GEORGE M. COHAN ACTS LIKE BILLY SUNDAY IN PLAY AT THE PATRICIA

"Hit the Trail Holiday" Is Showing at Classy Theatre
Today and Saturday.

Appearing for the first time in motion pictures in many months, George M.
Cohan, the famous author, composer and theatrical manager, was seen in a delightful pictorialization of his own Broadway success, "Hit the Trail Holiday," at the Patricia Theatre, yesterday.
To all who have seen Billy Sunday, the famous evangelist, in action, it is quite apparent, and no secret is made of the fact, that this is a "take-off" of the famous baseball revivalist, and that it proved an excellent reintroduction to motion-picture audiences for Mr. Cohan was evidenced by the laughter and applause that was accorded to it by an unusually large audience.

George M. Cohan is seen as Billy Holiday, a high-priced mixer of drinks.

GEORGE M. COHAN
in "Hit the Trail Holiday"

At the Patricia Theatre Again Today and Saturday.

Known as "the world's champion drink-mixer" in a New York City bar. His ability as a mixologist made this bar one of the feature places for tourists the same as the Louvre in Paris, or the Colosseum in Rome, are points of interest to continental travelers. He has made his reputation by playing the game square.

Many humorous situations follow, the whole story being interwoven with an absorbing romance.

The picture is one of more than ordinary excellence from the standpoint of action and photography.

A Judge Willis Brown story unfolds a tale showing the characteristics of youth. It is delightfully entertaining.

In vaudeville the Three Miss Westons, dainty act, in a dainty manner. Their offering is high class in every detail, and is deserving of the strongest recommendation.

The Patricia program as above mentioned will be repeated again today and Saturday.

"LESS THAN KIN" AND "TWO TOUGH TENDERFEET" AT THE MAJESTIC

Wallace Reid and Other Stars

Romance, fun, mystery, and the lure happily mingled in "Less Than Kin," the new Paramount picture, which was

At the Majestic Theatre Today terday. The ever-popular Wallace Reid is starred, with Ann Little as his leading woman, and both were well received.

The photoplay made an instantaneous hit and was voted one of the finest seen in this city in many months.

In this photoplay Mr. Reid appears as a capitalist and Lewis Vickers, young American refugee, who has fled to Central America after killing a man in defence of a woman. He takes part in revolution and is compelled to leave the death of Lee, Vickers and Lee were slain as two peas and Vickers assumes Lee's name and takes himself upon the dead man's relatives who accept him as genuine.

Trouble follows speedily, for Lee was a scoundrel, and Vickers is obliged to suffer for his sins. It all ends happily, however, and Vickers is pardoned and finds love. The cast is an excellent one, the portrayal by Ann Little, who is Mr.
Reid's co-star, being highly artistic.

"Two Tough Tenderfeet," a Mack Sennett comedy, featuring Polly Moran and Ben Turpin, the cross-eyed character, is the funniest bit of motion picture photography seen here in a long time. It is one long laugh.

A News Weekly film presents interesting scenes in Canada, United States and foreign lands.

Miss Irene Delaney, the celebrated lyric soprano, who has sung her way into the hearts of Majestic patrons, is the last half of the week. The above-mentioned program will be repeated again today and Saturday.

lution of Sympathy.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the London and Western the company's efforts to assist the gave to his business, to his well-known energy and his sound judgment, with counsel and unfailing sympathy with all who came to him with the success that has come to this company to which he was devoted and lution be entered in full upon the minutes of the board and a copy be forwarded to his son as an assurance of
