave your care we feel now, whatever might have been our thoughts at first, that you have been our friends, always ready to guide us when we ought leadership, and to restrain us whenever we tended to go astray, your kindly guidance might not have been appreciated at its full value when given, but with more light and a little more wisdom we see now that it calls for our deepest thanks.

To the undergraduates we should like to say a few words. We feel sorry to have to leave your companionship, which we have enjoyed for several years, but the inevitable has come and we must part. Our advice is that you be even more diligent than we have been, and especially more obedient, but at the same time we warn you not to be so persistent in your work that you will lose your health, for a sound body must go with a sound mind.

Now, classmates, we must say a parting word to you. We may never be all together again in this way, but let us be ungrateful in our purpose to make the Class of 1914 the best that ever graduated from this school. Let us seek to realize the ideals that have been constantly held before us during this past school year. Let us cultivate a love for character and good citizenship, so that in the coming years our

"LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT."
Campbellton, N.B., June 30th, 1911.
To all whom it may concern:—Trustees, Mr. Chairman, Principal Carr, Visitors, Teachers and Scholars.

We the graduating class of 1914, have in our possession a few trinkets we wish to bequeath to the coming class of 1915, and all our good manners, bad manners, favors, qualms and privileges.

The will reads as follows:—
Georgea Oatman, "our studious girl," equally bequeaths between Mary Price and Ada Boucher, her Vergil and Caesar translations, for Georgina was always a constant slave to Caesar and all his claims, and between Clarence Duncan and Reginald Henry her Esther and Cicero translations.

Bert Burgess resigns his position as being the Grade XI kid to George Currie, who is well adapted for such a high position.
Constance Murray leaves to Josephine Dickie her task of being the beacon light of the back seat, and gives to Sarah Lutz her secret signalling code which she used for familiar masculine "on the outside looking in."

Reginald McLean, our sentinel of the side window, leaves George Richards the task of ventilating the room, and to Ingram McKenzie a few inches of himself, which he does not mind giving, cause it will be of great use to him in base-ball.

Greta Wall has been in a melancholy mood, having to leave her last chew of Spearmint, but is somewhat relieved by the thought that it is left to Helen Stevens, for Helen will never flatten it out.
Gilford Bruce bequeaths to Tris White his patent for the preparation of Sulphuric acid, and wishes to advise Tris not to carry a supply of phosphorus in his pocket.

Carrie Sharpe bequeaths to Harold Mowat her tango tie, and leaves Dorothy Duncan and Bertha Boucher the privilege of developing their muscles in school, and being sharp in Geometry hours.

Edmund Gallagher bequeaths to Glen Mowat his favorite dweller on the cross bar of his bicycle and has already informed Glen, that Ethel is only loaned with security for the year 1915.
Lu McKenzie leaves Reba Hennessy her favorite seat in the tom-boy row, which Reba makes a pretence of patting.

Fred Mowat, our best little boy of Grade XI, leaves his gentlemanly manners and his lordly a-o-a hem to Russell and Jim Adams, our friends with the car.
End McKendle, with the algebra craze, leaves Viola McKendle a box of purposely cut note paper, so as to carry on the note trade with her neighboring residents, and End hopes by this time school re-opens, there will be a post office established there for Viola's benefit.

The class as a whole leave Mr. Carr all their best wishes for pleasant holidays and a bottle of furniture polish and a duster for the piano. We all want Mr. Carr to be careful and mind the point.
I myself, leave my best wishes for the coming class and graduates for 1915.
Signed,
NINETTA J. ALEXANDER
