

the functions of an angle, so that he was taught as a reasonable human being, not a parrot.

Examinations are an unavoidable evil, but, I think an evil that might be more mitigated than it has been for the past few years at McGill.

I know you are entering in slowly but surely upon every detail of the University life, and will realise that this very tentative criticism is designed in a constructive, and not a destructive, spirit,

Yours very sincerely

Alfred Gordon