of Mines gave out the statement that the inlines of Porcupine would yield only a triffing profit. Nothing was said as to the tenor of the ore, except that it was low-grade. The statement was never formally withdrawn, the quietly dropped from the third report, ready for distribution in 1916. No excuse can be made on the ground of insufficient time to study these deposits. Evidently the bureau was satisfied in 1911, for the bald statement was made without any resurvation or qualification. It was grossly unfair and entirely erroneous. The best excuse that can be offered for the bureau is that it did not understand the toureau is that it did not understand the large regular tabular bodies which predominate in deposits near the surface are not numerous at Porcupine. Some of the deeposits are irregular in shape. Lenses are never over 1000 feet long, but givey overlap succeeding ore bodies, while sheeted zones and stock works of the deposits are irregular in shape. Lenses are never over 1000 feet long, but givey overlap succeeding ore bodies, while sheeted zones and stock works of the deposits are irregular in shape. Lenses are never over 1000 feet long, but the important feature of the Porcupine deposits is that they are very large. This the bureau entirely failed to point out, while it placed stress on irreful the mines of the mining interests of the province.
