There is a rumor of negotiations for the purchase of the Portland Rolling Mills and that the president of the company has been given authority to close the deal if an agreement is reached. The one mentioned as the purchaser is a local man, but whether he is acting for himself of outside parties is not known. The report is not confirmed.

Copper market continues firm with decline in prices unlikely.

Some attention is given to the supreme court decision yesterday on contract for use of a patent. The decision was four to three and is likely to be reargued.

It is contended that the reaction of yesterday was made to shake out a weak following and to build up a short interest. That can be taken for what it is worth, if so the market will soon show it. It would be strange if the people who have bulled them so far should stop now, and the market can be watched now for support. Specialties in hands of pools may be more active. The leaders acted tired yesterday and believe they can be sold on the bulges.
