LONDON, Aug. 15.—After a visit to the front, King George today issued a general order to the army in France, expressing his appreciation of the splendid condition and cheerful confidence of all ranks, and thru personal visits to the scenes of later desperate struggles, his understanding of the demands made upon the courage of the men and the physical endurance required to assail and capture positions prepared during the past two years,

FORCE STRONG LINES

Greatness of Artillery Preparation Required Makes Progress Slow.

PARIS, Aug. 15.—The apparent slow rate of progress by the French and British forces on the western front since July 1, as compared with that of the Russians on the eastern front, it is explained in military circles here, is due to the methodical nature of the entente offensive against a line of strongly fortified positions, extending virtually from the North Sea to Saloniki, and the fact that infantry must King George quietly inspected fields wait until the artillery has done its won by his troops on the Somme bat-le front. He was accompanied by the mpanied by the work. The front of the central powers in the western theatre of the war is much more strongly fortified than the front with which the Russian armies have had to deal, so the latter are in a years of bitter conflict. The methodical, if relatively slow policy of the entente leaders on the western front is held here to be justified by the fact that the losses in the field are now much smaller as compared with what they were earlier in the war. Nickel---What The World Has Done

DEFEND ATTITUDE ON NICKEL

Forced consideration of the nickel situation on two governments and a readjustment of their policies; also on both political parties. Forced the Ontario Government to appoint a nickel commission.

Forced the Ontario Government to twice adjust the tax contribution of the International Nickel Co. to the province; and another change is promised. Forced the international Co. to build a refinery in Ontario, aitho it said it could not be done, Compelled the British Government to only renew its contract

International Nickel Co. for one year. Compelled the British Government to give a ten-year contract for $50,-000,000 worth of nickel, spread over ten years, to a Canadian company. Compelled the British Government to guarantee $2,000,000 securities of the Canadian company and thus get rid of American-German capital. The new Canadian company is to build its entire plant in Canada, smelters and refinery. Directed attention to the enormous national and imperial potentialities in the control of nickel. As soon as smelting is done in Canada we will know the value of the product and what metals other than nickel are in the ore. And The World has shown the people of Canada that the International Nickel Co., by means of its agents and its peculiar methods, has stalled off the development of a nickel industry in Canada for twenty years; brought out the fact that Germany controlled the nickel production of Canada; that Germany has great stores of pickel in the States; that the International Nickel Co. is a vital part of the still wider international metal and munition trust that has had so much to do with this war. Also that German muni-against Canadian soldiers.

Hartley Dewart's meeting in the Oddfellows' Hall, Bathurst street, last night, was almost a record among political gatherings for the orderly, eagerly, attentive and intelligent audience. The place was comfortably filled with almost 250 people, among whom were four ladies. It was a solid, thoughtful and closely considering crowd, which did not applaud catchwords or party phrases, but became enthusiastic in evident appreciation of the importance of the new issues raised. Dr. John Hunter, for example, avowed himself a dyed-in-the-wool Liberal, but he declared that this did ot mean that he lived on the tradiions of George Brown or Alexander Mackenzie. He wanted The Globe and The Star to sand up and honorably tell they how they thought the people should vote. This view was heartily

He indicted the government generally for lenge, why Sir Adam Beck did not appear on Mr. Dewart's platform, considered that Sir Adam's failure to appear on any Conservative platform, and his silent position, was stronger than any words could be. Ald. Maguire brought down the house in a forcible and pointed speech, when he declared, "When Mr. Dewart accepted Sir Adam Beck's policy on the hydro, Sir Adam on the Ring.

It was Sir Adam Beck or the elecric ring they had to vote for, and he dded, amid applause, that there were Liberals with whom there would have to be a reckoning at the next election. But when Sir Adam was pleading his cause in Toronto the only Toronto member who appeared on his platform was W. D. McPherson. Half the audience rose and cheered and the applause was general when Mr. Dewart rose. He spoke well, clearly and simply and frequently stirred the meeting to enthusiasm. He said they had nail-ed two questions to the masthead last Saturday night—the great nickel issue, and the attitude of the government on the hydro issue. There had been much talk of prohibition and no prohibition. It reminded him of three merican gentlemen in Kentucky, who and some important business to trans-

It was announced this been a plank in the Conservative morning that the trenches that the platform, that it was Rowell and the Germans had entered in a counterattack northwest of Pozieres had been recovered in local fighting.

The official communication issued this evening says: "There has been the usual artillery bombardment at various places on the British front.
The situation is unchanged and there is no important incident to report."
The British afternoon communication says:

"As a result of local fighting northwest of Pozieres during the last two days we have retaken nearly the whole of the remainder of the trenches in which the enemy gained a footing early Sunday. Last night we also forced entry into the enemy's trenches near Mouquet farm, returning to our lines with eleven prisoners.

Two members of the Hearst Government, Hon. I. B. Lucas and Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, invaded the riding of Southwest Toronto last night ostensibly for the purpose of explaining the position of the government in relation to the nickel problem and the hydro-electric situation. Mr. Ferguson was to speak on nickel while Mr. Lucas, as a member of the Hydro-Electric Commission, was to announce the policy of the government on the hydro-electric and the hydroradials. Mr. Ferguson threw no new light upon the subject assigned to him, but devoted olmost his entire speech to a vitrolic denunciation of W. F. Maclean, M.P., and The Toronto World. Mr. Lucas touched lightly upon the but protested that there was absolute harmony and friendship between Sir Adam Beck and the Hearst Government. The meeting, which had been extensively advertised, was held in the Templars' Hali, Queen street and Dovercourt road, and R. J. Clarke presided. The attorney-general encountered many questions and interruptions, but he took them in good part and announced that he personally preferred a controversial meeting, and that he did not like one-sided affairs. Encouraged by this announcement, a mysterious individual, who refused to give his name, but who was said to give his name, but who was said to be from Owen Sound, at once announced his desire to discuss some grievance against the attorney-general's department. Col. Brown, general's department. Col. Brown, who was on the stage, arose and commanded the disturber to hold his peace, but encountered such an uproar of dissent from the audience that he precipitately retired. The grievance of the Owen Sound man had some reference to "two dirty Grits" that Mr. Lucas had retained in office, but he was finally induced to take his seat.

Prohibition Not Plank.
The hecklers on the prohibition question, however, were not so easily disposed of. They drove Mr. Lucas from one position to another until at last he said that prohibition had never Liberals who stood for prohibition, and Liberals who stood for prohibition, and that the Ontario Temperance Act might be substantially amended at the next session. He said that the election of Mr. Norris in Southwest Toronto would be interpreted by the government not as an endorsement of its temperance legislation but as a demand for a wine and beer license. The government, he said, will not be bluffed either by the hotelmen or by
