Emerging on a plain, large Beer reinforcements advanced against their flanks, forcing the British troops to take up a defensive position, which they hastily entrenched. Fighting ensued at close quarters until the Boers were repulsed on all sides.

The incentive is not inopportune either, for if reports are to be at all credited the chiefs of the Militia Department were beginning to be anxious as to the outcome of the appeal, for the reason that the delay in isytuing the orders for enlistment led to the supposition that the Imperial authorities were delaying their response to the Canadian offer, in the helief that to the supposition that authorities were delaying their response to the Canadian offer, in the belief that the result of the negotiations between the Boer leaders would be the early H. TWELVE BOERS KILLED BY FIVE AUSTRALIANS

Official Statement of the Murdering of Prisoners By the Bushveldt Carbineers.

London, April 4.—The War Office this afternoon issued an official statement of the facts in regard to the Austra-lians sentenced for murdering Boer prisoners as follows:

"The Bushveldt Carbineers, who were recruited in South Africa, but included other colonials, were employed in July and August in the wildest part of the Transvaal, 80 miles northeast of Pietersburg, and took a certain number of prisoners. Grave irregularities on the part of certain officers of the corps came to the knowledge of the military authorities in October, and an exhaustive investigation was ordered by Lord Kitchener. As a result of the enquiry five officers were tried by court-martial at Pietersburg, in January last, and were found guilty as principals or accessories of 12 murders.

"Lieuts. Hancock and Morant were sentenced to death, which was carried out. These officers were also charged with the murder of the Rev. C. Hesse Altho there was strong suspicion that they committed the murder, the evidence was not considered sufficient to justify their conviction.

"Lieut. Witton was found guilty of murder, and was sentenced to death, but there were mitigating circum-stances, and the sentence was com-muted to life imprisonment at penal servitude. 8

"Lieut. Picton was found guilty of manslaughter, and was cashiered.
