The Peace River Country

New Mecca of the Land Seeker Possesses: Temperate Climate, Ample Rain, Fertile Soil, Waterways, Water-Powers, Fish, Fur-Bearing Animals, and Economic Minerals

(Canadian Finance.)
The recent visits of a party of Edmonton business men and a party of Winnipeg bank directors to the Peace River country indicate that the commercial and financial interests of both these cities look to important developments in that new Mecca of the Land Seeker—a region that possesses temperate climate, fertile soil, ample rainfall, waterways, water-power, fish, fur-bearing animals and economic minerals.

New Peace River Pamphlet.
The Department of the Interior, at Ottawa, has just issued, through its Railway Lands Branch, a very comprehensive pamphlet dealing with the Peace River country. While a few pioneer settlers have been from time to time penetrating this portion of Northern Canada, it has only been within the past few years that it has been possible to regard the great Peace River Valley as within the reach of the home-seeker. The almost insuperable difficulties in taking supplies and machinery, and the corresponding task of marketing the crop rendered this fertile area of Canada's hinterland a veritable "terra incognita."

However, so long ago as 1876, grain from the Peace River country was being shipped to the east. Under the trophy in competition with the world at the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia. This publication deals with all the subjects which naturally suggest themselves to the average inquirer. Under the headings of Agriculture, Timber, Minerals, Game and Transportation, the pamphlet gives a mass of information. Climate and rainfall are also treated. The great amount of sunshine, and the large area of land of this description, extending for over eight hundred square miles, in a fertile locality and still awaiting settlement.

A great expanse of excellent farmland is located between the Birch and Milkwa Rivers. This land is primarily best suited for stock raising purposes. Large tracts of natural hay meadows, interspersed with rolling bush country, make this section an ideal one for the stock breeder; ample supplies of water exist everywhere and a luxuriant growth of natural grasses, including blue joint, fescue, and meadow grass, together with the wild-pea vine, furnish cattle feed in great abundance.

For the last three months, he continues, we have had no potatoes. The death rate is increasing alarmingly and because of the suffering endured. Numerous cases of insanity and sudden death have been especially noticed. But what is more maddening is the fear that exists among the people that his neighbor, or the man next him, may be a German agent. The suffering endured and the pressure of such a state of affairs on the mind are beyond imagination.

Industry in Alost, formerly prosperous, is at a standstill. Were it not for the aid given by the Belgian Relief Committee thousands of unemployed would be reduced to a state of famine.

The force of all the work done by the Belgian Relief Committee is brought out in this one statement made by one of the seven million of Belgians who would starve to death today were it not for the activities of the committee. This is a man speaking. Think what all this means to the women—think of the terrible anguish of the little children starved and suffering and not even understood why.

Tense Tale of a Night in "No Man's Land"

Times' Representative Visits the Scene of Thousands of Desperate Hopes, Thousands of Brave Raids and of Solitary Heroisms

This article has been read and passed by the censor at the General Headquarters of the British Army in France. (By F. A. McKenzie, Special Correspondent of The Evening Times, Copyrighted in Canada and in the United Kingdom.)
Brittish Headquarters, France, Sept. 29—"What!" said the colonel incredulously. "You have never been in No Man's Land! Come now, that's too bad. Go with the captain tonight." And the colonel proceeded to take his turn in the game of throwing rings on iron nails jutting out of the sand-bagged wall, in which he was randomly beaten by a young subaltern.

It was the brief pause before dinner. The average soldier will not admit that enemy artillery fire is heavy than the average officer on a liner would admit that the sea was rough. "Call this a storm!" sneers the Atlantic captain when the fiddles are on the table and the boat is shipping untold tons of water every dip. "You ought to have been with us in December, '14, when we had one upper deck nearly taken away. Then you might talk of a storm."

Then you might talk of a storm. "You ought to have been with us on June 2. Then the guns were just one continuous roar. This is nothing!" Only once have I known a soldier to admit that the Hun's guns were really troublesome. Even then he did not make the confession until our trenches were smashed-up. "Never mind," he said, "we have given them twice as bad as they gave us."

The game over, we moved on to the front. The walk through the communicating trenches is always wearisome. You twist and double and take twenty minutes to cover a distance that you could cover in five minutes on the surface. When you are absolutely untouched by frost, the production per acre amounted to forty-two bushels, height of straw 3 feet 10 inches and length of head four inches. Exceedingly satisfactory results were obtained with the garden and root crops and with the cultivation of alfalfa. Land of such a character is not limited to the Peace River country, but is a large area of land of this description, extending for over eight hundred square miles, in a fertile locality and still awaiting settlement.

A great expanse of excellent farmland is located between the Birch and Milkwa Rivers. This land is primarily best suited for stock raising purposes.
