As I said before, I don't profess to have much sympathy in my get-up, yet I would feel awfully disagreeable and ashamed of myself if I occupied the position of the sleek preacher that I saw coming up Yonge-street this morning, full of life, full of health, square-shouldered, buoyant in step and quick-eyed. Me, too. I would feel meaner than a GENTS whipped cur if I found myself lifting my and his right and his wife and family's right to take a run by street car into the country on Sunday.

THE RELIGIOUS TINKERS AGAIN. Do these morality tinkers know what they are doing? Do they not realize that they are scandalizing re-ligion and bringing Christianity into public disrepute? Do they not perceive that their glaring inconsistencies and their intolerance will finally do serious damage even to as sacred a thing as religion? The people of the latter end of the nineteenth century are not simpletons. They will not imposed upon by moral and religious charlatans. There is no more sin in playing music on Sunday than on any other day, and if it is a crime music on that day then the sooner some one deals that law a blow in the head the better will it be both for our religious and temporal welfare. In summoning the bandsmen who played at the Island on Sundays the tinkers have renewed their old occupation. On a former occasion they made themselves ridiculous by persecuting workingmen for riding in busses on of disapproval against the wealthy and purse proud church member employ ing a team of horses and a coachman to drive him half a mile to church Now they permit a church organis to perform any kind of a musical caprice on Sunday before a large con gregation of people, while they arrest other musicians for striking chords that blend in harmony with the most sacred emotions the human being is capable of experiencing. The religious tinkers and those who are responsible for them must be very dense indeed if they cannot perceive that their bigotry and inconsistency are doing ten times as much harm as good. Misses Sumerhayes, al three most greasy hands.

Yes, I see him. What about him? I was just speculating whether he has had any holidays this year.

I know the man. He is a boiler-maker. His round shoulders are accounted for by the fact that he has to sit several hours at a time inside a boiler. He is deaf, too. The din of driving rivets has destroyed his hearing.

I don't profess to have much sympathy in my get-up, but my heart is often touched by the hard luck men have to submit to.

But this man is not so badly off. How do you make that out?

He has a steady job. He gets $10.50 a week all the year round.

But, compared with our friend the preacher, he must have a sorry time of it.

Misses Summerhayes, al three most charmingly attired, did a brisk business. At the other stands Mesdames Erickenden and Stringer, Misses McTear, Sampson, Gill, Farr and Johnson were constantly busy. At 7.45 formed in double column and to the strains of Richardson's band marched to the Maypole, each one taking in her hand one of the long streamers attached to it. Round they danced first, then in and out, out and in, as they plaited the pole with the gay ribbons. When they had exhausted their space they reversed and unplaited the pole as deftly as they had accomplished the plaiting. A dance round singly in couples and in fours brought the pretty scene to a close. On retiring they were treated to loud applause, and great praise was bestowed upon their able instructress, Miss Bryce.

Reading, Pa., Aug. 28.—The platform adopted by the Republican State Convention declares for an honest dollar, opposes the debasement of the national currency by the admission of silver to free and unlimited coinage of course there is a bright side to every picture. He is generally safely housed inside a boiler when it is raining, and for the same reason he escaps many of the burning rays of the summer sun.

But we were speaking of holidays. Of course, you never saw a boiler maker and his family down at the Union Station checking their baggage for a summer resort.

See in the arbitrary ratio of 16 to 1, and continues: "We declare our continued the continues: "We declare our continued and in the prospective policy which has been so sturdily championed for one hundred years by the great men of our state and of our nation and to the acceptance of which policy by the Republican party the country owes all the prosperity it has enjoyed during the last 30 years. We insist upon the passage of such legislation as will secure the restoration and maintenance of this policy without maintenance of this policy without qualification or abatement."

But the poor fellow with the round shoulders and the paralyzed ears surely gets some holidays.

Oh, yes! He gets off on May 24, July 1, Labor Day, Thanksgiving day, Christmas and one or two other days. He has about four holidays during the summer.

He must enjoy these holidays.

OBJECT LESSONS IN FOOTWEAR. This will be a unique feature of our big Slater Shoe Opening. We're introducing these celebrated shoes to Toronto people to-day.

We're making this introduction an event in the shoe annals of this city. Toronto is a big market, and Toronto people are quick to appreciate style, fit and appearance, as well as economy in footwear. We know this; we know Toronto and its shoe ideas. That's why we secured the Slater Shoe and undertook to sell so many thousand pairs

Now we want YOU to see these famous shoes and to understand them. We want you to know why we've gone to the expense of opening a special store for this sale. We want you to see that store as well as the Slater Shoes. Hence—the formal opening. Here will be shown every stage in the process of Slater Shoe manufacture. Here will be explained the points which constitute wear, appearance and fit. Here will be illustrated by practical men the difference between the Slater Shoe and that which hurts the foot and offends the eye.

A nice little book, entitled "Evolution of the Shoe," will be presented to each visitor, which in itself is worth at least a dollar to every one who would know how to find foot comfort and understand the secrets of Shoedom,

THE SLATER SHOES are cheap-$3, $4 and $5 per pair. There will be an orchestra - courtesy - information - enter-
