Philadelphia, Oct. 4.—Were there ten times as many reserved seats at the local National League park, every one of them could already be disposed of. In other words, there are now in hand about ten applications for every reserved seat in the grounds. The management has not opened any of the mail received since Saturday noon, as it would be useless to handle any more applications. About 13,000 seats are reserved. There will be no public sale of reserved seats. Some 8,000 tickets for the bleachers will be disposed of at the park at public sale on the day of each game.

More Seats for Bleachers

The bleacher seats in the big league parks will do a comeback next year. Some years ago each park had from 5,000 to 10,000 bleacher seats. Then the managers decided that some of those seats were too nice for the twenty-five cent spectators, whereupon they divided the bleachers. The parts nearest home plate were changed to fifty cent seats, and only a few twenty cent seats were left. However, the ten cent bleachers policy inaugurated by the Feds has forced organized baseball to change its policy and the one time twenty-five cent seats that were boosted to fifty cents are pretty sure of becoming twenty-five cents in 1916.

President Can't Go

President Wilson in declining the invitation to attend one of the world's series baseball games in Boston, felt that he should not go so far away from Washington at this time. The president has promised to throw the first ball in Saturday's game in Philadelphia.

Planning Big Ice Meet

Plans have been completed for a big ice meeting at the Dorval course, Montreal, this winter. Pleased with the reception which the Montreal Grand Circuit meeting held a short time ago was given prompted the officials of the Dorval Jockey Club to make arrangements for a winter meeting. It is said that it will be one of the biggest ice meetings ever held in Canada and will take place immediately after the Ottawa meetings, probably in the last week in January or the first week in February.

SON FIGHTS SPALDING WILL

San Diego, Ca., Oct. 7.—Contest of the will of the late A. G. Spalding, baseball pioneer and millionaire sporting goods merchant, was entered immediately after the filing of the will for probate by Mr. Spalding's son, Keith, who charges that the will was procured through the undue influence of his wife, Elizabeth Churchill Spalding, and Mrs. Katherine Tingley, head of the Universal Brotherhood and Theosophical Society, at Point Loma, Cal.

Mr. Spalding died at his residence in Point Loma on Sept. 9 last. The contestant alleges that for several years before his death Mr. Spalding was not in his right mind, that his mental and physical strength was impaired by advancing age, by sickness and by business worries.

About $2,000,000 was accumulated by A. G. Spalding and his first wife, who died in 1899, according to the contestant. This, says Keith Spalding, was the result of the joint industry of his father and mother and was accumulated before the second marriage, which took place in 1900.

At the time of her marriage to Spalding, the contestant says, Mrs. Elizabeth Churchill was the intimate friend of Katherine Tingley, and was held up by Mrs. Tingley to the public as her successor in the command of the work and instruction of the Theosophical Society at Point Loma.

Immediately after the marriage, the contestant continues, Mrs. Spalding persuaded her husband to take up his residence within the grounds of the Theosophical Institution. The purpose of this, it is alleged, upon information and belief, was to alienate Spalding from his son.

Mrs. Elizabeth Churchill Spalding, the widow, who filed the will for probate, and who was named as executrix, estimated the estate to be worth $600,000. Keith Spalding, under the terms of the will, was to receive $100,000, of which he had already received $65,000. The adopted son, Albert Spalding, also was bequeathed $100,000, of which he had received $1,000. The remainder of the estate was left to Mrs. Spalding.

START OF WORLD SERIES TOMORROW

Large Sums of Money Being Bet on Result of the Games

If weather conditions are favorable, the great baseball series between the Philadelphia Nationals and the Boston Red Sox will be well under way tomorrow afternoon. As time draws near for the great contest the excitement of the fans naturally increases and large sums of money are being wagered on the outcome.

The name of Alexander is on the lips of every baseball enthusiast and many are so confident that he will carry his team through victoriously that they are staking all on the Phillies. The Red Sox supporters have a wholesome respect for the great right hander of the Phillies, but they also have confidence in Short, Foster, Leonard and Ruth—and justly so.

Those who have seen the Detroit Tigers play this season and also the Philadelphia Nationals, say that the Tigers looked more formidable, and if the Red Sox twirlers held them in check why can't they hold the Phillies? Alexander may prevent the Red Sox from hitting the ball, but it is not within his power to control the opposing twirlers or to make his team-mates hit so after all his team-mates are equally big factors in the coming strife.

The Red Sox have many good players and according to averages shade their rivals, thus it will be seen that the coming series will be a battle royal. The following statistics may be of interest:

RECENT WEDDINGS

MacMichael-Fitzpatrick.

Yesterday afternoon in the Portland Methodist church, where Rosalie E. Fitzpatrick, daughter of Samuel S. Fitzpatrick, was united in marriage to Ernest W. MacMichael, of this city. Rev. M. E. Conron performed the ceremony in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives.

After the marriage the bride and groom left for their honeymoon at the Hotel Killam, High street, where a dainty luncheon was served. Mr. and Mrs. MacMichael left on the Boston express for their honeymoon trip to the New England States. They received many beautiful presents. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome gold wrist watch.

Waltham-McVicar.

The wedding of Thomas Walsh of St. John, N. B., to Miss Helen McVicar of St. Stephen took place on Wednesday, October 6, in the Church of the Holy Trinity, St. Stephen, Rev. J. M. O'Flaherty officiating. The bride was given in embroidery a net over white satin and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. She was attended by Miss Mary Gillis of Newcastle, who wore pink crepe de chene, picture hat and carried a bouquet of carnations. A. G. Boyd of St. Stephen, the groom, wore a tuxedo and carried a sword. The ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Walsh left for a tour of cities in the United States, and on their return they will reside in West St. John. The bridegroom's present to the bride was a bracelet, to the bridesmaid a brooch, and to the best man a pearl pin.

Cole-Mott

Frederick Mott, Wednesday—Miss Mabel Claire Mott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Mott of Russagomish, left this morning for Portland, Maine, where she will be married this evening to Harry M. Cole, traveling salesman for T. Hobart Co. of Boston. The honeymoon will be spent at the Hotel McMichael. The prospective bride is a niece of Edward Moore of this city.

Many will be interested in the wedding of Miss Lillian Gleeson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Gleeson, 73 Elm street, Fairville, and Howard E. Murphy, of the New Brunswick Telephone Company, which was solemnized in St. Stephen on Oct. 4 by Rev. Father O'Flaherty. After a short honeymoon trip they will reside at 78 Exmouth street, this city. Mrs. Murphy is one of Fairville's most popular school teachers, and both she and Mr. Murphy have a large circle of friends who will wish them every happiness in their married life.

RIGHTS ASSURED TO RUSSIAN JEWS

London, Oct. 7.—W. A. Appleton, secretary of the General Federation of Trades Unions has issued a statement giving the result of representations made by him on behalf of the Workers' League for Jewish emancipation to M. Bark, the Russian finance minister, in the course of the latter's recent visit to London.

In a letter to Mr. Bark, Mr. Appleton said many thousands of Jews were full of concern as to the future of the Jews in Russia and would be glad to receive from him some word of encouragement, pointing out that many Jewish anxieties would be lessened and hopes increased if they could be assured that wherever they performed the duties of citizens they would receive the rights of citizens.

The communication brought an immediate invitation to meet M. Bark, who pointed out that problems of race and creed frequently created extraordinary difficulties for governments. Russia had, he said, her share of such difficulties. She had been anxious to overcome them and it had been for some time a question of discovering the best way. The Jews undoubtedly had claims for consideration and the government had been pressed to pass laws conferring additional rights upon them.

An attempt to pass laws of this description would, said M. Bark, have involved a controversy and perhaps hostility, and it had seemed wiser for the Russian government to take the situation entirely into its own hands, and confer liberties and privileges by administrative action in the almost certain hope of having this action endorsed and enlarged at the termination of the war.

The Russian government, the minister said, had proceeded upon the assumption that knowledge and association would break down prejudice and pave the way for greater privileges and liberties. It had consequently removed restrictions and was permitting Jews to settle down and live among the rest of the population. It was quite true that some districts were still closed to the Jews, mainly those inhabited by the Cossacks, but a continuance of this restriction was in the interest of the Jews themselves.

The minister added that Russia possessed within herself all that went to make up the life of a nation. What she needed were capital and enterprise. She knew the Jews could supply both. If these with liberal views would co-operate the New Russia would be happier and stronger than she had been under the old regime.
