Ret 1/2c to lc lower. Leaders still bearishly inclined, and outside support lacking; this, with a less urgent cash demand, will undoubtedly leave market susceptible to short selling, creating weak spots, but as general situation is not weak and no material decline probable, we continue to advise purchases on all good declines.
Erickson Perkins (Beaty & Glassco) received the following letter this afternoon at the close of the market: Opening prices were about at last Opening prices were about at last night's close and market held steady for a short time, with local professionals working for an advance and commission moderate sellers. Yesterday's buyers of wheat, who based their purchases on the railroad strike in the northwest interfering with the movement, evidently overlooked the possibility of what happened day: viz the closing down day; viz., the closing down of a large percentage of the milis. We cannot be persuaded into a bull position considering the above facts.

Corn—Speculative bulls can keep on buying May corn, but somebody has got to take care of the cash property, as it comes to market, and the present demand is not doing that.
Oats—The movement of oats to this market is small owing to present the market is small, owing to pressure of farm work, and prices are very steady, especially for cash and December. R. B. Lyman & Co. wired R. B. Holden at the close of the market.

Wheat—Market opened unchanged. The local shorts started a little spurt in December, but it lasted only cember, but it lasted only a couple of minutes. Conditions certainly justify purchases of May on all recessions. Conne-Holding up well, considering the pounding it is getting from the professional bears. If something should frighten the shorts to covering there would be fireworks. We can see nothing to justify any material setback in corn and we advise purchases of May on all forced breaks.
