

Veniot Replies To Baxter Over Grand Falls Contract Question; Takes Issue With Denunciation

of this development? The very agreement which the Premier's general remarks touching what he calls the wisdom of the Government in making a distinction between normal and surplus power and in controlling the limit on the quantity of power which the powers bound to sell, should such a policy be at any time adopted. I feel positive that a more careful study of this phase of the question would convince the Premier that if he accepts the advice of those who are interested in private ownership, he will be "rushing" in where angels fear to tread.

SOLICITUDE FOR CONCERNS.

"I cannot close without making some reference to the Premier's general remarks touching what he calls the wisdom of the Government in making a distinction between normal and surplus power and in controlling the limit on the quantity of power which the powers bound to sell, should such a policy be at any time adopted. I feel positive that a more careful study of this phase of the question would convince the Premier that if he accepts the advice of those who are interested in private ownership, he will be "rushing" in where angels fear to tread.

NO BRIEF FOR COMPANIES.

"Premier Baxter seems very severe in his condemnation of the International Paper Company. They held up the Grand Falls for a number of years without making any serious attempt to develop it. I have no brief for any of the companies which may be interested one way or another in the development of Grand Falls, but it does appear to me as if the Premier were going from the sublime to the ridiculous. The Premier and his friends, who did not during that period force the hands of this foreign company, as he now styles them? In 1923, when the government of which I was the leader, was convinced that the International Paper Company were not doing that which we thought they should do in connection with Grand Falls, we took the matter entirely out of their hands. Why did Dr. Baxter and his friends hesitate during a period of eleven years to do this? Was it the time to call this company to book, and not now try to crowd them out when they are prepared to invest large sums of money in this province.

CAPITAL INVESTED HERE.

"While it is true that the International Paper Co. is American by nature and birth, it is also true that the greater part of its capital is now invested in Canada, a considerable amount of which is in New Brunswick. They are now preparing to invest more in this province. Why does Dr. Baxter wish to discourage them? Does he not want to see our industrial life grow and expand? Which would be the best feature of our industrial life? Is it by having foreign capital come into our province, opening up new industries and giving employment to thousands of our own people by manufacturing our raw material into finished article at home? Or is it preferable that we should have the raw material, or semi-raw material, be transferred across the American border under the impetus of Canadian capital, to be manufactured into finished article, thus depriving our forest wealth for the benefit of foreign labor and markets and to the detriment of our own people, such as is being done today by the Fraser's Limited, at Edmundston? Dr. Baxter should be consistent. He is certainly not acting in the best interests of the province when he encourages shipment of our raw material to be manufactured across the border, and at the same time discourages the establishment of new industries here, even if the capital comes from Uncle Sam's domain.

PAPER CO. CONTRACT.

"In his general comments on the situation the Premier says that the contract with the Paper Company fetters the action of the Hydro Commission in every possible direction. No one knows better than Dr. Baxter that such is not the case. But, admitting for the sake of argument, that he is right, why does he not cancel the contract? Did he not loudly boast during the election that he could and would cancel any and all contracts entered into by the Veniot government, which he considered should not have been made. According to him the contract in question is "outrageous." Why not cancel it? Is the good doctor weakening, or does he find himself face to face with the situation that he must in some way pay the debt due the big interests who combined to bring about the defeat of the policy of public ownership in this province by defeating the Veniot government?

"It is no use," says Dr. Baxter, "to pass legislation interfering with the contract, for the province has no jurisdiction over the orders made by the International Waterways Commission." I have quoted the Order of the

TERRITORY AFFECTED BY SECURITY PACT

Waterways Commission, which distinctly shows that the Commission did not deal with the question of the agreement for the sale of power to the International Paper Company. Even if the agreement in question was made, it is a matter of record for reference, the direct order issued deals only with the question of compensation to be paid the Paper Company. The Premier cannot hide the attempt to destroy the policy of public ownership under the guise of his being unable to cancel the contract because of certain things contained in the Order in question. It is the height of nonsense, and is only resorted to for the purpose of providing an excuse for hedging on an issue which is of the utmost importance to the province.

"That I have reasonable grounds for my conclusions on this point is borne out by the Premier's own statements. He calls the only way out of the difficulty. He says 'the only way out is for a private corporation to be formed to acquire the lands within the province of New Brunswick for the prosecution of the enterprise and to develop Grand Falls with purely Canadian water.' And he adds 'This would give enough power to enable two pulp and paper mills to carry on.' By the way, would Dr. Baxter explain how he is going to obtain purely Canadian water? By what process would he separate the waters of international character flowing down the Saint John River? Is this part of the advice given by these forerunners of private ownership hydraulic engineers who have been for sometime in consultation with the present 'non-political' hydro commission?

POWER FOR INDUSTRIES

"Surely Premier Baxter cannot be serious when he says that the only way out of the difficulty which we are now facing is to hand the enterprise over to a private company. What about power for smaller industries? It is not by concentrating on two large industries already in existence that the development of Grand Falls, especially in the hands of a private company, is going to benefit the province as a whole. What about power for the smaller industries already in existence and for those which would be encouraged to locate in this province if we could furnish cheap power? What about the rural districts? Why create a monopoly for two pulp and paper mills and let the balance of the province suffer for want of industrial development? Let Premier Baxter carry on under the policy laid down by the late government. He will not only have power for two pulp mills and more, if they wish to locate here, but he will be able to encircle the province with electric energy, giving an even opportunity for industrial expansion to all sections of New Brunswick, bringing progress and comfort to urban and rural districts alike, and in a practical way help to keep our young people at home and prevent to a large degree that exodus from this province which the Premier in most eloquent terms is deploring during the last Federal election. He now has one of the greatest opportunities of his life to prove his sincerity to the electors of the province. Surely he will not allow the chance to slip by merely because he feels something should be done to recompense the advocates of private ownership who stood so loyally by him and his party in the last Provincial election.

CRISIS REACHED

"It is time that the people of New Brunswick took a more lively interest in our public matters. We have reached a crisis in our industrial development. No government should be allowed to barter away, on a mere flimsy pretext of this or that being not just right, our common heritage for the sake of political expediency. In conclusion let me say that, notwithstanding Premier Baxter's severe attacks against the contracts with the International Paper Company, I still say, and will continue to repeat with all my might, that the contracts or agreements with the Paper Company do not in any way jeopardize the ex-

Bird-Eating Flowers Put on Exhibition

LONDON, Nov. 11.—A striking exhibit at the orchid show of the Royal Horticultural Society at Vincent Square, which has just closed, was a plant named "Atacora Cristata," commonly known as the "Devil Flower," introduced from the East Indies.

It has grim-looking black flowers, the males being furnished with long black tails. It was exhibited by Mr. H. Dixon. Other exhibits included some "pitcher plants," which "catch" insects and absorb them. Some of these plants in their native East Indies catch birds. A Vanda-Luxoniana orchid, valued at $500 and said to be unique on account of the color of its flowers, was also exhibited.

High Post Gained by Error in Spelling

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Lord Marchamley, who as George Whiteley was chief Liberal Whip from 1905 to 1908, died recently at his home in Kensington after an operation. He was a Lancashire cotton spinner, and entered Parliament in 1885. He sat as Conservative for Stockport until 1900, when objections to the Agricultural Rating Act of 1909 led him to leave the party. He subsequently sat as Liberal member for Rudeby until 1908, when he was raised to the peerage.

It is said that his appointment as chief Whip was due to a mistake by Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, who wanted Mr. Whitley, the present Speaker, for the post. In the letter of appointment, "C. B." put an extra "e" in the name, and the document went to Mr. Whitley.

In one case the babe was wrapped in a newspaper.

The nurses are making a very urgent appeal for baby clothes and supplies of old linen.

The nurses last month made 1,409 visits and treated 243 cases.

The nurses are now supervising 34 babies receiving milk through the Women's Council's free milk fund.
