T. EATON CO. GANADA'S GREATEST STORE.

Friday Bargains. The steadily increasing number of buyers who daily patronize this store is the best argument we want in favor of "our way" of doing business. That is, our service, our goods, our prices please the buying public, and when backed up with "satisfaction guaranteed, or money refunded," the business is bound to grow whether or no.

To-morrow is Bargain Day. The following list tells of the good things pro- traffic to the Northwest, and which is The London Economist, Feb. 19, furn vided. Everything exactly as represented; if not, your money cheerfully refunded:

Miss Edith J. Miller, the Canadian contralto, is meeting with great success in New York, where she has just been engaged as soloist of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church at $1200 a year. She is also to sing at the Easter service in Rev. Dr. Rainsford's church (St. George's), at the Brooklyn Oratorio concert in April and at the Cortland Musical Festival in May.

Grand Concert.

The third concert of the series given by the Massey Hall management will take place on Monday evening. The occasion will no doubt be a memorable one in he annals of music in Toronto, embracing, as it will, the services of three great artists, among whom will be the world's greatest and most interesting violinist, Ysaye. This is his second tour of America, and his success is as great as it was upon the occasion of his first visit three years ago, which is still fresh in the memory of music-loving people. Besides this wonderful violinist Malle. Trebelli, the renowned soprano, will appear. This artist created a veritable furore upon her singing here in Outober last, and her engagement for this event will not only be most appropriate, but will picce the concert on a very high plane. Besides this dual attraction of great importance Carlos Sobrino, the famous Spanish planist, has also been engaged. There was a very large sale of seats yesterday at the box office, and those who expect good ones should apply for them early.

Julia Arthur's Career.

Julia Arthur's Career.

The first part which Julia arthur ever played was that of Zamora in "The Honeymoon." That was at the age of 11 in an amateur performance, given at her home in Hamilton, Ont This was followed the next year in the same amateur organization by Portia in "The Merchant of Venice." At 13 years of age, in the company of Bandmann, she played the roles in "Hamlet" of Player Queen, Gertrude and Ophelia. In "Romeo and Juliet" the mother and nurse, the page and Juliet. In "The Merchant of Venice" Narissa, a page and Portia. In "Richard the Third" the Queen, the Duchess of York and Lady Anne. Then followed the leading female roles in "The Lady of Lyons," "East Lynne," "Yon Caesar de Bazan," "As You L ke It" ard "The Corsican Brothers." All of these before the end of her 15th year. She then went to Germany to study the violin. Returning, she went to California and played Tennyson's Dora. This brought her some degree of notice on the Pacific Coast and an engagement with a repertoire company followed, she playing the leading female roles in "The Galley Slave," "Calied Back," "The Two Orphans," "Woman Against Woman," "Captain Swift," "The Coileen Bawn," "Arnana-Pogue," "Im the Peuman," "The Still Alarm," "Perli," "Divorce." and "The Private Secretary." Her first New York hit, as is known, was in the "Black Masque." Engagements with A. M. Palmer Stock Company, then in the height of its fame, followed. In this organization she played Jeanne in "A Broken Seal," Letty Fletcher in "Saints and Sinners." and Lady Windermere's Fan." Her great triump was in the title role of "Mercedes," the part of which she created. She left Palmer's Company and appeared as Rose Woodmere for eight months in the American Theatre. New York, in the Drury Lane drama of "The Prodical Daughter" Returning to Mr. Palmer's forces, she appeared as Druscilla Ives in "The Dancing Girl," Mary Lonsdale in "A Woman's Revenge." Vera in "Moths," Constance Bellmore
