Looking for Support.

Sister Mary Louise has worked for the orphans for 38 years. Until recent times, when conditions in France changed, and the mother house there was denuded and deprived of all power to help, the home in Japan was supported and its 800 little ones educated, fed and clothed. Now deprived of assistance from France, in the heart of poverty, the orphans reduced by force of circumstances to 300, have to look elsewhere for support. Rising to the occasion, the sister has crossed the ocean to place her case before the people of a country in which she believed that Christianity is something more than a name, and she has not been disappointed.

The work of the Washington ladies is to be continuous, and different girls colleges have since been affiliated. Other large cities in the United States have done their share and to see what Canada will do in the cause is the reason for the visit of the sister.

"Bid you come alone?" asked The World.

"Yes, just myself and my guardian angel!" was the smiling response, and she could surely come under no better guidance, for the she has crossed the Pacific and Atlantic, and her travels have taken her to China and to Ireland, she has escaped all harm or accident. On her way to Toronto from Vancouver, on the second of the month, Sister Mary Louise was in the train that was wrecked near Sudbury. "The engine was builed in the mud when the bridge collapsed, my valise was smashed and the trunks and seats were broiten to pieces; but the car in which I was, and those behind, remained on the bridge, and not a single one was killed, or what you call? Wounded." was the graphic way in which the traveler narrated the occurrence from which she escaped scathless.

Seats Ready for "The Quaker Girl" Engagement.
"The Quaker Girl," the English mu-

ical success, returns to the Princess Theatre next week, and judging from the interest already manifested in the engagement, it will even exceed last season's record business. Not in some ime have there been so many requests at the box office of the Princess that at the box office of the Princess that seats be laid aside before the regular advance sale opens. This, however, has not been done, and the first in line to-day will have first choice of seats. The cast this season has been selected from the two companies that were out last season and as a result it is said to be far superior to the excellent one seen here last season. Victor Morley will again be seen in the leading comedy role and will be supported by Harry Short, Bernice McCabe, Connie Mack, Murray Stephen, William Blaisdell, Dixie Girard, Mile. Corday, Phil, J. Moore, Harry Sinclair, Carrol Carsoni and Adelaide Folger. A special orchestra of 20 soloists is also a feature of the performance. The chorus and ballet remain almost the same in each individual case.

will Open Monday Night.

The Alexandra Theatre will have as its attraction for next week, commencing Monday evening, Winthrop Ames' production of the fairy take play "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." No play given to the stage in recent years has created the favorable comment that has been given this work. It is the only play ever presented with the express intention of interesting children, and how well Mr. Ames has succeeded may be realized from the fact that "Snow White" ran for more than 15 weeks at his Little Theatre in New York last season. It is being sent here interpreted by a company of some 40 people, and the seven dwarfs are impersonated by real dwarfs. The same perfection of detail that marked Mr. Ames' production of "The Blue Bird" is said to have been observed in fifs staging of "Snow White," and that would mean the last word in scenic investiture. Matinees are to be given each afternoon, commencing Tuesday, at 3.30 o'clock, at popular-prices, It was Mr. Ames' intention to begin the Toronto engagement Tuesday afternoon, eliminating the Monday evening performance. Owing to the size of the stage of the Alexandra Theatre, he has found it possible to open Monday night.

"Love at Last" and "Rose, Rose, Rose," is to experience the haunting force of Irish melody at its greatest force. Manager Pitou has surrounded his star with a splendid company.

Goldin Coming to Shea's.

Next week at Shea's Theatre the headliner will be Goldin, the illusionheadliner will be Goldin, the illusionist. Goldin appeared in New York a few weeks ago and was one of the biggest sensations of the year. This is his first appearance in this country in several seasons. He has just arrived with his big company after winning new laurels in the hippodromes of St Petersburg. Paris and Berlin. Goldin carrier a company of thirty and presents his offering in three series.

The special attractions on next week's bill are: Mabel Berra, the fayorite comic opera prima donna; Billy orite comic opera prima donna; Billy Gould and Belle Ashlyn in songs and original specialties, and Bert Levy, the artistic entertainer.

In the large cities all over the country, housemaids' unions are making life miserable for families with the rules they lay down for the "girls."

Ten hours a day is enough working time, says the union, so the business man who works from seven in the morning until five at night must slip down stairs in felt soled slippers, shave with cold water and breakfast on bran or shredded straw cake and cold milk. Or perhaps a cup of stale coffee has been kept lukewarm in a vacuum bottle and is laid on a tray with a slice of buttered bread and a bit of cold meat.
