PRESIDENT ORDERS AN INVESTIGATION.

Result of Catholic Protests Against Proselytizing by Protestant Teachers in the Philippines.

Protests from Catholic societies in various parts of the country have, according to press despatches from Washington, resulted in the issuing of an order directing Gov. Wright, of Manila, to investigate the charges that Protestant teachers in the public schools in the Philippines have been guilty of proselytizing.

"If any teacher," says the despatches, "has been attempting to change the religion of any native it is the purpose of the President and Secretary of War to punish the guilty person by dismissal from the service."

To hear someone uncomplainingly accuse man of his praver faults more than adding to it.

By one or two things are most people convicted of weakness and weakness—either by desiring their friends in their own prosperity or by desiring them in their adversity. Whoever, in either particular, has proved himself noble, unswerving and steadfast in friendship, deserves to be regarded as belonging to a very rare and almost noble class of men.

Could Scarcely Straighten Up

On Account of severe Pains in Small Back—Oshanged Kidneys the Cause of Trouble.

Kidney Liver Pills.

A great many people who suffer from backache, i.e. back and pains in the limbs that they have rheumatism and that there is no cure for them. At least in every case I have been cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mrs. J. Leonard, 150 Aqueduct Street, Montreal, Que., states: "My trouble was with my back, which was very weak, and whenever I ached I could hardly straighten up again on account of the severe pains which would catch me in the small of the back. Believing that my ailment was caused from deranged kidneys I began a course of treatment with Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and to-day I am all right again. This medicine seemed to act directly on the kidneys and as a result improved my health generally. The distressing pains in my back have entirely disappeared and I feel real strong and well."

How Irish Crime is Manufactured

Shocking Admissions of the Irish Attorney-General in Fare of Charges.

London, July 16.—Sergt Sheridan, lately of the Irish Constabulary, but now living in Boston, was the subject of a most exciting debate of the session of the House of Commons.

The Irish Nationalists made in their speeches these charges. "That when stationed in County Clare some years ago, Sheridan, conspiring with several of his subordinate constables, committed a series of agrarian crimes, for which they were arrested and convicted by perjured testimony innocent men in that locality connected with the Irish Nationalist organization."

"That those convictions were obtained through juries from which every Catholic and Nationalist was excluded by the Government prosecuting lawyers."

"That in one case alone Sheridan got four men convicted of crimes he has since been absolved of proved he committed himself."

"That those four men were sentenced to three years' penal servitude, and one actually died in prison of a broken heart."

"That about a year ago John Dillon got information which enabled him to compel Irish Secretary Wyndham to inquire into the charges against Sheridan, Wyndham promising that if the charges were found to be true full punishment should be meted out to all concerned."

"That Wyndham's enquiry fully established the guilt of Sheridan and his police accomplices, but Sheridan threatened that if the Government dared to punish him he would expose superiors who had connived at his deeds in order to create a prejudice against the Irish Nationalist organization."

"That, therefore, Sheridan was not only allowed to leave the country, but got a handsome contribution from the Government Secret Service Fund to start him on a fresh career in the United States."

That was the case made out against the Government of Ireland by the Irish party, and every allegation, except that respecting the secret service money, was admitted by Mr. Wyndham and the Irish Attorney-General. The Irish party intends to renew the subject later, pressing for a public enquiry into the whole system of subsidized police and criminality in Ireland.

WORTH THOUSANDS.

The Toronto Star makes the following reference to the work of a young Catholic professor in the Agricultural College, Guelph. "If Prof. Doherty, of the Guelph Agricultural College, has devised a sure destroyer of mustard, he has done this province a higher service than any for which knighthood has been conferred up to date."

The Guelph Mercury says: "There is now no longer any question that a spray of blue stone in solution will kill mustard, and so improve the growing grain crop. For two or three years past Mr. Doherty has been applying this treatment in different sections of the province, and without exception, when the weed was taken at the proper stage, it has been practically eradicated."

"We do not think, however, that Prof. Doherty claims to have originated this means of destroying mustard. The discovery, we believe, was made in France. Mr. Doherty had read about it, and to him is due the credit for its introduction in Ontario. Having satisfied himself of its efficacy by experiment, he was authorized by the department to give demonstrations in different parts of the province, as a result of which its use is likely soon to become general and to lead to the eventual extermination of one of the worst forms of weed pest with which Canadian agriculture has to contend."

"But for the employment in the public service of men like Mr. Doherty and the systematic method now available through the Agricultural College and Experimental Farms, of bringing before the country the advantages of new discoveries pertaining to agriculture, it is possible that years might have elapsed before this French system of killing mustard would have come to be generally known and adopted in Canada. In any case, it is certain that but for them this discovery, worth thousands and thousands of dollars to the country, would not have become immediately available here, and its prompt introduction into Ontario affords a single, though striking illustration of the way in which the Agricultural College is giving a return to the country for the expenditures made upon it. In securing the adoption of the most profitable varieties of grain crops and in constantly advising farmers as to the best methods of treating them, to say nothing of its great work in other directions, the Ontario Agricultural College and Experimental Farm has fully proven the wisdom of its creation and literal maintenance."

Life goes down with a better grace as a foaming tide over a precipice than miserably struggling to an end in sandy delitas.

What riches do we not lose for want of knowing how to use them! Jesus Christ Himself promised that all who asked in faith, through His Heart should receive them abundantly.

THE AMERICANS IN THE PHILIPPINES.

Secretary of Presbyterian Board of Missions Says the Game Is to Make the Catholic Religion Impossible.

The Rev. Dr. Arthur J. Brown, a secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, who recently visited the Philippines, has made a report on the work before the Protestant missionaries in the islands. The report is devoted mainly to abuse and vilification of the Catholic Church and advice as to the most effective methods for Protestantizing the Philippines. We copy the following extracts from The New York Sun of July 3:

"The vital need of the Filipino is character. Since the Roman Catholic Church in the Philippines has conspicuously failed to produce character, and since neither the civil law nor the public school can effectively enter that realm, who shall do this vital work?"

"There is only one who can, only one who is in the Philippines for that specific purpose, and that is the Protestant missionary."

"His ideas of God and man, of truth and duty, are as much superior to those that existed before his arrival as our American political and educational ideas are superior to theirs."

"The effect of American political ideas and of American public schools will inevitably be to break the power of superstition and to develop in multitudes that which will make it impossible for them to remain in the Roman Catholic Church as it now exists. . . . Shall they go to atheism or to Protestantism?"

"We must not allow our work to degenerate into the merely negative one of fighting the Roman Catholic Church. It will require self-restraint to avoid this."

"The opposition of Rome will be persistent, bitter and unscrupulous. Our foes are men who hold that the end justifies the means, and the end they seek is Protestant overthrow. Moreover, instances of priestly cruelty and immorality will frequently develop and the temptation will be strong to ring the changes upon them."

"But enough has been written and enough more will be written to enable the world to understand the character of Spanish Filipino Romanism."

"We may be obliged from time to time to do what I have attempted to do in part of this part, vindicate our right and duty to control missionary work in the Philippine Islands."

"But as a rule the missionaries can spend their time to better advantage in preaching a positive gospel. The Filipinos know their own sore, what they need is the remedy. . . . The Christianity of the Filipinos is only a veneered heathenism. . . ."

Dr. Brown says that the work should be tactfully done, should be made self-supporting so far as possible, and should be as little sectarian as possible, only one form of Protestantism being presented in a given district. He says:

"We cannot afford to make any compromise of faith in the conduct of our schools and hospitals. I would rather have twenty pupils with freedom to influence them to dedicate their lives to God than to have a hundred on the condition that we must not try to convert them."

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY A PRIEST'S INVENTION.

Father Hobone Had a System as Far Back as 1847

The following translation made from a New York Italian paper by a local priest must prove very interesting at this time. It serves to show that there is nothing new under the sun, and again gives evidence of the debt due to the Catholic priesthood for discoveries in the realms of science. The translator states also that he has a distinct recollection of reading of the discovery before leaving Italy, in a newspaper, L'Unita Cattolica or L'Armonia.

The article as translated is as follows: "The Mayor of San Remo received from Ninove, Belgium, a letter accompanied by important documents which would prove that Father Hobone, of San Remo, had discovered about thirty-three years ago a system of wireless telegraphy. The letter quotes this correspondence from the issue of January 17, 1869, of L'Etoile Belge, of Brussels.

"There is in Rome a canon of San Remo, a certain Andrea Bobone, who asserted that he found a system of telegraphy minus the wires. He has offered to sell the secret to the Pontifical government, and at the same time he asked that the Pope approve and bless it."

"In regard to this the following anecdote is told. The Pope answered Canon Bobone: 'Dear Canon—There are many in Paris who try to restrict the field of my infallibility, and you wish to extend it to applied mathematics. In the Vatican we have Father Secchi, who is most competent in such matters, go to him and discuss it together.'"

"Following this correspondence diligent searches were made, and these led to the discovery of manuscripts and drawings describing Father Bobone's system of wireless telegraphy dating back as far as 1817."

SANCTITY.

Simple and easy means of attaining it.

1st.—To do a little better every day.

Do not try to do more but better. An attempt to do more often hampers us, wearies us, and makes us conceited, but the attempt to do better only sanctifies.

Let us say, for example, to-day I will say such a prayer with more attention, I will perform such a duty more carefully, or I shall be more gently with some friend or relative. Resolve upon one amendment, and faithfully carry it out.

2nd.—"To take up our duties vigorously in a whole-hearted way." A saint used to say "It is easier than to accomplish them, and we do them with better humor."

3rd.—To give a little time to recollection each day. A few moments spent in prayerful meditation every morning, in order to arm ourselves for combat and labor during the day.

4th.—To be less for news and useless perfection. Idle knowledge, a desire to know what some individual has done, what he thinks, or what he has said of us, a desire to be the first to give news, and eager seeking for news, talking only to display our information—these, and acts of like nature, disturb the soul, fill it with idle vanities, and leave it far behind in the path of sanctity.

5th.—To visit the Blessed Sacrament more frequently. Visit Our Lord every day for a few moments; visit to Him as a counsellor, to ask advice, as a kind and faithful friend to whom we must say a word of thanks. We always feel the effects of a visit to the Blessed Sacrament; and sometimes, in moments of discouragement, it suffices to go to the door of the chapel to feel one's heart strengthened.

6th.—To work with energy, but avoiding over-eagerness. Act always with reflection. Saints never do anything by halves. They finish everything, even to the last letter of the word.

7th.—To multiply acts of kindness. These are the coin with which we purchase Heaven. Let us not despise the most insignificant; it is just these we should multiply, they cost so little, and are hardly noticeable. They are like the pennies, they seem insignificant, but if we faithfully gather them we soon become rich. Our angel guardians are appointed to gather all our kind, considerate, obliging acts and bear them to Heaven, where they are rolling up interest for us.—Golden Grain
